NOT Know What to Do in a Black Fog?—Why take a seat on the STAGE COACH now running to ST. ALBANS and BACK of course! The state of the atmosphere will prevent you from seeing the railway and the telegraph-poles, and enable you to "forget the spreading of the hideous town," as Mr. Morris has it in The Earthly Paradise; and you can play at being your own grandfather (or your grandmother, if you like) just as comfortably as if you were sitting at home in your best Chippendale armchair, with your feet on the brass fender in the wainscoted back parlour of that dear little red-bricked house of yours, taking snuff, and reading the "Gentleman's Magazine" for the "year one" by the light of a tallow candle. (N.B.—Mr. Punch means to try it himself.)—Vide "Punch," Jan. 21, 1888.

The Commercial Bank of Australia (Limited) is authorised, on behalf of the above company, to receive applications for an issue of £200,000 4 per cent. Irredeemable Debenture Stock, at £97 10s. per cent., payable as follows:

£5 per £100 on application.
£20 „ on allotment.
£72 10s. „ 30th January, 1889.
———
£97 10s.

The last instalment may be paid under discount at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum, on any Tuesday or Thursday after allotment.

Interest on the stock will be payable by half-yearly warrants on 1st January and 1st July of each year, the first half-yearly payment being on the 1st July, 1889.

The stock now issued forms part of the debenture capital of the company, which is limited to £960,000, being the amount equivalent to the uncalled share capital. The uncalled share capital has, under provisions of the articles of association, been assigned to the trustees for holders of debentures or debenture stock, and forms, with all other assets of the company, the security for both principal and interest.

The debenture stock now offered will rank equally with the Four and a Half per Cent. Irredeemable Debenture Stock (quoted in the Official List of the Stock Exchange) and Terminable Debentures issued under the borrowing powers of the company.

The result of the business, as stated in the duly audited balance sheet for the year 1887-1888, shows a net profit of over 20 per cent. per annum on the ordinary capital. Dividends have been paid at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum on the ordinary capital of £[illegible], and 6 per cent. on the preference capital of £412,000. Out of the undivided profits and premiums received on shares, the goodwill and preliminary expenses have been entirely paid off (amounting together to £117,420 15s. 11d.), so that the company is not only clear of all charge for goodwill, but a reserve account has also been created, which, after additions from the past year's profits and premiums on the recent issue of capital, will amount to the sum of £120,000.

The business of the company in Australia consists of advances upon the security of properties—freehold and leasehold—and of the agency connected therewith, including advances upon wool and other produce; the sale of properties, stock, wool, and other produce; the negotiation of loans, &c.; the profits being entirely derivable from interest, commission, exchange, and other agency charges. The business of the company in London includes the realisation of Australian produce, comprising consignments of wool to an amount which places the company in a leading position in the list of London wool importers.

The company's subscribed capital now amounts to £1,920,000, of which £[illegible] is called up—being nearly one-half of the entire amount subscribed, which is a larger proportion than in any company engaged in similar business. In most cases the amount paid up does not exceed one-fifth, and in some is only one-tenth. As the company can only issue debentures to an amount equal to the uncalled capital, the relatively large proportion of paid-up capital manifestly improves the security of debenture holders. The share capital is subscribed for by a body of over 700 shareholders.

It is intended to apply for a Stock Exchange quotation for the stock.

Applications should be made on the form attached to the prospectus, and forwarded, together with a deposit of £5 per cent. on the amount applied for, to the Commercial Bank of Australia (Limited), who will give any further information which may be desired.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

BUENOS AYRES NEW TRAMWAYS COMPANY (Limited).—Incorporated under the Companies' Acts, 1862 to 1886.—ISSUE of £150,000, in 30,000 CUMULATIVE £6 PER CENT. PREFERENCE SHARES of £5 each, redeemable after 1st January, 1910, at £20 per cent. premium, and £250,000 £5 PER CENT. DEBENTURES to bearer of £100 each, repayable at par within 40 years, by means of a sinking fund and annual drawings, commencing in 1900, and to be secured by a first mortgage of all the company's undertaking to trustees.

Messrs. Heinemann and Co. invite Subscriptions for the above Preference shares at par, and Debentures at £97 per cent., payable as follows:

Shares.			Debentures.
On application	£0	5 per share.	On application	£5	0 per cent.
On allotment	1	15 per share.	On allotment	25	0 per cent.
On 4th Dec., 1888	1	10 per share.	On 4th Dec., 1888	30	0 per cent.
On 4th Feb., 1889	1	10 per share.	On 4th Feb., 1889	37	0 per cent.
	£5	0		£97	0

Interest will be payable half-yearly. The first payment will be made on 1st February, 1889, on the instalments to that date.

Subscribers can pay up in full on allotment, or at the date fixed for payment of any instalment, under discount at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum.

Applications are to be made on form accompanying prospectus. In cases where no allotment is made the deposits will be returned, and where the allotment is less than the amount applied for, the balance of the deposit will be credited towards the payment due on allotment. Failure to pay any instalment when due will render the previous payments liable to forfeiture.

Scrip will be issued for the debentures against letters of allotment after payment of the first £30 per cent., and will be exchangeable for the debentures as soon as possible after payment in full.

The certificates of shares will be issued after the payment on allotment.

The list will be closed on or before Tuesday, 30th October.

The Buenos Ayres New Tramways Company (Limited) has been incorporated for the purpose of acquiring and carrying into effect the concession, dated 27th March, 1888, granted by the Municipality of the City of Buenos Ayres to Messrs. Peter A. Gartland and Company, authorising the establishment of a line of tramways in that city of about 35 miles, including the running over of about 3½ miles of existing lines.

This concession has been granted by the municipality in view of the great demand for increased facilities of locomotion. The population of the city has almost doubled since its last important tramway was built, and at present numbers over 450,000 inhabitants. The term of the concession is 60 years, at the end of which period the undertaking and rolling stock, &c. (but not the buildings), become municipal property.

A map showing the lines comprised in the concession accompanies the prospectus, and is believed to be correct. Many of these lines run through densely-populated streets, no part being at a greater distance than about 3½ miles from the commercial centre of the city, while all converge upon or connect with it, and it is believed that the new tramways, when fully developed, will be as remunerative as the existing lines.

According to published returns for 1887, the average net revenue for that year of the three existing English tramway companies in Buenos Ayres, after deducting loss on exchange, was £2,280 per mile, viz.:

Anglo-Argentine Tramways Company (Limited)	£1,686
Buenos Ayres and Belgrano Tramways Company (Limited)	2,419
City of Buenos Ayres Tramways Company (Limited)	2,606

The sum required to pay the interest on the preference shares and debentures of this company is £[illegible] per mile. Assuming that the company will earn only half the above average net revenue per mile, its receipts will be sufficient not only to pay interest on the preference shares and debentures, but about 6 per cent. on the ordinary shares. The published receipts of the above companies for 1888 show a considerable increase over those for 1887.

The debentures are redeemable at par within 40 years from the date of issue, by means of a sinking fund and annual drawings of the respective sums stated in the table on the back of the debentures, commencing in 1900, and will be secured by a first mortgage of all the company's undertaking to the above-named trustees. The right is reserved to increase the number of debentures drawn in any year on giving three months' previous notice.

The preference shares are made redeemable, at the option of the company or the shareholders, after 1st January, 1910, in order to ensure to the latter the return of their capital with 20 per cent. premium before the period when the concession will expire. The money required for the redemption is to be provided by an annual reserve fund out of profits, during the 19 years next after the extinction of the debenture debt in 1929.

A contract, dated 24th October, 1888, has been entered into between the company of the one part and William Lucius Morkill and Francis Arthur Bowen of the other part, whereby in consideration of the debentures and shares, or the proceeds thereof, the contractors undertake to procure the transfer of the concession to the company, to build up and equip all the tramways comprised in the concession, with suitable stabling, buildings, and rolling stock, and the necessary land, all to the satisfaction of the company's engineer, by the 1st October, 1890. The contractors also engage to pay all the expenses of the formation and registration of the company, and £25,000 for administration during construction and working capital. The interest on the debentures and preference shares is guaranteed for two years from the first general allotment, although the lines are expected to be completed in 18 months.

The total capital of the company is as follows:

Five per Cent. Debentures	£250,000
Six per Cent. Preference Shares	150,000
Ordinary Shares	75,000
	£475,000

The above contract, the concession and ordinances relating thereto, the memorandum and articles of association, the forms of the trust deed and preference share certificate, an agreement dated 11th August, 1888, between Messrs. Peter A. Gartland and Co. and Messrs. Heinemann and Co., and two agreements dated 24th October, 1888, between Messrs. Morkill and Bowen and Messrs. Heinemann and Co., as to the present issue and the payment of interest during construction, and other documents, may be inspected at the offices of the solicitors of the company, and subscribers will be deemed to have had notice thereof, and of any other existing contracts within the meaning of section 38 of the Companies Act, 1867, and to have waived any further compliance with that section.

Prospectuses and forms of application can be obtained of the Consolidated Bank (Limited), and at the offices of the company, and of Messrs. Heinemann and Co. Applications should be forwarded to Messrs. Heinemann and Co., and cheques be made payable to them, and crossed to the "Consolidated Bank (Limited)."

DOMINION OF CANADA.
ISSUE OF

CITY of MONTREAL THREE PER CENT. PERMANENT DEBENTURE STOCK for £940,000.—Minimum price of issue 93½ per cent.

Messrs. Baring Brothers and Co. are authorised to receive at their office, No. 8, Bishopsgate-street Within, on or before Wednesday, the 31st of October, 1888, at two p.m. (when they will be opened in the presence of such applicants as may attend) sealed TENDERS for £940,000 CITY of MONTREAL THREE PER CENT. PERMANENT DEBENTURE STOCK, with interest accruing in full from 1st November, 1888, payable half-yearly on 1 May and 1 November, at the office of Messrs. Baring Brothers and Co.

This issue is made under the provisions of an Act of the Provincial Parliament, passed on the 12th of July, 1888, and this Act limits the amount of issue of Debenture Stock to 15 per cent. upon the assessed value of the immovable property within the City, as set forth in the Memorandum annexed to the Prospectus, within which limit is included the outstanding debt; and the ultimate purpose of the entire issue is the conversion or redemption of the existing debt and the provision of funds for permanent works.

Tenders must be for the whole or part of £940,000, at a price not less than 93½ per cent., and the stock will be allotted to the highest bidder or bidders, pro rata, according to the price offered. Tenders at a price including a fraction of a shilling other than sixpence will not thereby have any preference.

Tenders by the same person at various prices must be made out and delivered separately.

Power is reserved to reject any tender which may be considered unsatisfactory, although such tender may be above the price fixed.

Payments will be required as follows:

5 per cent. on application; and on allotment the difference between 40 per cent. and the price tendered. The subsequent instalments must be paid as follows:

20 per cent. on the 11th December.
20 per cent. on the 8th January.
20 per cent. on the 8th February.

Payments of these instalments may be made in full under discount at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum on allotment, or on any Tuesday or Friday subsequent to the issue of scrip certificates. The failure to pay any instalment when due forfeits all previous payments.

The Debenture Stock will be transferable in amounts of £10 and upwards, but not in fractions of £1, at the office of Messrs. Baring Brothers and Co.

London, October 26th, 1888.

11, Copthall-court, London, E.C., 25th October, 1888.

The Union Pacific, Lincoln, and Colorado Railway Company is a consolidation of the Salina, Lincoln, and Western Railroad, the Oakley and Colby Railroad, and a new line, connecting these two branches of the Kansas Pacific system of the Union Pacific Railway Company, and may eventually be extended in a westerly direction through Kansas to Colorado.

The length of the road is 220 miles completed, running from Salina (Kansas), on the Kansas Pacific Railway, viâ Lincoln, Waldo, and Colby, to Oakley (Kansas), also on the Kansas Pacific Railway. It is not intended to build beyond Colby for the present, though under the mortgage a total issue of $15,000,000, at the rate of $20,000 per mile is authorised. The capital stock of the company is $27,500,000.

The first mortgage bonds are issued in virtue of a mortgage deed dated April 1st, 1888, in reimbursement of advances made by the Union Pacific Railway Company for building the road, and also for repayment of the prior bonds of the Salina, Lincoln, and Western Railway Company and Oakley and Colby Railway Company, all which prior bonds have been cancelled, and the mortgages discharged.

The development of Kansas, where the Union Pacific Railway Company has sold nearly all its land grant, made the extension of the Kansas Pacific system imperative, and caused the company to undertake the construction of this line. It runs through a most fertile country, and is essential to the Union Pacific system.

Under the terms of the mortgage a sinking fund is provided in which, in each year, must be deposited two-thirds of 1 per cent. of the nominal value of bonds outstanding, to be applied towards the purchase of First Mortgage Bonds at not above 105 per cent. and accrued interest. If not obtainable at this price, the trustee must invest the proceeds of the sinking fund and the interest accrued thereon in other bonds of the Union Pacific Main Line or branches, or in state, county, or city bonds, returning not less than 4 per cent. on the money invested.

The Union Pacific Railway Company has unconditionally guaranteed the payment of both principal and interest on these First Mortgage Bonds, by endorsement on each bond.

The Union Pacific Railway Company has, since 1884, considerably strengthened its financial position by applying the surplus earnings of its system, aggregating since that year about $11,500,000, to the payment of its floating debt and to the extension and improvement of its road and equipment.

By the adoption of this policy the company has been able, during the period from July 1st, 1884, to June 30th, 1888, to reduce its indebtedness of all kinds to the extent of $4,062,445, whilst at the same time increasing its total mileage from 4,419 to 4,764, and applying considerable amounts to improvements of the road and increase of equipment.

During the current year the Union Pacific Railway Company has consequently been able to provide, out of its own means, the greater part of the money required for the completion of about 125 miles of the Union Pacific, Lincoln, and Colorado Railway, so that out of the proceeds of the bonds now offered, about $1,000,000 will remain at the disposal of the Union Pacific Railway Company, which will apply the same to the purchase of further equipment.

According to a statement issued on the 24th inst. by the Union Pacific Railway Company (received by cable), the surplus of net earnings for the first six months of 1888, after providing for all fixed charges and Government requirements, is $250,000 in excess of the surplus during the same period of 1887. This statement further shows that the surplus for the 12 months from July 1st, 1887, to June 30th, 1888, amounts to about $3,500,000, equal to 5½ per cent on the share capital.

The following is a comparative statement, per June 30th, of the years 1884 and 1888:

	1884.	1888.
Total mileage	4,419·8	4,764·9
Total Funded Debt	$148,546,660·37	$148,612,029·51
Net Floating Debt	6,900,177·05	14,130·15
Debt per mile	35,170·61	31,191·67

From the Funded Debt is to be deducted the amount of the Government Sinking Fund, in the hands of the trustees of the Land Mortgage Bonds and of the Kansas Pacific Consolidated Mortgage Bonds, being a total of $21,709,000. The Funded Debt is thereby reduced to $126,903,029·51, being at the rate of only $26,633 per mile.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

PROVINCE of SANTA FE FIVE PER CENT. STERLING LOAN, authorised by Law, dated 3rd September, 1888.—ISSUE of £2,000,000 in BONDS of £1,000, £500, and £100, part of a maximum loan of £4,000,000. Principal and interest payable in London in sterling at the Counting House of Messrs. Morton, Rose, and Co., and in Amsterdam at the Counting House of Messrs. Hope and Co., at the exchange of the day, free from all Argentine National Government and Provincial taxes. The interest is payable half-yearly on 15th April and 15th October. The First Coupon for six months' interest is payable on the 15th April, 1889.

The loan is repayable on 15th October, 1923, unless previously redeemed by a cumulative sinking fund of 1 per cent. per annum. This sinking fund will be applied semi-annually by purchase of these bonds at or below par, and when above par by purchase of other bonds of the province, of the nation, or of provinces and municipalities of the Argentine Republic, or failing these by drawings at par. The Government reserve to themselves the right to increase the sinking fund whenever they think fit.

Issue price—£92 10s. per cent., payable as follows:

£20 „ on allotment.
£35 „ on 17th November, 1888.
£32 10s. „ on 2nd January, 1889.
£92 10s.

Payments in full can be made on any of the above dates, under discount at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum. Where no allotment is made the amount of deposit will be returned in full. In case a less number of bonds is allotted than are subscribed, the surplus of deposit will be applied towards payment of the amount due on allotment. In default of payment of the respective instalments at their due dates all previous payments will be liable to forfeiture.

Scrip certificates to bearer will be issued against allotment letters. The definitive bonds will be delivered as soon as possible after payment of all the instalments.

Messrs. Morton, Rose, and Co., London, and Messrs. Hope and Co., Amsterdam, are prepared to receive applications for the above-mentioned bonds, being the first-half of a loan authorised to be issued by the law of 3rd September, 1888.

The loan is authorised exclusively for the purpose of increasing to $25,000,000 the capital of the Provincial Bank of Santa Fe in accordance with the provisions of the Act of the National Legislature for regulating the issues of provincial banks, and, in addition to the security of the general revenue of the province, has the following special hypothecations, as enacted by the law of 3rd September, 1888, and as incorporated in the general bond, viz.:

First. Proceeds of the Real Estate Tax and proceeds of sale of public lands that may not be required for the obligation of the Six per Cent. Bonds outstanding, now amounting to £1,335,600, issued under the law of 14th March, 1883.

Second. The special hypothecation of all the property and assets of the Provincial Bank at present owned and that may be acquired out of the proceeds of this loan and all profits derived therefrom, after providing for the above-mentioned obligations of 14th March, 1883.

Third. A special charge upon the revenue derived from the Internal National Argentine Four and a Half per Cent. Bonds which the Provincial Bank must acquire to the extent of the nominal amount of this loan and deposit with the National Government for the purpose of securing its issue of notes in accordance with the National Law of 3rd November, 1887.

The Provincial Bank was established in 1874 with a capital of £100,000. Its capital was increased to $5,000,000 in 1883, since when its net profits have averaged over 10 per cent. per annum.

The Province of Santa Fe ranks next only to the Province of Buenos Ayres in importance and population. Its progressive prosperity during the past ten years has been unprecedented. A large portion of the immigration now going to the Argentine Republic goes into the Province of Santa Fe.

Railways have for some time past been pushed forward energetically, both through private enterprise and State aid. The railways privately owned, which include the Central Argentine, Buenos Ayres and Rosario, and Western of Santa Fe, actually opened for traffic represent about 845 kilometres and 313 kilometres under construction. The Government lines, which include the Northern and the Western and Central Colonies and Santa Fe and Reconquista Railways, open for traffic represent 368 kilometres and 230 under construction. The Governor of the Province in his message to the Legislature, on the opening of the Chambers for the present year, anticipated that before long the province will have 2,500 kilometres of railway within its limits.

The finances of the Province are in a sound and flourishing condition. The external debt, secured upon the assets of the Provincial Bank, exclusive of the present loan, amounts to £1,335,600, the interest charge on which has been met out of the profits of the bank, entailing no charge upon the general revenue of the Province. The Province have also issued 5 per cent. bonds to the extent of £3,573,300, secured upon the Northern and Western and Central Colonies and the Santa Fe and Reconquista Government Railways. Negotiations are in progress for the sale of these lines for a sum sufficient to redeem the bonds secured thereon.

The revenue of the Province, which amounted in 1885 to $1,128,000, in 1886 to $1,827,000 and in 1887 to $2,651,086, is constantly increasing and considerably exceeds the expenditure.

The principal sources from which the Province derives this revenue are—Real estate tax, licences, stamped paper, slaughter tax, hide tax, sale of public lands, profits of the Provincial Bank, and profits of its railways.

The exports and imports of the Province for 1886 were of the value of $19,000,000, and for 1887 $27,300,000. Rosario, the principal city of the Province, is rapidly increasing in importance.

A copy of the general bond is enclosed with the prospectus.

Applications must be made in the form accompanying the prospectus, and lodged at the Counting House of Messrs. Morton, Rose, and Co., with a deposit of £5 per cent. on the nominal amount applied for.

Translations of the Law authorising the loan and of the general bond can be inspected at the office of Messrs. Bompas, Bischoff, Dodgson, and Coxe, 4, Great Winchester-street, London, E.C.

SPECIAL.

WOLVERINE.

AS a rule I do not recommend the purchase of mining shares, but in the case of the SILVER WOLVERINE (Limited), the prospectus of which was issued yesterday, I have every reason to believe that this is a very valuable property, situate as it is in the New Silver Region, tributary to Port Arthur, Canada, where numerous mines are now working and yielding ore of the phenomenal richness of 10,000 to 27,000 ounces of silver to the ton, the adjoining property to the Wolverine giving 3,000 to 4,000 ounces to the ton. This district being almost unknown in England at present, it is only a matter of time before similar properties will be placed on our markets, and with the usual rush of investors and speculators the shares of such companies will, in all probability, reach high premiums, and the first in the field is everything. The prospectus contains an extraordinary amount of information from authoritative sources.

SPECULATIVE INVESTMENTS.

ARGENTINE HARD DOLLARS.—My latest issued advice for speculative investment was Argentine Hard Dollars. These I recommended when they stood at 60. A purchaser would have since received a quarter's dividend of £9 5s. 9d. on 5,000 dollars, the equivalent of £1,000 stock. They have since been 73½, so that, allowing for the accrued increase in value, a purchaser would have received interest at the rate of over 25 per cent. per annum on the amount invested, and had they been purchased with a cover of 2 per cent. the profit secured would have been at the rate of 862 per cent. on amount invested.

I again repeat I have been invariably right in my speculative investments. I only recommend good dividend-paying stocks, and I think this system of making money well worth your attention.

IMPORTANT TELEGRAPHIC ARRANGEMENTS.

I WISH to call close attention to a new departure in my business, which is of the utmost importance to country dealers. I have made arrangements with the Post Office for a direct wire into my own offices, thus saving some ten to twenty minutes on messages. I need hardly point out the advantages to customers dealing at a distance, who are thus put in actual contact with my offices from every part of the United Kingdom. Thus a message sent from MY CITY OFFICES to MANCHESTER is DELIVERED in FIVE MINUTES.

DEVONSHIRE CHAMBERS, Bishopsgate-street, London, E.C.

WE are OPENING a SPECIAL OPTION POOL in MEXICAN CONVERTED BONDS, 1888, on MONDAY NEXT, Oct. 29, for the RISE.

THE PERU SIX PER CENT. POOL, opened September 21, has been CLOSED with a PROFIT of 60 per cent. and the return of the option money. Cheques were posted to clients Wednesday, Oct. 17.

THE MILWAUKEE POOL for the RISE, opened Sept. 26, has been CLOSED with a PROFIT of 50 per cent., and also the return of the option money. Cheques were posted to clients on Oct. 2.

THE original Cheques and Copies of Contracts can be seen on application.

The "Financial News" of Oct. 22 says:

"President Diaz, in his Message to the Mexican Congress, made several important statements as to the improving financial position of the Republic. The whole of the floating debt bearing interest has, he said, been redeemed. The operations for the conversion of the foreign and internal debt were also going on with regularity. The contractors for the new loan had exercised their option for a further sum of £2,100,000, with which a proportionate amount of Three per Cents. had been withdrawn at the agreed rate of 42. The operation thus referred to by President Diaz has, we understand, made further progress since the date of his Message. The £2,100,000 of Six per Cents. would liquidate £3,300,000 of the old Threes. At the present moment, however, the amount liquidated exceeds £7,000,000. The £15,000,000 of debt which Mexico had before the recent loan was brought out has been reduced by one-half. The credit of the country has correspondingly gained, and the condition of the Treasury is so much the healthier. In all its history as a self-governing country, Mexico has never been in a sounder or easier financial position than now."

OPTIONS are the simplicity of Stock Exchange dealings, although so little brought to the notice of the public that, by them, they are often, from their title, considered to be full of intricacies.

They are of two classes, distinguished by the terms "Put" and "Call." The "Put" partakes of the character of the "Bear," or selling operation, the "Call" resembling the "Bull," or buying operation, in ordinary speculative dealing. In practice they are, however, totally different, ordinary speculative dealing being only partially protected by "Cover"—whether as regards time or amount of money deposited—while Options, carefully selected by an experienced firm, making the system a perfect study, are practically without limit of profit and almost absolutely assured of it.

WE are OPENING a SPECIAL OPTION POOL in MEXICAN CONVERTED BONDS, 1888, on MONDAY NEXT, Oct. 29, for the RISE.

ONE STRIKING ADVANTAGE of "OPTION POOLS" is, that while a larger proportionate amount is required to be first laid out than in the case of "cover," the duration of the bargain for the intervening 30 days places the operator beyond the risk of loss from momentary fluctuation or panic, no matter how severe, and he is exempt from all ordinary charges of "commission," "contango," &c.

ANOTHER ADVANTAGE which it presents is the controlling power conferred upon the leader by the number, and consequently, large amount, representing the subscription, tending to sustain or depress the stock dealt in, as may be desired.

In this benefit all subscribers—"large and small"—participate in equal proportions.

It is also more especially well adapted to the operations of country clients, as by it they are relieved from the anxieties which must prevail when rumours are rife, and these are frequently resorted to with more or less success, against the ordinary speculator, while at the corresponding period the holder of an option is exempt from their influence.

FROM the NATURE of our INFORMATION we consider the loss on these operations to be reduced to the lowest minimum.

THE SHARES in our OPTION POOLS cost as follows, for thirty days:

5 12 6 commands 1 share in Pool.
[illegible]

And so on, in like proportion, without further liability.

A STILL FURTHER ADVANTAGE is that every client knows the exact amount of stock he has open, and thus by watching the daily papers can at once see what profit he is making. This is an advantage which is afforded by no other "Pools" except those inaugurated by Messrs. Smith and Beresford.

IN reply to numerous inquiries, we beg to inform our CLIENTS that they can OPEN a SEPARATE ACCOUNT, or JOIN our POOLS, just as they like. We make no charge for advice to clients, and they can either choose their own stock to speculate in, or leave the selection to us. We always post contracts the same night, and send telegrams free when required.

IT will not be deemed out of place to quote verbatim the following recently unsolicited Press notices on our "Option" system.

"Stocks and Shares," of Oct. 20, 1888, says:

"We were asked by Messrs. Smith and Beresford to inspect the cheques and vouchers relating to the Pools they have just closed. Our representative accepted their invitation, and his report was most satisfactory. All members of the Pool just closed received back their option money with a net profit of 60 per cent. This we think is unprecedented in the annals of Pool dealing."

The "Stock Exchange" of Oct. 6 says:

"There is a good deal to be said for speculation by 'Options,' which has been described by a high authority as 'of all methods of speculation the most prudent, as it is the most sensible, for all parties concerned.' We have before us a pamphlet on this subject, which is issued by Messrs. Smith and Beresford, of Devonshire-chambers, Bishopsgate-street, and we advise any one who wants to speculate by options to study it. It explains the method with brevity and clearness, and no one who gives half an hour to its consideration can afterwards complain that he risked his money not knowing what he did. Messrs. Smith and Beresford have been very fortunate in recent transactions."

MONEY MARKET.

THURSDAY EVENING.

No change was made in the Bank "minimum," and the discount market showed a rather firmer tendency, though rates were unaltered. Three months' bills were quoted 3 per cent., and six months' 2¾, 3. Loans were in only moderate request at 1½, 2 per cent. till to-morrow, and 2½, ¾ till Saturday, thus covering the settlement. A good demand is expected in connection with the final completion of the liquidation, but no pressure is looked for, as on the last occasion. Meanwhile, a large amount of money, derived from recent South American loans, is being lent from day to day. It is probable that a portion of this sum will be shortly required for the shipment of gold, and this circumstance doubtless partly accounts for the retention of the official terms at 5 per cent. Bullion is still being sent, it is stated, from the Continent to Buenos Ayres, and the Bank of France figures show a fresh decrease of about £280,000 in the gold, making a total diminution of £3,168,000 since the commencement of the present year. Any further efflux of importance is likely to be checked by restrictive measures of some kind, especially as an enormous French loan is believed to be impending and the relations of the Republic with Germany are not improving. No noteworthy movement occurred in the Berlin exchange, but a decline is expected from sales here of stock and beetroot sugar. The Bank of England return exhibits a decrease of £317,940 in the note circulation, and an increase of £149,080 in the bullion, or together £467,020, which is the addition to the reserve. The proportion is also 2⅞ per cent. higher, at 38⅞ per cent., mainly due to a reduction of £718,750 in the public and private deposits. Repayments by the Chancellor of the Exchequer have caused a decrease of £800,000 in the Government securities, and the other securities are £429,640 less. The next weekly statement will be affected by home currency wants, and the reserve may be further reduced by a revival of the demand for gold for export.

On the Stock Exchange attention was again directed to the settlement, yet dealings were more numerous, and a rise occurred in prices. Purchases were encouraged by the ease in money and the fine weather. Furthermore, the liquidation is expected to be completed without any troubles. The Funds scarcely varied, but Colonial Government debentures rose ½ to 1 per cent. on purchases for trustees under the authority of the Supreme Court. English railways showed dulness in the earlier hours, and closed at a general rise, chiefly in response to the more favourable news from the coal districts. American railroads were flat at one time, but left off firm, especially New York Centrals, Norfolk and Westerns, and Lake Shores. Grand Trunks were neglected, the decrease in the traffic for the past week (£2,132) being about equal to expectations, while the only change in Mexican (Vera Cruz) stocks was a decline of ½ in the First Preference. An almost general advance took place in foreign bonds, in sympathy with an upward movement on the Bourses. Egyptian, French, Greek, Italian, Russian, Spanish, and Turkish Group One were chiefly bought. Argentine and Buenos Ayres Cedulas were also up, and Ecuador improved 1½, owing to a proposed settlement of the debt. Cable and bank shares were steady, but New Zealand relapsed ⅛. In miscellaneous, Canada Land fell 2½, while South African Exploration rose ⅝. Diamond mines were strong, notably Kimberley Central, De Beers, and Jagersfontein, which experienced a rise ranging from 1 to nearly 2. The inquiry extended to copper undertakings and some of the South African gold.

As customary, the Stock Exchange and the Transfer Offices at the Bank of England will be closed on Nov. 1 (Thursday next).

Gold worth £10,000 was bought by the Bank.

Bar silver, although quotably unaltered, at 43⅜d per ounce, was weak. Bombay Transfers declined 1-16d, to 1s 4⅛d, Calcutta 1-32d, to 1s 4 17-32d, and Bills in Shanghai ⅛d, to 4s 3⅝d. Rupee Paper was inactive and without change. A special allotment of Bills on Bombay, to the amount of £2,000, at 1s 4 19-32d, has been made by the India Council.

The Coromandel, from Australia, has reached Colombo with £35,000 in specie. Bar silver amounting to £10,380 has been taken, chiefly for Bombay, by the Peshawur, and £12,400 for Calcutta by the Ganges.

Renewed firmness was reported on the Continental Bourses, and most securities improved in Berlin and Paris. At 82f 62½c the Three per Cent. Rentes were 12½c higher; but the Four and a Half per Cents. showed no variation at 105f 70c. The exchange on London (cheques) was steady, at 25f 33c.

Compared with last post day some of the foreign exchanges receded, including quotations on Holland, Germany, and Italy. The Paris rate, however, showed a firmer tendency, owing to the retention of the Bank rate at 5 per cent.

According to the Bank of France return money has been in only moderate demand in Paris, and the note circulation exhibits a decrease of £1,494,640. Bills discounted have diminished £963,640, other accounts current £354,360, and advances to the public £190,560. Gold in hand is also £279,600 less, while silver has augmented £134,720, and Treasury account current is larger by £1,528,560. The proportion between bullion and circulation is 86·26 per cent. Profits for the week amount to £24,960.

An official decree of the Congress of Ecuador authorises the appointment by the Council of Foreign Bondholders of a commissioner in Guayaquil, with full powers to arrive at an arrangement of the External Debt.

Messrs. Baring Brothers and Co. will receive tenders on or before Wednesday next for City of Montreal Three per Cent. Permanent Debenture Stock amounting to £840,000. The minimum price is 82½ per cent., and 5 per cent. is payable on application. Interest will accrue from Nov. 1 next, and will be paid half-yearly in London. A memorandum attached to the prospectus states that the present issue is for the purpose of meeting bonds redeemable in 1888-89 and providing funds for important permanent works.

Applications are invited by Messrs. Morton, Rose, and Co., of London, and Messrs. Hope and Co., of Amsterdam, for an issue, at the price of 92½ per cent., of a Province of Santa Fé Five per Cent. Sterling Loan for £2,000,000, forming part of a total of £4,000,000. Principal and interest will be payable in London and Holland at the exchange of the day, free of all Argentine taxes. The first coupon for six months' interest is due on April 15 next. Unless previously redeemed by a cumulative sinking fund of 1 per cent. per annum, the bonds are repayable in 1923. The prospectus also states that the object of the loan is to increase to $25,000,000 the capital of the Provincial Bank of Santa Fé.

Subscriptions will be received by the Commercial Bank of Australia (Limited) for £200,000 Four per Cent. Irredeemable Debenture Stock of the Union Mortgage and Agency Company of Australia (Limited). The price is 97½ per cent., of which 5 per cent. is payable on application, 20 on allotment, and 72½ on Jan. 30 next. The list will be closed on or before Tuesday next.

An issue of $4,400,000 Five per Cent. First Mortgage Gold Bonds of the Union Pacific, Lincoln, and Colorado Railway Company is notified by Messrs. Blake, Boissevain, and Co. The price is £196 10s per bond of $1,000, with both principal and interest guaranteed by the Union Pacific Railway Company. The prospectus mentions that the length of the road in Kansas is 220 miles completed, running from Salina to Oakley. Applications will be received on Tuesday next, and the list will be closed on or before the following day.

For the week ended Oct. 20 the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada traffic return exhibits an increase of £543, while the Chicago and Grand Trunk shows a decrease of £2,180, and the Detroit, Grand Haven, and Milwaukee £495, making a net decrease of £2,132, and of £106,459 for sixteen weeks to date. The Canadian Pacific Railway receipts for the seven days ended Oct. 21 were $298,000, against $276,000 last year. The aggregate traffic from Jan. 1 to date amounted to $10,204,000, or $1,473,000 in excess of last year. The gross earnings of the Mexican Central Railway for the third week in October were $96,443, against $100,007 last year. The Guadalajara line receipts amounted to $9,807.

It is intimated by the Eastern Extension, Australasia, and China Telegraph Company (Limited) that the coupon on their Five per Ct. Debentures (1880 issue) due Nov. 1 will be paid on and after that date at the Consolidated Bank, Threadneedle-street, E.C.

With regard to the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad Company, Messrs. John K. Gilliat and Co. give notice that Coupon No. 36 on the Old First Mortgage Bonds due Nov. 1 will be paid after that date at their counting-house, at the rate of £7 4s 5d per bond of $1,000.

Letters of allotment in the Callington United Mines (Limited) and the Pradena Silver Mines (Limited) have been posted.

SPECIAL MARKET REPORTS—THURSDAY.

METROPOLITAN CATTLE.—The cattle trade has been dull. Beasts have sold very slowly, and have been weak in value. The top price for best home-fed stock was 5s 10d. There were 300 Canadians offering which went for 3s 6d to 5s 4d per 8lb. A moderate supply of sheep was in the pens, including 1,350 from Canada. There was a very inactive market at weak currencies. The best Downs sold at 6s to 6s 2d per 8lb. Calves sold at late rates. Pigs were steady. 40 English milch cows £15 to £22 per head. Per 8lb to sink the offal:

Inferior beasts	2s 6d	to	3s 0d	Prime crse. wooled	5s 8d	to	6s 0d
Second quality	3s 6d	..	4s 0d	Prime Southdns.	6s 0d	..	6s 2d

TOTAL SUPPLY.		FOREIGN SUPPLY.
Beasts	730	Beasts	300
Sheep and lambs	[illegible]	Sheep and lambs	1,350
Calves	40	Calves	—
Pigs	[illegible]	Pigs	—
Milch cows	40	Milch cows	—

METROPOLITAN MEAT.—A moderate supply was on offer. The trade was slack, at the annexed rates: Beef, 2s 6d to 4s 2d; mutton, 2s 4d to 5s 4d; veal, 4s to 4s 4d; and pork, 3s to 4s 0d per 8lb by the carcase.

DEPTFORD FOREIGN CATTLE.—Number of animals in the market this day: Beasts, 1,051; calves, 219; sheep, 4,548.

SHADWELL FISH.—Supply fair; demand good. Prices: Mixed prime, 20s to 30s; turbot, 35s to 45s; soles, 110s to 120s; haddocks, 5s to 7s; plaice, 17s to 21s; cod, 5s to 6s; skate, 6s to 7s; roker, 5s to 6s per trunk.

WHITECHAPEL HAY AND STRAW.—There was a large supply on sale. The trade was dull and prices were with difficulty maintained. Prime clover, 97s to 104s; inferior, 75s to 90s; prime meadow hay, 90s to 100s; inferior, 60s to 80s; and straw, 32s to 40s per load.

METALS.—Messrs. Morrison, Keswick, and Co. report: "Copper—Steady; £78 5s to £78 15s for spot G.O.B.'s, £78 15s to £79 5s three months; G.M.B.'s, £77 17s 6d to £78 7s 6d; three months £78 10s to £79; Wallaroo, £88; Burra, nominal; tough, £83; best, £82 10s; sheets, £88. Yellow Metal—7¼d to 7½d. Tin—Highest, £103 2s 6d; lowest, £102 17s 6d; market quiet; £103 to £103 10s Straits; £102 7s 6d to £103 17s 6d Australian; £103 10s to £106 English. Lead—£13 12s 6d English; £13 10s Spanish. Spelter—£18 17s 6d to £19. Quicksilver—£9 10s first hands; £9 second hands. Antimony—£40 10s to £43 10s. Iron—Scotch pigs, 41s 3½d to 41s 5d; closing, buyers, at 41s 4½d." (Official) Report of the London Metal Exchange.—Closing prices: Copper—Chili bars, G.O.B.'s, cash, £78 5s to £78 15s; ditto, three months, £78 15s to £79 5s; G.M.B.'s, cash, £77 17s 6d at £78 7s 6d; ditto, three months, £78 10s at £79. Tin—Lowest, £102 17s 6d; highest, £103 2s 6d; fine foreign, cash, Straits, £103 to £103 10s; Australian, £103 7s 6d to £103 17s 6d; three months, Straits, £103 10s to £104.

BIRMINGHAM TRADE.—Now orders were not very plentiful on 'Change to-day, though there was a good attendance, but the advance in coal has helped to further strengthen the iron trade, and prices of all makes, except marked iron, have advanced since quarter day, and makers are well employed for the present. The advance is most marked in pig and common bars. The latter are quoted from £5 10s upwards, and the top margin of marked bars is now £8 2s 6d, single sheets £6 15s, doubles £7 5s, Northampton pig 42s 6d.

BRADFORD TRADE.—Business just now is pretty good, and the market apparently sound and healthy. Chief complaint is that profits are small, but the consumption is large, and the machinery of the district is more generally employed than for some time past. Wool is still hardening, and the finer descriptions, including South Downs and half-breds, and other staples of good quality, are advancing slightly. Buyers operate charily at the advance, but transactions are frequent, if small. Mohair and alpaca are firm, and mohair yarns are in great request. Spinners of these yarns have taken orders pretty freely during the week, and are putting up their prices. The tendency in worsted yarns is also too advanced, and this tendency checks business. The piece trade is better than for some time past, particularly in dress materials.

GLASGOW IRON.—Markets steady. Fair business at 41s 4d, 41s 3½d, 41s 1d, 41s 5d, 41s 4½d cash; 41s 7d, 41s 7½d, month; buyers, 41s 4½d cash, 41s 7½d month; sellers near. Middlesbrough buyers 34s cash, 34s 3d month; sellers, 2d higher. Hematite—Done at 44s 4½d, 44s 5d cash; buyers, 44s 4½d cash; 44s 8d month; sellers, 44s 6d cash, 44s 10d month.

LIVERPOOL COTTON.—Sales of the day, 10,000 bales; on speculation and for export, 1,000. American unchanged. East Indian firm. Fully good Broach, 1-16d; Comptah, fair and good fair, 1-16d; good, ⅛d higher. Egyptian quiet, unchanged. Brazilian, 1-16d higher. Peruvian in moderate request, at generally unchanged rates. Middling Upland, 5⅝d; ditto Orleans, 5⅝d; fair Pernam, 6d; ditto brown Egyptian, 6d; fair Dhollerah, 4½d; good ditto, 4 11-16d; fair Oomra, 4 5-16d; good ditto, 4 11-16d. Futures steady.

CORK CORN.—42cwt red wheat, 7s 6d; 1,140cwt barley, 6s 6d to 7s 6d; 1,220cwt black oats, 4s 9d to 5s 1½d; 96cwt white oats, 5s 9d to 6s.

MANCHESTER CORN.—Trade has remained slow since last market, without much variation in values. There was an average attendance at our exchange to-day, but the general tone was quiet. Wheat in favour of buyers, though not quotably lower. Flour steady, with a fair inquiry. Oats, beans, and peas unchanged. Maize was in moderate consumptive request, at a decline of 1d per cental from previous currencies.

BRISTOL CATTLE.—Beef moderate supply, but quality indifferent and trade slow. Best beef fetched 61s per cwt, and other sorts 50s to 60s. Sheep—Fair supply, wethers making 8½d to 9½d, and ewes 7d. Bacon pigs made 9s per score, and porkers 9s 6d to 10s 9d. 1,800 store cattle offered, for which trade was quiet.

CHESTER CATTLE.—There was quite an average supply of store cattle, which fully maintained the increased prices quoted at the last market, good milch cows being again in keen request, at advancing figures. The quotations were good: Milch cows, £15 to £21; in-calf heifers, £12 to £16; good barrens, £10 to £12; three-year-old heifers, £12; small stirks, £6. Useful sheep fetched from 35s to 40s, and horned sheep from 28s to 35s each.

CHESTER HORSE.—There was a great number of horses shown of every description, for which there was a capital demand, especially for cart horses suitable for town work, which realised higher prices, namely, from £30 to £70; cart horses adapted to the farm fetched from £25 to £35; good trap horses, £15 to £20; and useful Welsh ponies, £5 to £10.

CORK BUTTER.—Ordinary: Firsts, 110s; seconds, 96s; thirds, 85s; fourths, 75s. Kegs: Thirds, 74s. Mild-cured firkins: Superfine, 115s; fine, 102s; mild, 100s. In market, 1,237 firkins (204 mild).

PRODUCE MARKETS—THURSDAY.

SUGAR.—There was little doing in the cane market to-day, and the sales reported have been small, while beetroot, which opened firmer at some improvement, has since become weaker, the closing quotations being 13s 1½d for German 88 per cent., Oct., and 13s 10½d, less ½d, for Nov.-Dec., f.o.b. In the refined market the small quantities of pieces offering met with a good demand at steady prices, while other sorts were without alteration.

COFFEE.—Small quantities offered at auction went off at full prices. 200 bags picked [illegible] Singapore sold at 72s 6d to 75s 6d; 451 bags Costa Rica were partly sold at 80s to 87s 6d; and 150 bags new Grenada at 83s to 89s 6d; while 170 bags fair channel Rio, ex quay terms, were bought in at 72s. In futures, 5,000 bags fair channel Rio have been sold at stiffer prices, the closing official quotations being 62s 6d Oct., 63s Nov., 62s 6d Dec., 63s 3d Jan.-Feb., 63s 6d March-May, 63s 3d June, and 63s July-Sept.

RICE.—Steady, but no sales reported.

COTTON.—Quiet, at about late rates, for East Indian, and one to two points better for American futures.

JUTE.—Firm, at full prices, and about 5,000 bales reported sold for arrival on c. f. and i. terms.

OILS.—Linseed—Steady, at £19 10s for pipes landed. Rape—Quiet on spot and easier for future arrival, viz., £20 10s for brown on spot, and £21 for refined. Cotton—Crude on spot quoted £20 15s for new, and £20 5s for old; refined, £22 5s, and Hull better at £20 17s 6d spot. Turpentine—Quiet, at 33s 9d for American spirits on spot, 34s Nov.-Dec., and 34s 6d to 34s 9d Jan.-April. Petroleum—Rather better, at 6 11-16d to 6 13-16d for American on spot, 6 15-16d Nov.-Dec., 6⅞d Jan.-April, and 6½d for Russian on spot.

Probate of the will (dated Feb. 4, 1885) of the late Major-General Samuel Alexander Madden, of Freelands, Wherwell, Andover, has been granted to the executors, his brother-in-law, Mr. Frederick Hornby, of Sandown, Wavertree, Liverpool, and his nephew, Mr. Oliver Heywood Jones, of West Derby, near Liverpool. General Madden, who died on March 13 last, aged sixty-four years, was in the Burmese War of 1852-53, with the Umbeyla Expedition in 1863, and in the Afghan War of 1878-79. The testator bequeaths to his sister, Mrs. Thomasine Marshall, £200, and the income for life of all the residue of his property to his wife, Mrs. Matilda Theresa Madden, daughter of the late Mr. Hugh Hornby, of Sandown Hall, Wavertree. On her decease the testator bequeaths certain plate to his brother Charles, the remainder of his plate to his adopted son Edward, and the residue of his personal estate to such appointment as his said wife may have made. All his real estate in Queen's County and counties Cork and Kilkenny the testator devises in trust for his said adopted son. The value of the personal estate has been declared at £3,752 19s 6d.

THE NAVY.—Instructions have been issued by the Admiralty for the screw gun-boat, Pheasant, 6 guns, 755 tons, 1,200 h.p., to be commissioned at Devonport on 30th inst., for service on the Cape of Good Hope and West Coast of Africa Station, to relieve the Goshawk. This will be the first time she has hoisted the pennant, having been launched only last April. At the Admiralty yesterday the following appointments were announced: Lieutenant—Charles Langdale Ottley, to the Vernon, additional (to date 25th inst.). Staff Surgeons—Myles O'Connell M'Swiny, to Haslar Hospital, temporary; Richard Dormer White, to the Hotspur (both to date 25th inst.); John Allen Robertson, to the Penelope (undated). Surgeon—John Walter Slaughter, to the Pheasant (to date 30th inst.). Gunner—William Pearce, to the Excellent (to date 25th inst.).

A DISABLED GUNBOAT.—Yesterday her Majesty's ship Pigmy, which has just been built at Sheerness Dockyard, left her moorings for a twelve hours' full power trial, to determine the acceptance of her machinery from the contractors. About half an hour after the commencement of the trial the piston in the low pressure cylinder broke, and the ship had to be towed back to Sheerness Dockyard in a disabled condition. Her repairs will take a month to execute.

A WELSH ROMANCE.—A correspondent telegraphs: "Considerable interest has been excited at Portmadoc, North Wales, concerning the marriage of a young miner engaged at Festiniog Slate Quarries with a charming Scotch heiress staying at the above watering-place. The young man was accustomed to ride his bicycle every Saturday from the works to his home at Portmadoc, and the young couple eventually met. At first the position was rendered somewhat embarrassing by the circumstance that he could speak no English and she no Welsh. The young lady's father, on becoming acquainted with the engagement, journeyed from Scotland with his son, and used every argument and entreaty to break off the match, but she was deaf to all such appeals, and yesterday the marriage was celebrated amid what may be described as general rejoicings in the entire district. The young lady has an income of several hundred pounds a year in her own right."

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold in packets.—[ADVT.]

A Simple Fact about Keating's Cough Lozenges.—Ask throughout the world, in any country that can be named, you will find them largely sold. There is absolutely no remedy that is so speedy in giving relief, so certain to cure, and yet the most delicate can take them. One lozenge gives ease.—Sold in 13½d. tins.—[ADVERTISEMENT.]

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Are you broken in your rest by a sick child suffering with the pain of cutting teeth? Go at once to a chemist and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. It will relieve the poor sufferer immediately. It is perfectly harmless; it produces natural, quiet sleep, by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." Of all Chemists, 1s. 1½d. per bottle.—[ADVERTISEMENT.]

THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

Those sanguine spirits who expected the Attorney-General to finish his long indictment of the Parnellite party yesterday afternoon proved to be mistaken; but the opening speech is now drawing near to its termination. No definite promise was made by Sir Richard Webster as to how much longer he would take to develop the case which he will afterwards attempt to prove by evidence. Yesterday, however, he brought the history of the Nationalist movement down to the year 1887, and only a few more facts remain to be adduced, to show that outrages followed the National League in exactly the same way as they had followed the Land League, in order to conclude, at all events, this branch of the indictment. The public, therefore, may reasonably expect that either to-day or on Monday the opening speech, for what may be called the prosecution will close, and the more interesting, though not more intrinsically important, stage of evidence-giving will be reached. The triumvirate of judges met yesterday morning at the usual time, and throughout the day was employed in listening to the Attorney-General's quotations from the Irish World, and to the bloodthirsty sentiments enunciated by leading advocates of physical force on the other side of the Atlantic. Yesterday was, in fact, mainly an American day in the Probate Court. Many of the speeches quoted of Irish-American Fenians might, the Attorney-General said, be described as "wild talk;" but it was not considered, he added, wild talk when the dollars flowed into the Land League coffers, and dynamiters from America created explosions in English cities in furtherance of the sentiments expressed.

Patiently plodding through his voluminous brief, the Attorney-General had occasion very frequently to quote from Mr. Michael Davitt. That incriminated Irishman was present in the well of the court, and took occasion to interrupt the speech once or twice. Mr. Parnell did not put in an appearance, and Mr. Biggar was almost the only other representative of the Irish party who attended. Mr. Biggar, it may be incidentally remarked, is "fighting for his own hand," and, being unrepresented by counsel, has of course to exercise personal vigilance so as to check Sir Richard Webster, should the latter refer to him in an unguarded moment. There was a sadness in Mr. Biggar's manner yesterday, as he sat, so to speak, in the corner below the gangway, which may have been due to the fact that his name was not prominently brought forward. Mr. Davitt's, however, was; and that patriot, in consequence, was busy during the day writing with his one arm—the left—and in giving what may be presumed to have been friendly hints to Sir Charles Russell and Mr. Reid, Q.C., who were sitting immediately behind him. Once he interfered to object that he had not been supplied with copies of his speeches referred to by the Attorney-General, and was assured that the omission should be rectified: again he rose to explain that a document attributed to him could not have been his, as at the time it was produced he was in prison. When the Attorney-General came to the Chicago Convention of 1886, and the names of those present, he was in doubt whether Mr. Davitt was there or not. Mr. Davitt seemed amused, but did not condescend to enlighten the speaker, who accordingly simply said that he would assume that that gentleman was present; as it subsequently turned out that he was. It was in this connection that Mr. Davitt, again interposing, was politely put down by the Bench. Sir Richard Webster was quoting from the Irish World's report of the Chicago doings, and Mr. Davitt wished to know why the quotation was not made from the Times, as that paper had a reporter present—a statement which was at once contradicted. "That," remarked Sir James Hannen, leaning over his desk towards Mr. Davitt, "is a fact which you will have the opportunity of stating in evidence, and is not a matter for interruption." "I suppose," said Sir Richard Webster, after he had finished his quotations, "that Mr. Davitt will not repudiate these speeches; if he did he would be one of the strongest witnesses I could call to prove the identity of the conspiracy in Ireland and in America."

Up to lunch-time the Attorney-General had not got much further than 1883; but before closing hours he had traced the deeds and words of the "organisation or conspiracy" as far as 1887, and had then gone back to 1882 and 1883 to show that the National League took up the policy and practices of the old Land League. He quoted a Nationalist speaker who described the National League as built up out of the fallen stones of the Land League—"not an inapt description," remarked Sir Richard. Then came quotations from speeches made in Ireland and America by members of Parliament, friends and fellow-workers of Mr. Parnell and others, containing threats against England, and a large variety of bad language. The two planks of the policy which Mr. Davitt and Mr. Ford had forced on Mr. Parnell were, the independence of Ireland and the uprooting of landlordism. This last was the particular "plank" which, as Sir Richard Webster drily put it, so many poor Irish tenants and victims had been obliged to "walk." Frequent quotations were made from Dr. Tanner, whom Sir Richard Webster described as "gifted with a great command of metaphor." Dr. Tanner, it seems, had told an Irish audience that some land-grabbers were vipers and others boa-constrictors; while another figurative orator compared Mr. Heggotty, a plucky farmer who "refused to knuckle under to the League," as a "creeping louse." Mr. Heggotty, in consequence of these harangues, was boycotted and shot at; and Sir Richard Webster created some interest by promising to put him in the box, so that this "creeping louse" might give his own testimony as to the sort of life which an Irishman led against whom the innocent organisation of the National League had issued its ban.

The day altogether was one of businesslike progress with the task which the Attorney-General had set himself to accomplish; and any monotony was relieved by occasional incidents such as those described, or by occasional touches of humour. There was the Rev. Mr. Pepper, or O'Pepper, for example, whom the Attorney-General described as "an American Dissenting minister," and the temperature of whose language harmonised with his name. Then there was the difficulty of identifying exactly which Mr. "O'Connor" or "Flynn" or "Egan" it was who had made some speech or been present at some meeting. Sir Charles Russell explained to the Attorney-General that the Mr. Egan who appeared at a New York gathering to glorify a fallen "martyr" was not the Mr. Egan; and then arose a question as to whether Mr. C. J. Flynn was the member of Parliament or another Mr. Flynn altogether. The attempts yesterday made to trace "lost identities" approached in difficulty the task which in a certain Oxford College is said to lie before anybody who without any other clue to guide him wishes to discover "Mr. Jones." It is said that if a person appears in the quadrangle of Jesus College and calls out the monosyllable "Jones" in a loud voice, only one or two members of that college will fail to put their heads out of their windows and respond. Irish names recur as frequently as Welsh; and it is no wonder, therefore, that in "Parnellism and Crime" the wrong Mr. T. P. O'Connor was mentioned as being present at the Chicago Convention. "Mr T. P. O'Connor," drily remarked the Attorney-General, "has such an opinion of the persons attending that Convention, that he considers it libellous to suppose that he could possibly have been there." There was also a difficulty in the course of yesterday's proceedings in keeping the Land League and National League distinct. Once the Attorney-General referred to something done by the "Land League" so late as 1885, whereat the President interrogated "Land League?" Sir Richard responded that Sir James Hannen had, "with his unvarying accuracy," noted an error; but, as a matter of fact, the two organisations were so alike in numbers, objects, and practice, that it was impossible to always separate them mentally. The instalment of the Attorney-General's speech for yesterday was brought to a close punctually at four o'clock, and to-day may very possibly see it ended and the first witness called.

On the Commissioners taking their seats at half-past ten,

The Attorney-General said: I approach at once that part of the case to which I referred when your lordships broke off last night, and that is the connection between the persons charged in these particulars and the American organisations and conspiracies. The appearance of Mr. Davitt before you will necessitate reference to some other matters, which, in all probability, it would not have been necessary for me to bring at any length before you, had he not been a party. We allege that this Land League organisation, of which Mr. Parnell was the president, was, in fact, originated in America; that it was a conspiracy which was hatched in America, and carried out with American money; and that many of those who were members of the conspiracy in America are persons who advocate dynamite and assassination, and refer to crimes of the worst description as being matters which were the incidents in carrying on the war with England. We have given in the particulars the names of the persons with whom we allege the Parnellite alliance associated, and we further allege that these men—members of Parliament and other persons—were engaged directly in promoting and disseminating in Ireland literature which excited to sedition and the commission of crime and outrage. We shall have to refer particularly to the Irish World, the Chicago Citizen, the Boston Pilot, and United Ireland. It will be part of my task to-day to point out instance after instance which will show that from 1878 down to 1886 there have been the most intimate connection and co-operation between the persons who are mentioned and the extreme party in America. One or two of the names have not yet been mentioned. Patrick Egan I need not refer to; and there were Patrick Ford, editor of the Irish World, and who remitted thousands and thousands of pounds to the National League; Brennan, the secretary of the Land League; Patrick J. Sheridan, the organiser of crimes and outrages; Breslin, a member of the Irish Republican Brotherhood; Father Eugene Sheehy; Condon, who was sentenced to death for the murder of Sergeant Brett at Manchester, and whose sentence was commuted; John Finnerty, whom I shall show, by Mr. Parnell's statement, to have been a dynamitard; James Redpath; O'Donovan Rossa, who advocated crime of the worst description; Devoy, a Fenian; and E. J. Rowe, president of one of the branches of the American League. I shall first have to deal with the case of Mr. Davitt.

Sir C. Russell: I do not think Mr. Davitt's name appears in the list.

The Attorney-General: I said yesterday, when Mr. Davitt appeared, that he should have a copy of the particulars, and that if it was necessary to formulate any further charges I would give him a copy of them. I may say I think I shall be able to put in writing in the course of the next two days details of some further matters which ought to be particularly mentioned in reference to Mr. Davitt's case. You will find an admission made by Mr. Davitt himself that, even before the formation of the Land League, he secured the co-operation of Patrick Ford of the Irish World and the co-operation of the Boston Pilot. It appears that Mr. Davitt was introduced to Ford in America in 1878. Ford had previously remonstrated with Mr. Davitt for his somewhat halting and half-hearted policy, but I shall show that afterwards, throughout the whole agitation with which he was connected from 1880 down to 1884, Ford was Mr. Davitt's councillor, guide, and friend. I think it will turn out, too, that the dissemination of the literature and the incitements to crime which were in every issue of the Irish World formed a part of the scheme which was necessary in order that the complete programme might be carried into effect by one organisation. I shall be able to show that the policy of the Land League—the policy which Mr. Parnell and others accepted—was hatched in America, that Mr. Davitt expounded it, and that it was the acquiescence of all parties in that policy which enabled Mr. Parnell to command enormous American resources. In August, 1878, on one of his first visits to America, Mr. Davitt made a public statement, in which he pledged himself that Irish independence should always be the beacon light ahead, and asked the Nationalists of America to support the new programme, and enable him to preach the new gospel. On Sept. 24, 1878, Mr. Davitt was present at a meeting at which Devoy proposed two resolutions, one protesting against all attempts at compromise, and resolving to work for the overthrow of the British Government; the other in favour of the abolition of the foreign landlord system in Ireland. On Sept. 26 there was a meeting of welcome to Condon and Melody, and in Mr. Davitt's presence they were presented with an address which referred to them as worthy successors of Allen, Larkin, and O'Brien. Devoy spoke at this meeting, expressing his approval of Mr. Davitt's policy, but saying that he did not think they had gone far enough. "They must sweep away this accursed landlord system above and before all." This confederation with the extreme section was, as far as I can understand, the first attempt made to bring the Fenian party in touch with the agrarian agitation, and, in so far as it gave Mr. Parnell a power in Parliament he had never had before, it was eminently successful. We say that that power never could have existed but for the reign of intimidation which was rendered effectual by the crimes that were committed. These crimes, too, had never been heard of before, for I believe it will be proved that an outrage on a person for paying his rent was practically unknown before the year 1880, whereas in a few months it grew to be a system. If I satisfy your lordships that in 1878 Mr. Davitt got the adherence of the American section by assuring them that the landlord class would be driven away, and that that was done by taking a course they had never taken before, the logical consequence is that the power of Mr. Parnell and his organisation did rest on crime and on nothing else. In December, 1878, there was a further statement by Mr. Davitt as to what I may call the new departure. I am now referring to a report of his lecture edited by himself.

Mr. Davitt: I wish to say that I had nothing to do with the speech as it appears in that book. It was subsequently corrected by me for an edition which appeared on this side.

The Attorney-General: I think it would be better if I make my statement, and it can be corrected afterwards. It is evident that the object of that speech was to enlist on their side, by tyranny and intimidation, a class which had previously had no sympathy with them; nay, more, by appealing to the self-interest and greed of the Irish tenants, to obtain power for their organisation. That programme, which had not previously been enunciated in Ireland, came from the American section, and in no shape or way from the Irish Nationalists on this side. Mr. Davitt having outlined the new programme, Devoy, representing the Irish revolutionists, gave his support. The result is that we have the Fenians, the extreme party, and a power which would control the Irish tenants. That being so, there was no difficulty about subscriptions coming from America, and with that view you will find Ford labouring hard to promote this common purpose. So far as we can say, the first communications with Mr. Parnell and his followers came from Mr. Davitt, and not from Mr. Parnell, to the American section. Egan and Brennan were among the first consulted. A very remarkable thing to which I call your lordships' especial attention, is as to Mr. Parnell's position. I believe it will be found from Mr. Davitt's own account of his interviews with him, that Mr. Parnell, though favourably impressed with portions of the new policy of Mr. Davitt, hesitated lest he might be pushed further than he thought it was prudent to go. What did he mean by being pushed further than he thought it prudent to go? Was it into closer connection with O'Donovan Rossa, Condon, and Finnerty—with the men who advocated the blowing-up of public buildings, and the sacking of London, Manchester, and other cities? It throws a remarkable light upon the growth of this conspiracy, and the way in which the constitutional party was dragged in in a way which for ever launched them in the Slough of Despond, the effects of which it is very doubtful whether they can ever shake off. Early in 1879, before the formation of the League, the Land League agitation commenced in Ireland. It was commenced by a speech from Mr. Davitt, at Milltown, in county Galway. At that meeting Mr. Davitt advised the tenant farmers to feed themselves and to keep themselves and their families comfortably, and to pay rent to the landlord only if anything was left for the purpose. "What," he asked, "has organisation done for Ireland? It disestablished the Irish Church. So said Mr. Gladstone. Well, the organisation of the tenant farmers will disestablish the landlords in half the time." The Land League was actually formed at the Imperial Hotel, Dublin, on Oct. 21, 1879, Mr. Parnell being present, with Kettle, Egan, and others. It being necessary to obtain funds to start the League, where did the funds come from? The funds came from America. This is shown by a letter of Mr. Davitt, by whom money, amounting to £300 8s was obtained from the "National Fund," after communication with Patrick Ford of the Irish World, O'Reilly of the Boston Pilot, John Devoy, and others. The object of establishing this auxiliary organisation was stated to be to assist in the efforts to drive landlordism out of Ireland, and Mr. Davitt held himself responsible for the loan. I think your lordships will find that the National Fund was another name for the Skirmishing Fund, which was started to lay the great cities of England in ashes. It does not matter, for the particular purpose that I am dealing with, whether the £300 came out of the one purse or the other. It was not a spontaneous effort to carry on an old organisation, but there was a necessity for a complete organisation on entirely new lines. It was started with such energy and spirit that branches were, practically speaking, established by the hundred in the space of two or three years wherever they could gain a footing in Ireland. The expenses of those branches were defrayed by money which subsequently poured in in the same way as the previous amount from this fund. I wish to call your lordships' attention to a statement made by Mr. Davitt in writing on May 21, 1884, in order to show that this theory—the principle of the complete destruction of Irish landlordism—was admitted by him to be the principal object of this conspiracy or organisation of which he was the founder. He there says that the Land League was not of American, but of Mayo origin. No such name or organisation was heard of until the holding of the conference at Castlebar in August, 1879. Mr. Davitt probably then forgot that he had previously pointed out that the platform on which he was able to unite all parties had previously been designed at the meetings in America in 1878. This will appear distinctly by one of his speeches.

Mr. Davitt: Why not read the whole document?

The Attorney-General: If it is thought that any sentence qualifies the rest I will read it with pleasure, but I am afraid that if I read the whole of the speeches and letters from which I have given extracts, my speech will be much further prolonged.

A discussion (which was raised by Sir C. Russell) ensued as to whether all the parties should not be furnished with full copies of the documents from which extracts were read by the Attorney-General, and it was decided that where his clients possessed complete speeches or letters they should appear in the official report of the proceedings.

The Attorney-General (continuing): In the letter to which I have referred, Mr. Davitt proceeded to say that the organisers of the conference had to consider the advisability of framing such a programme as would not scare timid land reformers away from the projected movement; and it was considered necessary to render it eminently constitutional for the double purpose of legal protection against Dublin Castle, and to enable members of Parliament to defend it within the House of Commons. Mr. Davitt added that the principle upon which the League was founded was the complete destruction of Irish landlordism, as being, first, the cause of the poverty of Ireland; and secondly, because landlordism was the British garrison which barred the way to national independence. Your lordships will now judge whether the statement made in "Parnellism and Crime" does not represent the organisation by which these sections of the revolutionary movement were bound together. In the autumn of 1879 Mr. Parnell went to America to start the Irish-American Land League. On March 11, 1880, was held the New York Hotel Conference. There were present, among others, John Breslin, a trustee of the Skirmishing Fund; Dr. William Carroll, a trustee of the Skirmishing Fund; C. O'Meagher Condon, sentenced to death for the murder of Sergeant Brett; John Devoy, trustee of the Skirmishing Fund; T. P. O'Connor, of Illinois; and Mr. Parnell. Mr. Parnell requested that there should be an American organisation as an auxiliary to the Dublin association. I am not at present in a position to give to your lordships any information of what passed at that meeting. However, it is quite sufficient for my present purpose to show that the object of starting this organisation was to work with the Dublin League, and that the people who were appointed as delegates included Breslin, Dr. Carrol, Devoy, and others. Mr. Parnell made a speech on Feb. 23 at Cincinnati. I allege that it was essential to show the American party that he was working for the complete independence of Ireland, so as to keep in his platform that one plank which had been explained by Davitt. In the course of that speech he said, "The ultimate goal at which all we Irishmen aim is to make Ireland a nation, and none of us, whether in America or in Ireland, or wherever we may be, will be satisfied till we have destroyed the last link which keeps Ireland bound to England." Some years afterwards Mr. Parnell repudiated the last sentence, and he was immediately confronted with reports of his speech, which had never been in any way qualified or repudiated. What is more important still is the fact that there was a little temporary quarrel between Ford and Mr. Parnell because he had disavowed this passage. That speech was published in the Irish World for the purpose of getting money and in order to induce the American Irish to subscribe. I shall be able to produce copies of the Irish World to show that it was referred to subsequently, and that the Irish World fund was one of the largest funds from which the supplies of the Land League were drawn. It is quite clear, from what Davitt had said, that Mr. Parnell would not have had the support of the American Irish unless he had made that speech. In one of the earlier speeches made by Davitt it was distinctly stated that his sole aim was to bring about the complete separation of Ireland from England, and that he would never allow that to be driven from his mind. It would, indeed, have been utterly useless for Mr. Parnell to repudiate that main plank of the American platform, and then to expect American support. I have now to read to your lordships a series of letters which passed between the representatives of the Land League and Mr. Ford. The system was to send these by post and to publish them in the Irish World as cablegrams. On May 5, 1880, Davitt sent this message to the editor of the Irish World: "Copies of the Irish World should be sent to all parts of Ireland. Bishop Moran, of Ossory, a nephew of Cardinal Cullen, has denounced it and the Land League. May Heaven open his eyes as to the truth. Spread the light." I have already told your lordships what was meant by that expression and its peculiar significance. In 1880 Mr. Davitt appears to have gone to America again, and in the course of a tour there he made several speeches. In quoting these my object is to show that these gentlemen when in America were obliged to advocate, and did advocate, extreme separation as distinguished from the destruction of landlordism, which was the topic in Ireland. The Attorney-General proceeded to read extracts from the speeches of Mr. Davitt, in which he stated that "the Land League did not mean to precipitate open revolt and play into the hands of the enemy. The people of Ireland were to-day in the face of the world making it a crime to be an Irish landlord. In declaring the war against Irish landlords, and not paying rent in order to bring down their garrison in England, they were preparing the way for that independence which they enjoyed in the great American Republic." The Attorney-General continued: Assuming these reports to be substantially accurate—and they were publicly reported in the press, and in no way repudiated or disclaimed by Mr. Davitt—I do not think it can be suggested that the way in which they were endeavouring to organise in this matter was other, so far as the American system was concerned, than one which pointed out that their ultimate goal was independence. I shall show that in 1880 they were speaking of dynamite as the new political agent. They were describing the execution of Irish landlords as the execution of land thieves, and this is important with reference to subsequent conduct. They were recommending Irish women to throw vitriol upon the persons who came to execute the process of the law. I have not information at the present moment as to whether or not that particular method of carrying on the warfare was known in Ireland before 1880; but according to the instructions that I have such kind of resistance was scarcely heard of before. It is significant with reference to spreading the light by means of the Irish World being sent to all parts of Ireland, and it is important to notice that among the recommendations was one to the Irish women to throw out vitriol upon the bailiffs. Throughout the year 1880 it will be proved that the Irish World was being circulated in large numbers in Ireland, and, to a great extent, by the Irish Land League. On Feb. 2, 1881, Thomas Brennan wrote to Patrick Ford, stating that £1,000 had been received that week, subscribed to the Irish Fund, and in the name of the Land League he begged to tender to the readers of the Irish World and all co-operators, his sincere and most grateful acknowledgments. On Feb. 5, 1881, Mr. Parnell telegraphed that the Land League had scored a victory in reference to the State trial, the disagreement of the jury in face of the tremendous pressure brought to bear having all the force of an acquittal. He added his thanks to the Irish World and its readers for their constant co-operation and support of the great Irish cause, as to the ultimate result of which they need have no fear. That so-called cablegram was in reality a letter sent by post, but published as if it had been received by cable. It was dated London, Jan. 26, 1881, and published in the Irish World on Feb. 5, 1881—nine or ten days afterwards. I don't know whether it will be suggested that Mr. Parnell never read the Irish World, but, at any rate, he knew of the principles that it advocated and was ready to receive its subscriptions. On March 9, 1881, Egan telegraphed: "Let the readers of the Irish World and all the friends of the Land League accept our warmest thanks for the noble work they are so bravely doing." About the same time the executive of the Irish Land League issued a declaration of its principles, which was undoubtedly intended for publication in America, and in it they said, "We hereby band ourselves together till landlordism, root and branch, shall be abolished;" the names of C. S. Parnell, Michael Davitt, Brennan, and W. Sullivan being attached. Mr. Davitt edited this document.

Mr. Davitt: Inasmuch as I was in Portland Prison at the time I could not very well have been in Paris.

The Attorney-General: I did not say that Mr. Davitt was in Paris. I am dealing with what was done by the pen. I believe it will turn out that the document went to America, after having been settled by Mr. Davitt. The interruption was adroit and somewhat unnecessary, because his name appears on it. If Mr. Davitt does not approve its principles of course he will say so when he comes to deal with it. In May of the same year, Egan made a communication to the Irish World, in which he said, "Gladstone is going to hell by rapid transit." (Laughter.) "The stability of his administration is paralleled only by his benevolence. Friends in America, towards you we turn our eyes. England, too, is watching you. (A laugh.) You are the Land League's basis of operations. Realise the glorious possibilities of which you are capable. Be faithful to the banner 'The Land for the People.' Assist your brothers on this side of the Atlantic now gallantly struggling with landlordism in the first stages of revolution. Turn a bold front to the foe." What was the struggle they were engaged in? What were the operations of which the Americans were to be the basis? For a period of now eighteen months, the Land League operations had consisted in boycotting, intimidating, and, if necessary, shooting people simply because they paid their rents. I ask whether it is anything more than the plain and pitiable truth that this was a conspiracy organised in connection with those in America? I think your lordships will be of opinion that this question of the connection between the Irish Land League and the American section, which has never been put before any judicial tribunal before, is worthy of the greatest consideration. If there did exist these two organisations so linked together, the allegations to which I have referred in the early part of my observations this morning are not only proved, but might have been stated in language infinitely more strong. On June 22 of the same year, J. P. Quinn, who was secretary to the Land League, wrote to the Irish World begging that the paper might be sent for circulation in Ireland, saying that when it was read in every hamlet it would be "beyond the power of earth and hell" to perpetuate landlordism in Ireland. The suggestion may be made on behalf of some gentlemen who are charged that they had nothing to do with the Irish World. Yes, but they were content to receive the money collected by the Irish World, and contented to teach the poor, miserable, half-educated people of Ireland the doctrines that were inculcated in the columns of that paper. One of the means by which they promoted their objects was by the dissemination of seditious literature, and is it to be wondered at that the throwing of vitriol and other outrages followed? Down to this time there was a writer on the Irish World who signed himself "Transatlantic," who, I believe, was Thomas Mooney. It has been stated that, so far as his utterances are concerned, he was one of the worst scoundrels who ever lived. My information is that he is dead, but it is impossible to describe his career as other than that of an infamous scoundrel who advocated the worst of outrages. In March, 1881, he wrote that London contained four millions of wealthy people, who were at the mercy of the criminal class numbering a quarter of a million. Then he adds, "Spread the light!" On Sept. 24, 1881, there was another paragraph headed, "Kindling wood in England," containing references of a most violent kind. It became necessary to send a delegate from the Land League to America. Mr. T. P. O'Connor was sent in 1881 by Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell with an introduction to Mr. Patrick Ford. This makes it perfectly clear that the statement of Mr. Parnell, that he had no relations with Mr. Patrick Ford, is absolutely untrue. The letter signed by Mr. Parnell appeared in an issue of the Irish World. On Oct. 15, just before Mr. T. P. O'Connor's departure, the secretary of the Land League sent a letter to Mr. Patrick Ford, stating that there was a great demand for the Irish World in Ireland, and that its circulation would be of immense service. You may judge, therefore, how far they are to be allowed to disclaim any connection with this seditious and grossly improper literature. Mr. T. P. O'Connor went to the Chicago Convention in 1881, and there were present Breslin, the Rev. Thomas Conaty, John Devoy, Miss Ellen Ford, John Finnerty, Mr. T. M. Healy, Mr. Alex. Sullivan, the Rev. Eugene Sheehy, Dr. Wallace, and a man named Mackay, who is supposed to have perished in the London Bridge dynamite explosion. Among those who received Mr. T. P. O'Connor was Dr. Wallace, whose speech, as reported in the Irish World, complained of the persons who apologised for the Phœnix Park murders. Mr. T. P. O'Connor replied, as reported in the Irish World, "What is the English Government based on?—murder, rapine, violence, confiscation, buckshot, bayonets, and flying columns. If the English were to meet the Irish people in America, then, indeed, there would be flying columns." On Nov. 30, 1881, at a meeting at the Irish World office, at which Mr. Healy, Mr. Finnerty, and Mr. T. P. O'Connor were present, the last-named said, "The landlords have not got any rent from the 10,000 ejected from their farms. If I were the agent of an insurance society I should not like to have my whole organisation depending upon the 10,000 farmers going into the farms that the others were evicted from." That means that the land-grabber would not be a very desirable life for an insurance company. Father Sheehy, who also spoke at this meeting, said there was only one enemy of Ireland, and that was England, and that they faced landlordism as only a means to a greater and higher end. It will be suggested that this was all politics, but the whole point of the charges and allegations is that this Land League organisation was one with that established in America for objects to be obtained by practices absolutely wicked and hostile to the English people. Egan telegraphed: "In the name of the Irish National Land League I greet the Irish National Convention in Chicago." There is one speech at the Chicago Convention which bears out the view which I have presented to your lordships—that Mr. Davitt and Mr. Parnell himself thought it best that the Land League should not be too much publicly mixed up with this section in America. The President of the Convention (Mr. Betts), who received Mr. T. P. O'Connor and Mr. Healy, said there were certain grave reasons, which were quite satisfactory to them, why those gentlemen should not address the Convention at that time, and that Irishmen present would understand the reasons. It seems that Mr. Healy and Mr. O'Connor sat upon the platform and heard the speeches of Father Sheehy and Mr. Betts, but neither of them spoke. In 1882 the request to send the Irish World to Ireland was repeated by Mr. Brennan, who sent this message: "By all means send more; its power for good is wonderful."

Sir Charles Russell: Brennan was then in Kilmainham.

The Attorney-General: Oh, yes; but it would not have made the slightest difference whether he was in Kilmainham or not. There is no question that the warders did get documents in and out. As I stated yesterday, so slight was the restraint that Mr. William O'Brien edited United Ireland almost as effectually from Kilmainham as before. The terrible Phœnix Park murders occurred in May, 1882, and the manifesto was issued, signed by Mr. Parnell, Mr. Dillon, and Mr. Davitt, expressing regret. I shall be able to show that Egan telegraphed that he would resign if any of the Land League funds were applied to a reward. This view, that the murder was to be condemned, was by no means shared by the American gentlemen who met to receive Mr. Healy and Mr. O'Connor at a meeting in New York, at which the same Dr. Wallace was present. A resolution was passed affirming that, while it was expedient to express regret for the murder of Cavendish and Burke, they were also bound to express greater regret that England should pursue a policy towards the Irish people of murder by the bayonet, bloodshed, and starvation. E. J. Rowe, one of the persons whose names ought to have been in the particulars, one of the executive council of the American Land League, is reported by the Irish World to have said: "The present Coercion Act was one of the most brutal and bloody measures ever passed to crush the people, and I say that for every murder perpetrated by English officials in Ireland—such as that of Patrick Walsh, in Galway—a member of the Royal family or a British Minister should bite the dust. The echoes of dynamite explosions in English commercial centres will be the signal for Irish freedom. Devastation can be spread throughout the length and breadth of England in a night, and it should be done. Oh, that the Irish World would again start a 'Skirmishing Fund!'" Is it possible to imagine a more iniquitous publication or suggestion than that there contained? I ask your lordships what would be your opinion of an organisation which considered it legitimate to spread by thousands papers advocating those views in Ireland. In the Irish World on Oct. 28 the outrages were spoken of as a war between the people and the landlords, and that while landlords and agents, bailiffs and informers were shot in considerable numbers, of the people "only two have yet been hung, and not over ten are in penal servitude, and these may be amnestied sooner than the land-robbers imagine." I humbly appeal to your lordships' judgment upon such utterances as that. It was exactly the kind of preaching which the American section desired should be used for the purpose of forwarding their idea of the complete separation between England and Ireland, and it was a great service to those who were advocating the policy of the Land League as distinguished from the extreme section, because it showed the extreme followers that the Land League was advocating principles which told people that they ought not to stop at murder, if murder was necessary for the purpose of supporting their views. Mr. Gladstone, in February, 1882, truly described this policy when he pointed out that crime had dogged the footsteps of the Land League. This is the organisation, forsooth, which is proceeding by legitimate means, and scouts outrage. It is utterly impossible to exaggerate the wickedness and enormity of men who would for one single moment remain in association with people who advocated these views. I will show that this was brought to the notice of Mr. Parnell as far back as 1882-83, and that after those dates his representatives are found still going to market, associating with the same people, and that sums of money that come from the Irish World and Patrick Ford are being received. One can perhaps feel some little more respect for the man who will openly advocate these views, horrible and wicked as they may be, than for the man who will take advantage of them, and say he does not approve of them. In November, 1881, United Ireland gave a list of the editorial staff of the Irish World. Among them were the names of Michael Davitt, Thomas Brennan, Henry George, J. P. Quinn, and Anna Parnell. Then in the Irish World there was expressed regret at the failure of Ford's plan to lay London, Liverpool, Manchester, and other large towns in ashes. On March 3 appeared a distinct statement that Mr. P. J. Sheridan, against whom there was a warrant in relation to the Phœnix Park murders, was then engaged on the staff of the Irish World. He was there spoken of as one of the first to jump into the ranks of the Land League, and as assisting in issuing the "No Rent" manifesto. It was also stated that in Paris he established the Land League headquarters, and also the work of the Ladies' League. On March 31, 1883, there appeared in the Irish World an announcement as to a demonstration at Turner's Hall, New York. At that meeting O'Donovan Rossa and Mr. Finnerty expressed their sorrow that the London dynamite explosion had not been more successful. On April 25, 1883, occurred the Philadelphia Convention, at which were present, among others, Brennan, Byrne, Boyton, Condon, Devoy, Egan, Finnerty, John Parnell, brother of Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell, and Mrs. Parnell, his mother; also O'Donovan Rossa, and John Walsh. It is significant that in April, 1883, barely six weeks after the discoveries in reference to Phœnix Park, you should find in America so many persons who had been intimately connected with the organisations which had encouraged outrages in Ireland. I may have something to say as to the circumstances under which some of those gentlemen left England. It seems to require explanation that all those gentlemen should be found in America about the same time, and all be found together in conjunction with the men to whose sayings and doings I have been referring. What passed at this Philadelphia Convention? There was a most distinct reference to what passed at that convention made at subsequent meetings of the Land League organisation. On April 26, 1883, Mr. Parnell wrote a letter sent for the purpose of being read at the convention. It was addressed to the president, and in this letter Mr. Parnell said: "My presence at the most representative convention of Irish-American opinion ever assembled being impossible, owing to the necessity of my remaining here to oppose the Criminal Code Bill, I ask you to lay my views before the convention." Then he went on to say: "I advise that your platform should be so framed as to enable us to continue accepting help from America, at the same time avoiding a pretext for the British Government entirely suppressing the National movement in Ireland." The original Land League had been suppressed, and there had been started in October, 1882, the National League, of which Mr. Parnell was president, while Mr. Biggar, Mr. Healy, Mr. O'Brien, and others were connected with it. Mr. Parnell addressed the president of "the most representative convention of Irish-American opinion ever assembled." Either Mr. Parnell did or did not know who those persons were to whom I have referred. If those persons were the most representative convention of Irish-American opinion, then what it represented, practically speaking, was nothing but persons openly and avowedly advocating the use of dynamite, and associated with people who had not been able to remain in Ireland in consequence of some part they had taken in matters which were then forming the subject of inquiry. "The most representative convention of Irish-American opinion" would not inaptly be described as representing dynamiters and Fenians on the one hand, and accomplices in outrages and murder on the other. If this was the most representative expression of Irish-American opinion, what were the real bonds of union by which the two sections were held together?

There was here a short adjournment for luncheon.

The Attorney-General, resuming, after the interval, read extracts from the speeches delivered at the Philadelphia Convention, on April 25, by J. Moroney, Brennan, Egan, and A. Sullivan. There were, he said, three names constantly referred to as past Irish patriots, namely, Tone, Emmett, and Lord Edward Fitzgerald, men connected with the rebellion of '98. Neither of the speakers referred to O'Connell or to Isaac Butt, who were opposed to anything like the shedding of blood. On June 23 it was stated in the Irish World that Ford had said to Matthew Harris that some people considered the Phœnix Park murders a crime, but that from an Irish standpoint he considered them an execution and not a murder. On June 30, 1883, reference was made in the Irish World to M'Cafferty, who was hanged for being implicated in the Phœnix Park murders. He had confessed his crime, instead of pleading not guilty, and the Irish World said that, inasmuch as he had apologised for what he had done and had tried to explain it away, he had deprived himself of all sympathy. His relatives were therefore excluded from participation in the Martyrs' Fund, which had been collected for the families of those condemned for the Phœnix Park murders. On July 2, 1883, there was a New York martyrs' meeting. There were present Frank Byrne, Mrs. Frank Byrne, Patrick Ford, O'Donovan Rossa, P. J. Sheridan, John Walsh, and Hamilton Williams. Mr. Sheridan was in the chair, and the meeting was called to pay homage and honour to the Phœnix Park murderers. At that meeting Mr. F. Byrne, who was secretary to the English Land League, and who had escaped to America in 1883, made a speech reported in the Irish World. He said, "I am not fastidious as to the methods by which the cause of liberty may be advanced. I do not say you should alone use dynamite, the knife, rifle, or Parliamentary agitation" (observe the position in which he puts this latter); "but I hold no Irishman true who would not use all and each method as the opportunity presents itself." At the Chicago martyrs' meeting John Finnerty spoke, saying that he had never apologised for the Phœnix Park murders, and that he was sorry that a worse man than Cavendish was not in his place. He added that he did not believe much in Parliamentary agitation, but that still he would go with it, and he announced as a piece of good news the election of Mr. T. M. Healy in Protestant Ulster. On Sept. 1, 1883, the Martyrs' Fund was described in the Irish World as an incentive to other men to dare and do likewise. On Sept. 8 Finnerty made another speech, in which he urged the shooting of landlords, and said that if any man had the power to put the heads of the Lord-Lieutenant, the Chief Secretary, the Privy Council, and the whole Cabinet in the guillotine and knock them off, he would be justified in the sight of God, as they had been guilty of murder. The O'Donnell Fund was collected for the defence of O'Donnell, who was convicted of shooting Carey, the Phœnix Park informer. In order to promote subscriptions to the fund, there were references to it in the Irish World, and this is the way the Rev. Geo. Pepper spoke of O'Donnell: "If Ireland possessed 5,000 magnificently-gifted men like O'Donnell, her deliverance would be achieved." With reference to the man "Transatlantic," several of whose writings I have read, I think it will appear from the statement of Mr. T. P. O'Connor that he was the first subscriber to the so-called constitutional organisation of the Land League, that is, Mr. Parnell's organisation. On Sept. 20, 1883, a meeting was held in Chicago to receive the widow of Daniel Curley, one of the men who was hanged for the Phœnix Park murders. Mr. Finnerty then referred to Curley as a "brave and unfortunate man," and to Mr. Parnell as "that great man, rising as the morning star of Irish politics." On Oct. 13, 1883, the Irish World published a lecture by Sheridan, who had been an organiser of the Land League, in which he stated that he was in favour of well-directed scientific warfare—dynamite and nitro-glycerine. May 14, 1884, was the anniversary of the death of Brady, who was supposed to have struck the blow in connection with the Phœnix Park murders. At that anniversary were present Frank Byrne, Mrs. Byrne, P. B. Egan, O'Donovan Rossa, and E. J. Rowe. A letter of regret was read from Patrick Ford. Hamilton Williams advocated the use of dynamite, and spoke in high terms of Mrs. Byrne, who was referred to in the Irish World as the woman who had taken across the knives with which the Phœnix Park murders were committed. Byrne himself said it was the duty of the Irish people to kill every English official who came into that country, and asked those who were prepared to follow Brady to stand up. O'Donovan Rossa made a similar speech, and the meeting resolved to support the Emergency Fund—a fund which Ford kept, but never disclosed how it was spent. At Boston a convention was held on Aug. 8, 1884, at which Mrs. Parnell, Mr. W. Redmond, M.P., Mr. Sexton, M.P., and others were present. Resolutions were passed expressing unqualified approval of the course pursued by Mr. Parnell and the Irish party, and pledging support in their efforts against Irish landlordism and on behalf of Irish independence. Mr. Sexton stated that he heartily agreed with the resolution, and apparently Mr. Redmond acquiesced in it. If that be proved, I don't know how it can be said that the American Land League is not a part of the same conspiracy which existed in Ireland, and that Mr. Parnell, in drawing his supplies from these sources, was not drawing them from men who were, in fact, his allies, although they had preached such principles and encouraged such acts as were to be found in the speeches of Boyton and Williams that I read this morning. In the Irish World of Sept. 27, 1884, the statement is made that Mr. Ford had collected another sum of $15,000 for the purpose of laying London, Liverpool, Manchester, and other towns in ashes. I do not know whether my learned friends will suggest that this was simply wild talk; but it was not wild talk when the money came into the Land League, and dynamitards came over to England and succeeded in causing explosions in London and other parts of the country which caused death. On April 25, 1885, there was a Reception Committee to meet Mrs. Kenny, formerly Miss Anna Reynolds, at which there were present Mr. and Mrs. Frank Byrne, Reynolds, Condon, Ford, Austin Ford, and others. Miss Reynolds, I should say, was a member of the Ladies' Land League, who had been doing work for the League during the time Mr. Parnell was in prison, and whose progress through a particular part of Ireland was marked by a succession of outrages of which evidence will be given. If I remember right, I think some proceedings were taken out against her. Frank Byrne made this statement about her at this reception: "In my capacity as secretary of the Land League of Great Britain I naturally became familiar with many of the facts concerning the noble work being done by the Ladies' Land League. I know that on every occasion where a practical portion of the work was to be done Miss Reynolds was to be found in the forefront." Another gentleman, speaking of Miss Reynolds, said, "She had gone from village to village, cheering the disappointed, warning the wavering, and threatening the cowardly; and, when it was necessary that the inmates should be sternly instructed that it was their duty to pay no rent, she knew how to give that instruction." It would occur to everyone that that "instruction" consisted of exactly that intimidation which had been practised under the auspices of the Land League ever since its foundation. On May 6, 1885, the Phœnix Park banquet was given, and a report of this appeared in the Irish World. Mr. Austin Ford, the chairman, said "We come to do honour to the memory of noble and fearless men who unselfishly offered up their lives to serve their kind, and to pay a tribute, on behalf of the Irish Nationalists of this city, to a brave little woman whose face is perhaps not known to many, but whose memorable courage in connection with the victory in the Phœnix Park three years ago, whose sacrifice for the Irish cause is known to us all, and can only be properly honoured by a free Ireland, can only be fittingly appreciated when an independent Republic is established on Irish soil." One of the speakers spoke of Joe Brady as the modern Coriolanus, and Patrick Egan moved that the best thanks of the meeting be given to Austin Ford, of the Irish World, for his unswerving loyalty to the cause. Nov. 23, 1885, was the Manchester martyrs' anniversary. Your lordships will find there were in all these instances reports in the Irish World of these proceedings, at which these men, who had been convicted of murder, were treated as being martyrs and patriots. At this meeting there were present: Frank Byrne, Mrs. Frank Byrne, several of the Fords, J. H. Parnell (Mr. Parnell's brother), and Edward J. Rowe. Now, I have told your lordships that the Irish World showed sympathy with dynamitards by its reports of speeches and by its writings. I think your lordships will find that was not the only way in which it showed them sympathy. In the year 1885 they opened a fund through their columns for Burton and Cunningham. These were the persons arrested and tried for the dynamite explosions in the House of Commons, the Tower, and the Underground Railway, and it was for these men that the Irish World opened its columns. According to them Burton and Cunningham were entitled to the warmest sympathy of the Irish race for waging war on England, and were martyrs and patriots. On Sept. 5, 1885, a special sum of money was sent over, and acknowledged from the trustee of the emergency fund, to Mr. Parnell, to enable him to purchase the interest in an Irish paper called the Irishman, which was afterwards amalgamated with United Ireland. If it be true that Mr. Parnell only held it as a trustee for the Americans, when we come to examine his position he and his party are merely the puppets of the American party who supply the funds, and were obliged to consent to any proposal for advocating extreme methods. Now, my lords, I come to the year 1886, and I call your attention to the Chicago Convention in that year. This is the convention in respect of which the Times have made the statement that Mr. T. P. O'Connor was present. It is of the gentlemen at this convention that Mr. T. P. O'Connor has such an opinion that he alleges it was a libel on the part of the Times to say he was there. He apparently does not mind it being stated that he was present at the earlier convention. This convention, held on Aug. 17 or 18, was of very considerable importance. There were present: Mr. Davitt, Mr. William O'Brien, John Redmond, John Deasy, Thomas Brennan, John Devoy, Patrick Egan, Patrick Ford, John Finnerty, and Mr. T. P. O'Connor, of Illinois. That gave rise to the mistake. The Rev. G. Pepper was also there, and E. J. Rowe, Alexander Sullivan, Dr. Wallace, and John Walsh. I called your lordships' attention to Finnerty, who was present. He was recognised by Mr. Parnell as a dynamitard. When Mr. Finnerty's name was mentioned by Sir George, then Mr. Trevelyan, on May 25, 1886, in the House of Commons, Mr. Parnell himself said that Mr. Finnerty was a gentleman who was strongly in favour of dynamite. I suppose he said that to discredit any allusion to what Finnerty might have said, and for the purpose of suggesting that he had no connection with him. The account of the discussion that took place at the Chicago Convention is important. Finnerty, the dynamiter, said: "Whatever Parliament might do for Ireland, the American-Irish had a long and terrible account to settle with England. Let the Irish pursue their policy of peace, but if Irish-Americans could do anything to annoy England and keep her awake at night they would do so. He praised the sword of the insurgent and the poignard of the assassin, and he bade their leaders not to apologise for the actions of the American-Irish against the common enemy." Mr. Patrick Egan congratulated the meeting on their good sense and unity. Mr. Michael Davitt deprecated a policy of unprofitable revenge. He did not think dynamite necessary, but he found no fault with Mr. Finnerty and Mr. Sullivan for the sentiments they had expressed.

Mr. Davitt: What report are you quoting from?

The Attorney-General: I am quoting from the Irish World. There has certainly never been any correction or denial of the accuracy of the reports.

Mr. Davitt: My reason for interrupting was that I thought the Attorney-General was quoting from the Times, inasmuch as the Times had a reporter at the convention.

The President: That is a fact which may be more properly introduced as evidence, and not as an interruption.

The Attorney-General: On my instructions Mr. Davitt's information is not correct, but that we shall see when we come to the evidence. At the same meeting Mr. Davitt said: "They had to band together the whole of the Irish race at home and abroad in one vast movement. They had to strike at and to cripple the power of Irish landlordism before they could make them feel the full force of the Irish national sentiment." There, again, we have in 1886 a distinct enunciation of those principles which were to bind together the American section and the Irish National League, just as the old doctrine of that principle had bound together the old Irish National League and the American section. At that meeting a service of plate was presented to Patrick Egan, and a telegram was read from Mr. Parnell thanking the convention and stating that the ratification of their policy and the order and moderation of the proceedings had created a profound impression and strengthened their position. I do not know how it can be suggested, in the face of this, that the American section and the Irish Land League were not still closely in alliance, and were collecting for the purposes of joint organisation the moneys to which I have referred. I have stated that Mr. Davitt had pointedly referred to the teaching of the Irish World. I will now refer to a letter written by Mr. Davitt as late as 1885. In it he says that the Irish World—which means Patrick Ford—had almost always been a guide, philosopher, and friend of his since his liberation from Dartmoor, and that the chief inspiration of the attack on felonious landlordism, and most of the financial strength of the Land League, had come from that newspaper. I do not suppose that Mr. Davitt will repudiate that statement; and, if so, he is one of the strongest witnesses in support of the view that there was but one conspiracy and but one organisation. I have now shown that during all this period the extreme party were in close allegiance with the Land League section. The Land League came to an end at the close of 1882, and it only remains for me to show that after that period the National League did the same sort of work as the Land League had done. It will be my duty to lay before your lordships evidence relating to speeches and outrages of exactly the same kind as those to which I have already referred. (The Attorney-General then proceeded to read extracts from a number of speeches made at National League meetings held in county Cork in 1885, in which land-grabbers were denounced and boycotting was recommended.) Speeches were delivered in the years 1885-6-7 by Mr. Deasy, M.P., Dr. Tanner, M.P., Mr. J. C. Flynn, M.P., Mr. Gilhooly, M.P., Mr. John O'Connor, M.P., Mr. Lane, M.P., and others, in which they advocated the principles of the League. One of the principal means, he remarked, which Mr. Parnell employed to reward agitators on behalf of the League was to nominate them as members of Parliament. Boycotting was strongly recommended by these speakers. At a meeting at Donoughmore, in county Cork, on Sept. 20, 1885, Mr. Robert Walsh, in the presence of Mr. W. Redmond, M.P., and Mr. Flynn, pointed to the occupier of an evicted farm, and told the people to "make the place as hot as hell for him." On Nov. 8 in the same year, Dr. Tanner, who had a great command of metaphor and epithet, spoke of the land-grabber as a rapacious beast, too low to take notice of. Like the leper in the East, he should be left severely alone. Their lordships would notice that this was the text of Mr. Parnell's Ennis speech in 1880. At another meeting, in December, 1885, Dr. Tanner made an attack on Mr. Heggarty, who had had the pluck and determination absolutely to decline to knuckle under to the National League. Dr. Tanner referred to Mr. Heggarty as a reptile who did not deserve the description of a human being—his proper designation was "a thing." As he must call Heggarty something he would call him the lowest of created things—a louse. The renowned Dr. Tanner made another speech in January, 1887, at Molly M'Carthy's Bridge, in which he said that the Plan of Campaign had been proclaimed. If there was one thing he was rather tired of it was tearing up the Queen's proclamations. He advised the boycotting of land-grabbers and emergency men, and suggested that they should draw a distinction between the viper and the boa-constrictor—the one being a mean, grovelling reptile, and the other a reptile of a more noble stamp. All these speeches, the Attorney-General submitted, showed that there was absolutely no difference between the ends pursued by the speakers of the National League and the objects aimed at by the Land League orators at an earlier period.

At this stage the Commissioners adjourned until to-day, when the Attorney-General will further continue his opening address.

In the Court of Appeal, on Wednesday, the Master of the Rolls expressed his opinion that this Court could not postpone or fix causes for certain days to suit the convenience of counsel engaged on the Parnell Commission. Yesterday, Mr. Graham (who made an application on the previous day on the subject) having entered the court, the Master of the Rolls, addressing him, said that, having consulted with his learned brothers, they had come to the conclusion which he arrived at yesterday—that they could not give any assistance to the gentlemen who were engaged in the commission.

The Dublin Nation makes the following statement: "We are informed on the best authority that James Stephens is once more about to be expelled from France. The circumstances of the veteran's case are somewhat peculiar. According to the recent decree of the President of the French Republic, all foreigners residing in France are bound to report themselves to the Prefecture of Police, and show their passport. Mr. Stephens has a decided objection to ask Lord Lytton or any other dignitary for a document in which he is compelled to acknowledge himself a British subject. This objection is indeed in keeping with Mr. Stephens' record as an extreme uncompromising Nationalist of the Republican type. Refusing as he does to present his passport, the aged exile will, in all probability, be arrested and sent across the frontier as he was some three years ago. We hope, however, that the Floquet Cabinet will pause before it stultifies itself and tramples on its Radical principles by indulging in such wanton and cruel persecution of an Irishman whose only crime has been to have loved his country according to his lights."

Dr. A. Pollard's Opinion of Dr. Sherman's Rupture Method.—Extract from his letter to Dr. S.: "In justice to humanity, from my knowledge of your treatment through what it has done for me, I shall, whenever occasion offers, recommend it. . . . And now, in conclusion, doctor, permit me to say that I do most devoutly thank God and every other influence that determined me to call on you and use your remedies.—A. Pollard, M.D." Send for his book of English endorsements, post free, or English and American books, with supplement of [illegible] photographic likenesses of cases before and after cure, price [illegible].—Address Dr. J. DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL.

That delightful actor Lafontaine, who, it may be hoped, will repeat his life-like performance of L'Abbé Constantin before he leaves London, has given a fresh proof of his ability and finished style by appearing as the old Colonel in that excellent comedy, "Un Fils de Famille." Few French plays have been so often adapted for the English stage. Leigh Murray played the young soldier at the Adelphi in a version called "The Discarded Son," and almost simultaneously David Fisher appeared in the same story at the Princess's called "The Lancers." Later on Mr. G. W. Godfrey gave the stage a third play founded on the same old "comédie-vaudeville," which was called "The Queen's Shilling," in which Mr. and Mrs. Kendal were admirable as the young Lancer and his lady-love, and Mr. Hare gave one of his finest and most incisive sketches of character as the old martinet, Colonel Daunt. Lafontaine was the original Colonel Alphonse Deshayes when the piece was produced at the Gymnase, on Nov. 25, 1852, and in the cast were such celebrated names as Bressant and Rose Cheri.

The services of M. Marius are just now in strong demand, both as stage manager and actor. In addition to superintending the rehearsals of "Nadgy," at the Avenue Theatre, where the electric light is to be installed, M. Marius will soon join the "Pepita" company at Mr. Toole's Theatre, and play the part now filled by Mr. Frank Wyatt, who is under engagement to appear in the new burlesque at the Strand, for which the Hon. Lewis Wingfield is designing some elaborate costumes. Mr. Toole has not yet decided whether it be possible to postpone his reappearance at Christmas in order that "Pepita" may continue its career of prosperity which appears likely to be a long one, to judge of the enthusiasm created by an extract of the opera at Mr. Bracy's benefit at the Savoy last Wednesday. "My excellent friend Bombardos" was encored as often as the equally celebrated Gendarme Duet used to be at the old Philharmonic.

Mr. George R. Sims and Mr. Pettitt may be congratulated on their determination to kill that proved absurdity, a three-act burlesque. No burlesque ever written warranted the elaboration and constructive fog of three acts. The best authors have broken down after two chapters of fun. One act is enough; two acts are permissible; three acts are impossible. This has been proved over and over again. Following the example set by Mr. W. G. Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullivan, the new Gaiety burlesque "Faust Up To Date," to be produced to-morrow evening (Saturday), will be in two acts and five scenes, mechanically changed. The scenes are all at Nuremberg. In Act I. we have "The Italian Exhibition Grounds" and the Garden. In Act II. we are introduced to "Nuremberg Square: Marguerite's Cell and the Olympia Gardens," where Mr. Robert Martin's latest song will be given at the Irish Exhibition—an appropriate head centre.

Another important addition has been made to the strong cast secured for Mr. Henry Pettitt's latest melodrama, now in active rehearsal at the Princess's Theatre, called "Hands Across the Sea." Miss Webster, who succeeded Miss Edith Woodworth recently as the heroine in "Bootles' Baby," will play a strong comedy character.

"Dorothy," originally produced at the Gaiety Theatre, will make her second move to her new home, the Lyric Theatre, in Shaftesbury-avenue, on Monday, Dec. 17. On the previous Saturday there will be two farewell performances at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, when active preparations will be made for the production of "Paul Jones."

It has often been a subject for regret that the important dramatic period ranging between the retirement of Macready from the stage and the managerial career of Henry Irving has not been adequately represented by the accurate historian or scholarly critic. The lives hitherto published of Charles Kean and Samuel Phelps have their value, but they are not wholly satisfactory works. The difficulty will be in a measure removed by the recollections of famous actors of his time recently written by the scholar and dramatist Dr. Westland Marston, whose book is distinctly the most valuable and trustworthy account of the art of acting since George Henry Lewes gave us his delightful volume. Dr. Marston dedicates his work to his old friend and comrade, Mr. Joseph Knight, the editor of "Notes and Queries," who has patiently followed the fortunes of the stage for over a quarter of a century.

The cast of this last example of light and delightful folly will comprise Miss Florence St. John as Marguerite, Mr. E. J. Lonnen as Mephistopheles, Mr. Harry Parker as Old Faust, Mr. George Stone as Valentine, Miss Fanny Robina as Young Faust, Miss Jenny McNulty as Siebel, and Miss Emma Broughton as Wagner. Mr. Percy Anderson has designed the dresses; Mr. Charles Harris is responsible for the stage production; and the music, so important a feature in a burlesque, falls to the safe and faithful hands of Herr Meyer Lutz, who has sat at his desk at the Gaiety orchestra for twenty years.

No wonder that many English and American critics agree to differ on the subject of dramatic art. After giving her incomparable performance of Claire in the "Maitre de Forges" Madame Jane Hading is considered by good judges in New York to be a far inferior actress both to Mrs. Langtry and Mrs. Brown-Potter, and all that can be possibly said in her praise is that "she has red gold hair." M. Coquelin, by the same critic, is compared, even in Molière, to a "well-drilled coachman." It is fair, however, to add that judges more temperate and appreciative, have in the case of Coquelin separated his infinite drollery from his wooden pathos, and have appreciated at its true worth the delicate, sensitive, and refined art of Jane Hading, who plays "Frou-Frou" better than Sarah Bernhardt.

Mr. Samuel French, who is in America on a visit to his son, seems to know more about the future arrangements of our London managers than they know themselves. He says that a play called "Cent. per Cent.," by Mr. Arthur Law, has been accepted by Mr. Rutland Barrington at the St. James's, and that Mr. Beerbohm Tree has resolved to produce at the Haymarket a play with the hideous title of "Jackman the Panther." Only a story for a cheap boy's "penny dreadful" could be so named, and we may believe in "Jackman the Panther" when we see it announced on the walls of the Haymarket. The success of "Jem the Penman" need not necessarily suggest "Jackman the Panther."

A new sporting farcical comedy, written by Mr. W. Sapte, junior, and Mr. E. Spencer, entitled "The Plunger," was produced at the Ladbroke Hall, for copyright purposes, on Wednesday.

It is satisfactory to learn that the public voice has approved of Mr. John Lart's powerful drama, "The Monk's Room," at the Globe, and has recognised at its proper worth the powerful acting of Mr. E. S. Willard, Mr. Hermann Vezin, and Miss Alma Murray, whose combined talent has been of the greatest possible service to a play of considerable literary merit.

The greatest success yet achieved by Mr. Wilson Barrett in "Ben my Chree" has been at Liverpool, where they know the Isle of Man by heart, and understand Manx customs. After applauding Mr. Wilson Barrett and Miss Eastlake on the first night of this brilliant drama, they called for the inevitable speech, and Mr. Hall Caine, the novelist, was introduced to a hearty Liverpool audience.

At the earnest suggestion of Mr. E. L. Blanchard—who was, of course, not responsible for them—his fellow-worker, Mr. Cunningham Bridgman, has cut out from the text of "Carina" certain verses that gave offence, as representing in an odious light the minister of a religion held in respect even by such as do not profess it. "Carina," as judiciously corrected, seems to give general satisfaction, and, in all probability, will be followed by another opera written by Madame Julia Woolf.

The notorious Mrs. "Gordon-Baillie," now undergoing a sentence of five years' penal servitude is not unknown in the theatrical and literary world. Her real husband is a young actor, Mr. Knight Aston, once well known as an operatic tenor who played some years ago in "La Périchole," and other operas by Offenbach, with Miss Selina Dolaro, at the Royalty Theatre. Under the nom de plume of "Ayrd Whyte," this versatile woman has written passionate love poems for magazines, and was at one time very anxious to obtain the valuable acting rights of several popular comedies and dramas without the obligation of paying the authors for the use of their property. But even adventuresses are fallible, for Mrs. "Gordon-Baillie," possibly for the first time in her career, met her match in a well-known dramatic publisher, who, having momentarily secured some deposit-money under a contract which the lady was anxious to rescind, was clever enough to retain the same, much to the chagrin of the pseudo-manageress. One of Mrs. "Ayrd Whyte's" love songs is singularly prophetic of her varied career. It is called "Aujourd'hui," and contrasts the present with the past, yesterday with to-day:

> Cold blows the wind across the mountain;
> Faded are the lilies by the way;
> No kiss, no song, all silent is the fountain—
> 'Tis to-day!

Sir Arthur Sullivan's address on entering upon office as President of the Birmingham and Midland Institute was judiciously designed as an encouragement and a warning. Readers of musical history find little that is new in his long array of facts tending to show that time was when England took the lead among European nations in its culture of the "art divine," but we cannot have those facts too often insisted upon. In the present age men rarely draw lessons from the far past. Accepting Longfellow's advice very completely, they act in the "living present," and only now and then look over their shoulder at yesterday or the day before. Sir Arthur has given a valuable reminder of the capacity of our people for musical distinction, and encouraged a hope that history may repeat itself. But the eminent speaker had to admit a decadence, and he accounted for it in what we take to be the only correct way: "This decadence was largely due to the enthusiasm with which commerce was pursued, and to the extraordinary way in which religious and political struggles, and, later still, practical science, absorbed English energies. We were content to buy music and make steam-engines, railways, cotton-mills, constitutions, anti-Corn Law Leagues, and caucuses."

Sir Arthur's warning is to the effect that we have not freed ourselves from the materialism which hinders art. He tells us that the Briton continues to place business, society, politics, and sport before art. "Art is very well. We have no objection to pay for it, and to pay well, but we can only enjoy it if it interferes with none of these pet pleasures, and in consequence it has often to suffer." But, though we love music with an inferior affection, we do love it in a measure, and may improve upon that if we will. All these words are timely, and, though we have them often from voice and pen, it is well that they should be spoken by one who is able to command attention.

Mr. F. H. Cowen's Worcester oratorio, "Ruth," was performed on Sept. 6 at the Melbourne Exhibition, the composer conducting, and a very large audience being present. The work appears to have met with a cordial reception, while Mr. Cowen himself "was made the object of a most graceful ovation on the part of the ladies of the choir, having hundreds of bouquets and wreaths thrown at him, half filling his box." We gather from the public journals that the professional critics differ advantageously from Dr. Villiers Stanford's description of their brethren at home. They do not invent faults, nor do they flout composers who aim higher than comic opera. Here, for example, is a representative utterance anent "Ruth": "Mr. Cowen has a right to fame, either as a music-poet, treating the epic or the lyric, and the choruses in 'Ruth' point, we think, chiefly in favour of his genius for the former and higher line of art. There is no desire to subject Mr. Cowen to the process of what Schumann called 'honey-daubing,' but it is critical truth to say that 'Ruth' is a splendid work, looked at from any point of view."

Professor Max Pauer appears to have established himself very successfully at Cologne. His class at the Conservatory is well filled by pupils from various countries, and his services as a pianist are largely in request by musical societies in the neighbouring towns. Mr. Pauer is about to give, at the historic Gurzenich Concert-room, a series of four "Pianoforte Evenings," at which he will play a large selection of representative works in chronological order. He is expected to appear at some of the Popular Concerts in February next, and also to make a short tour through the English counties.

Amateurs of chamber music will be glad to know some particulars about the forthcoming season of Popular Concerts in St. James's Hall. Mr. Arthur Chappell calls his faithful supporters around him on Monday, Nov. 12, and forty-one performances are intended to be given, ending on Monday, April 15. The artists so far engaged are chiefly those long associated with the enterprise—namely, Madame Neruda, Miss Fanny Davies, Messrs. Joachim, Ries, Straus, Hollander, Gibson, Piatti, and Sir Charles Hallé. In addition, arrangements have been made with Mr. Edward Grieg, for four appearances as solo pianist, Madame Grieg being the vocalist on each occasion. The first programme includes three pieces for violin and piano by Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, while those who prefer music which is absolutely new to England may reckon upon making acquaintance (Nov. 26) with Brahms's "Gipsy Songs" for four voices and piano. These will be sung by Mrs. Henschel, Miss Lena Little, Mr. Shakespeare, and Mr. Henschel.

Master Otto Hegner has been spending the last few weeks with his professor, Hans Huber, studying and arranging fresh programmes for forthcoming concerts in England. He recently gave a recital at his native town, Bâle, and was, of course, received with enthusiasm.

Mr. N. Vert has arranged with Madame Marie Roze for another concert tour in England before her long-projected and oft-delayed progress round the world. In order to carry out this understanding, Madame Roze will make fewer appearances on the Continent than was at one time anticipated. The tour begins in January and lasts till the end of February, when, as at present contemplated, the artist will leave for Australia.

Frequenters of Steinway Hall have a certain interest in knowing that that place of assembly has been cleaned and beautified for the coming season. It is now, we are assured, one of the most elegant public rooms in the metropolis. The change must indeed be great.

The famous Russian pianist, Madame Essipoff, is expected in England on Nov. 15. During her stay amongst us she will give recitals at Leeds, Huddersfield, Southport, Manchester, Torquay, Bristol, and other places. She will also play at the Crystal Palace, on Dec. 1, and appear in St. James's Hall, on a date yet to be fixed. Her performances are sure, as on previous occasions, to command interested attention.

Mr. Linger, a wealthy amateur of Italian opera, is making arrangements for a performance of Gounod's "Faust," to take place at Paignton, near Torquay, within the ensuing month. Greatly daring, he will himself essay the part of Mephistopheles, the other characters being allotted to artists of eminence. It is even said that Miss Marie Van Zandt comes over from the Continent specially to play Marguerite. We understand that the opera will be produced in a sumptuous manner, the stage, by the way, being that which served for the first performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance."

The deficiency in the receipts of the Bristol Festival is such that a somewhat heavy demand may have to be made upon the guarantors. This completes the list of Festival failures during the present season, and ranks Bristol with Chester, Birmingham, and Hereford, at all of which places there was a more or less serious diminution of takings.

It is intended by the Council of the Senate of Cambridge University, to propose to the Senate a grace for conferring upon Dr. A. C. Mackenzie the honorary degree of Doctor of Music.

The standing committee of the Gloucester Festival (1889) met last Saturday, and virtually determined upon the programme, which they will recommend to the general meeting of stewards. Particulars would be premature, but it may be stated that the selections agreed to promise unusual interest.

Mr. Augustus Harris visited the Jodrell Theatre last night, and was so pleased with the splendid acting and singing of the baritone, M. Michael Winogradow, that he immediately offered him an engagement of five years' duration, which M. Winogradow accepted, the contract being signed at an early hour this morning.

A breach of promise case interesting to cigar smokers was heard in the Sheriff's Court, Glasgow, yesterday. Miss Maggie Lockhead Watson, residing in Buccleuch-street, Glasgow, brought an action for £500 against Mr. Wm. Kirkland, because he failed to marry her. Kirkland, who was a smoker, received a letter from his sweetheart, the plaintiff, in which she stated that "you must choose between me and a cigar." He continued to smoke, and the engagement was broken off. The Sheriff Substitute decided in Kirkland's favour, and yesterday the Sheriff Principal upheld that judgment.

Cheap River Fares.—A winter service of steamboats is to be maintained between Battersea and Greenwich by the Victoria Steamboat Association with the best and newest boats of their fleet, which will afford comfortable shelter to passengers, the saloons being well heated and lighted. The fares will be low, and will be the same on Sundays as on weekdays. Travellers can now go from Battersea to London Bridge—five miles—for a penny, and from the same starting-point to Greenwich for threepence.

The Swansea Tragedy.—Mr. Coroner Strick resumed the inquest, at Pontardawe, yesterday, on the body of John Harper, aged five years. Thomas Lott, a youth, was in custody charged with the murder. Evidence was given of the finding of the little fellow's body in a wood by Constable Hopkins. Dr. Price Jones said he saw the body lying, face downwards, in the grass. It had evidently been dragged eight yards from a spot where there were bloodstains. There was a large wound in the throat and a small stab on the upper part of the abdomen. Lott, who was last seen with deceased, told the police that the knife would be found on a window-sill in the slaughterhouse where he was occasionally employed. He was committed for trial on the charge of murder.

Fire in Glasgow.—Yesterday an alarming fire occurred in the new Apothecary Hall, Glassford-street, Glasgow. A number of girls who were working in a flat above the fire were rescued. Two were brought to the street in an exhausted condition, and others were pulled out through the roof by means of ropes, while three more were rescued by a back stair. The damage amounts to £1,200.

A Useful Hint.—If British housekeepers, instead of purchasing the commonest of common matches, because they are low priced and thought to be cheap, would use none but matches bearing Bryant and May's name, they would not only get the best value for their money, but would enable Bryant and May to pay thousands of pounds more weekly in wages; and in that way the British housekeepers would be doing real good to the working classes of the East-end of London.—[Advertisement.]

PRICES FOR FUTURE DELIVERY.

New York, Oct. 25.—Wheat opened ⅛c higher, November selling at 109⅝c. The market has had a more animated tone owing to the heavy buying in Chicago. The speculative trade here has also been fairly heavy. The export demand continues light. At the close values show an advance of 1½c to 2c. December curb 114c.

Sales, futures, 3,448,000 bushels; spot, 22,000 bushels. Receipts, 130,000 bushels; same day last year, 167,987 bushels. Clearances, 10,000 bushels.

Yesterday	109	109⅞	111½	112⅞	—	116⅜

Corn at the opening was slightly firmer, and ⅛c higher. Early business was done in December at 50¼ and 50⅜. There has been a better inquiry for export, and the market has strengthened in unison with wheat, and closes firm ⅛c to ⅜c higher.

Sales, futures, 448,000 bushels; spot, 191,000 bushels. Receipts, 220,000 bushels; same day last year, 187,952. Clearances, 100,000 bushels.

To-day	—	49⅜	50⅜	—
Yesterday	—	49⅛	50	—

Lard has been weak under the pressure to sell by holders, and there being little or no demand from refiners the closing is weak 5 to 45 points decline.

Sales, 1,000 tierces.

Copper continues dull, November being nominally 17.35.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Wheat at the opening call was 1c higher for December delivery, and ¼c higher for other periods. Under the influence of the North-West and local speculators buying, market has hardened and advanced sharply, finally closing 2½ to 2⅞ higher. The curb price of May delivery is reported at 116.

Receipts, 370,000 bushels; same day last year, 538,243 bushels.

	Oct.	Nov.	Dec.	May.
To-day	113⅜	114¼	115⅞	115⅞
Yesterday	111⅛	111⅞	113¼	112⅝

Corn started about ⅛c higher, and has maintained the advance owing principally to the advance in the wheat market. Receipts continue large and have rather a depressing influence, which checks a larger advance. Closing prices are unchanged to ⅛ higher.

Receipts, 350,000 bushels; same day last year, 238,820 bushels.

	Oct.	Nov.	Dec.	Jan.	May.
To-day	41¼	41¼	39⅜	37⅞	39⅝
Yesterday	41	41	39⅛	—	39⅛

Lard opened unchanged, but soon developed a weak tone, owing to the hog receipts being heavy and to holders realising. The close is weak, 10 to 37 points lower.

Receipts: Hogs, 17,000; same day last year, 26,977.

MR. W. H. SMITH AT MIDDLESBROUGH.

Yesterday Mr. W. H. Smith, First Lord of the Treasury, performed the ceremony of opening the South Gare Breakwater on the estuary of the Tees. In the evening a banquet was held in the Royal Exchange, Middlesbrough, under the presidency of Sir Joseph Pease, Bart., M.P., chairman of the River Tees Conservancy Commission, Mr. Smith being the principal guest. A company numbering nearly 500 assembled, including peers, members of Parliament, members of local corporations, borough and county magistrates, the principal representatives of trade and commerce in the district, and military officers. After the repast the usual toasts were given from the chair. The Chairman proposed "Our Visitors."—Lord Londonderry first responded, and after some references to the development of Middlesbrough, made a brief allusion to the Government policy in Ireland, stating that he and his colleagues honestly believed that the course they were pursuing would lead to the future benefit of that country. They hoped to see the day when peace would be within her walls and prosperity within her palaces.—Lord Brassey followed.—The First Lord of the Treasury, on rising to respond, was received with loud cheers. After tracing the rise and remarkably rapid progress of Middlesbrough, the right hon. gentleman observed that they heard whispers in these days of "unions" and "trusts," under which the weak were to be protected against the strong, under which what was easily produced was not to be sold as cheaply as it otherwise would be. He did not himself believe in the possibility in this country of any combination at any time controlling the price of a commodity in general use, or that was capable of being produced to any large extent in different parts of the Empire. He was absolutely confident that any financial combination which attempted to control the market and to enforce a monopoly would promptly come to most fearful grief. (Cheers.) He then asked them to drink to "The Tees Conservancy Commission." He did not know any instance in which such valuable works had been carried out at so small a cost. The works had been characterised by the enterprise which belonged to North-countrymen. He knew of no case in which reclamation of land had been effected so successfully as it had been on the river Tees. Their chairman was a man of peace, but he could not feel that they would be secure in the valuable commodities which belonged to them unless they were prepared to deny the admission of any marauder who might choose to assault them, and unless they were prepared to defend their harbours and rivers. On this account he congratulated them, and acknowledged the public spirit with which the inhabitants of Teesside and Tyneside and other rivers in this part of the country had exhibited in resolving that for themselves they would deny admission to foreign men-of-war or foreign cruisers to their waters. (Cheers.) The toast was responded to by Sir J. Pease and Mr. Fallows.—Other toasts followed.

NEWMARKET NOTES.

The curtain has fallen upon another act in the Houghton week play, and if the fields were not so large as on Wednesday, and the general attendance suffered in proportion, this was to be expected. In the first place, horses cannot stand much knocking about on ground of iron-like hardness, and, secondly, the gathering at Worcester had offered attractions to many people interested in the fortunes of the Midland stables. Although the early hours of the morning were somewhat dull, the afternoon was most enjoyable, and we have been reminded often this week of the last days of the Summer. Although the Duke of Cambridge had taken his departure from headquarters, the Prince of Wales was again present, and the new visitors included Lord Rothschild. With the Troy Stakes declared void, and the Glasgow Stakes a walk over, there nevertheless remained eight contests, and the market suggested at the outset that Davenport would atone in the Bretby Nursery for his failure in a similar engagement on Monday. It was thus a bad beginning for the talent when he became in trouble some distance from home, and all the more so as their second string, Bret Harte, succumbed to L'Avare. The latter, ridden by an apprentice, was for once caught in a generous vein, and he in consequence won from the fall of the flag, and could have materially increased a verdict of three parts of a length. The Plate of £200 was regarded in the light of a match between Noble Chieftain and Paloma, and the course being a furlong shorter, the two-year-old made a far better fight than against Braw Lass and Fullerton. Still she may have been tired when she rolled slightly into Noble Chieftain in the last fifty yards, and if the plungers took alarm half-way up the hill, Lord Penrhyn's champion never had the worst of the encounter. In the Feather Plate, Lilla, Holman, Homemade, and Corncrake were ridden by apprentices, and the second and last-named, like Clang and Sapientia, also availed themselves of the full advantage of the selling scale. Lilla was a strong second favourite to Savant, and she stayed well to the end, if no match for the brother to Mill Stream, who is such a compact colt that Captain Machell may have made no mistake in giving 750 guineas for him, despite the fact that winners of this race have seldom trained into useful horses. Of the three penalised ones taking part in the Cheveley Stakes Sweetbriar was far away the best form, and the odds layers acted from the belief that she had shaken off the effects of a recent cough. On the other hand, the bookmakers fielded at the finish with great eagerness, and they were apparently justified in so doing, as Sweetbriar, instead of cutting up his opponents in the Goodwood and Derby style, was as dead as a stone half-way down the Bushes Hill. In the meanwhile Workington sailed home an easy winner from Clodpole, and the maiden allowance was of no help to the Annie colt, who on this occasion wore blinkers. Although Fair Marion was coming down the ladder with a vengeance when engaged in the Selling Nursery, she could not quite give the weight away to Barskimming and Fiddlededee, and Mr. Naylor consoled himself for the defeat of his representative by giving 420 guineas for the winner. Barskimming commenced his career in the service of Mr. Douglas Baird, and I well remember that he was reckoned to have a chance in the Whitsuntide Plate at Manchester when pitted against Chitabob and Donovan. Before the Houghton Handicap Lord Durham gave Dolores to his trainer, Alfred Sadler, who had the satisfaction of seeing him struggle home in front of Grandison and Harpagon, the latter being penalised 7lb. Trundle Hill improved upon all his previous running when he secured the Selling Plate over the last five furlongs of the Abingdon Mile, and then came the wind up in the Free Handicap. After the Cambridgeshire failure of Sheen, Prince Soltykoff was justified in having two strings to his bow, and Love in Idleness carried the first colours, the rider of the colt being distinguished by a black belt, and it was necessary to declare a little overweight for each. On the running of Tuesday it could be made out that Acme ought to beat Sheen. The field was completed by Stronvar and Benburb, and with the former fairly the favourite 5 to 2 was the average price of Acme. The fate of Stronvar was sealed at the Bushes, from which point Sheen and Acme forged ahead, and the weight telling at last Lord Lurgan's colt knocked under by half a length. There can be no doubt that both had been chopped in the Cambridgeshire, and that they would moreover prefer different kind of going. The weights for the Liverpool Cup have just been published, and at the head of the list stands Kinsky and Satiety, who will scarcely accept, as they are not in active training, the picks of the Handicap being in my opinion Acme, Goldseeker, Gallinule, Trayles, Cactus, Danbydale, Lady Rosebery, and Polydor. To-morrow will see the meeting brought to an end, and my selections are: D'Orsay or Testator for the Houghton Stakes, Royal Gem or Stanley for the Old Nursery, Hazlewood for the Selling Plate (T.Y.C.), Antibes for the Free Handicap, Athol Lass or Fair Marion for the Two-Year-Old Selling Plate, Reve d'Or for the Jockey Club Cup, and Phil for the Select Handicap.

NEWMARKET HOUGHTON MEETING.

THURSDAY.

The BRETBY NURSERY HANDICAP PLATE of 200 sovs; winners extra; entrance 5 sovs. Bretby Stakes Course (6 furlongs).

General O. Williams's L'Avare, by the Miser—Victress, by Lambton, 6st 9lb (allowed 5lb) (Hibbard) 1
Mr. G. Cleveland's Bret Harte, 8st 5lb (G. Barrett) 2
Lord Gerard's King Herod, 8st 8lb (J. Woodburn) 3
Lord R. Churchill's Engaddi, 8st 4lb (E. Martin) 0
Sir R. Jardine's Cateran, 8st 2lb (Warne) 0
Mr. J. B. Hankey's Petersburg, 8st (F. Barrett) 0
Lord Bradford's Davenport, 7st 13lb (car 8st 1lb) (Rickaby) 0
Mr. Vyner's Glory Smitten, 7st 10lb (Wall) 0
(Winner trained by Sherrard.)

Betting—11 to 8 agst Davenport, 4 to 1 agst Bret Harte, 7 to 1 agst L'Avare, 10 to 1 each agst King Herod and Glory Smitten, and 100 to 8 each agst Engaddi and Petersburg.

L'Avare, on the left, made play from King Herod and Bret Harte, with Davenport in the centre, next to the Bushes, where Davenport was beaten, and Bret Harte took second place, but could not get on terms with L'Avare, who won in a canter by three-quarters of a length; a bad third. Engaddi was fourth, Davenport fifth, Petersburg sixth, and Cateran last.

A PLATE of 200 sovs; weight for age, &c.; entrance 5 sovs. Rous Course.

Lord Penrhyn's Noble Chieftain, by Fitzjames—Village Belle, 3 yrs, 8st 10lb (T. Cannon) 1
Mr. J. Hammond's Paloma, 2 yrs, 7st 10lb (G. Barrett) 2
General Owen Williams's Holyrood, 3 yrs, 7st 10lb (S. Loates) 3
Mr. J. N. Astley's f by Bruce—Sister to Hazledean, 2 yrs, 7st 4lb (Mullen) 0
Mr. J. H. Houldsworth's Neapolis, 3 yrs, 7st 10lb (Warne) 0
Count Lehndorff's Hortari, 3 yrs, 8st 1lb (F. Barrett) 0
Mr. H. S. Leon's Prince Peter, 2 yrs, 7st 4lb (J. Woodburn) 0
(Winner trained Privately.)

Betting—7 to 2 on Noble Chieftain, 6 to 1 agst Paloma, 100 to 6 agst Neapolis, and 25 to 1 agst others.

Prince Peter cut out the work, and was closely attended by Paloma and Hortari, with Noble Chieftain next, until nearing the Bushes, when Noble Chieftain took up the running, followed by Paloma, who closed in the Abingdon Mile Bottom, but always had the worst of it, and was beaten easily at last by a neck; a bad third. The sister to Hazledean filly was fourth, and Neapolis last.

The FEATHER PLATE of 150 guineas; weight for age, &c.; entrance 4 sovs. Cesarewitch Course (2 miles 2 furlongs 28 yards).

Mr. H. Mackey's Savant, by Wisdom—Mill Race, by Brown Bread, 2 yrs, 5st 2lb (£500) (G. Chaloner) 1
Mr. Whitley's Lilla, 2 yrs, 5st 9lb (allowed 5lb) (£500) (S. Webb) 2
Mr. E. Jones's Sapientia, 3 yrs, 7st 13lb (G. Barrett) 3
Mr. G. Cleveland's Clang, 2 yrs, 5st 10lb (car. 6st 11lb) (W. Jones) 0
Mr. Crest's Corncrake, 2 yrs, 5st 7lb (allowed 5lb) (J. Bland) 0
Lord Ellesmere's Home-made, 2 yrs, 5st 9lb (allowed 5lb) (£500) (H. Merkin) 0
Mr. A. Benholm's Holman, 2 yrs, 5st 7lb (allowed 5lb) (Bowen) 0
(Winner trained by Owner.)

Betting—7 to 4 agst Savant, 3 to 1 agst Lilla, 7 to 1 each agst Sapientia and Home-made, and 10 to 1 agst others (offered).

Clang settled down in front, and was attended by Home-made and Lilla, with Savant and Sapientia lying off. Half way across the Flat Savant assumed a clear lead, and, having the race in hand at the Bushes, he carefully kept Lilla at arm's length, and won in a canter by a length. Sapientia was a bad third, just in front of Home-made, with Holman fifth, and Corncrake beaten off. The winner was sold to Captain Machell for 750 guineas.

The CHEVELEY STAKES of 20 sovs each, 5 ft, with 300 added, for two-yr-olds; colts, 8st 10lb; fillies, 8st 7lb; with penalties and allowances; the second saved stake; entrance 5 sovs. Rous Course (5 furlongs).

Mr. J. Lowther's Workington, by Charibert—Hematite, 9st 1lb (Watts) 1
Mr. D. Baird's Clodpole, 8st 10lb (Warne) 2
Sir G. Chetwynd's c by Silvester—Annie, 8st 3lb (F. Barrett) 3
Duke of Beaufort's Arquebus, 9st 1lb (T. Cannon) 0
Sir R. Jardine's Sweet Briar, 9st 1lb (J. Osborne) 0
(Winner trained by Enoch.)

Betting—6 to 4 on Sweet Briar, 7 to 1 agst Annie colt, 8 to 1 each agst Arquebus and Workington, and 20 to 1 agst Clodpole.

Workington made play, attended by the Annie colt, with Sweet Briar and Arquebus next to the Bushes, where the favourite was beaten, and Workington, easily holding his own, won in a canter by three-quarters of a length; a bad third. Sweetbriar was last.

A SELLING NURSERY PLATE (handicap) of 105 sovs, for two-yr-olds; the winner to be sold for 200 sovs; entrance 5 sovs. Rous Course (5 furlongs).

Mr. J. Ryan's Barskimming, by Barcaldine—Symmetry, 6st 9lb (allowed 5lb) (Falcon) 1
Mr. R. C. Naylor's Fiddle-de-dee, 6st 9lb (Wall) 2
Capt. Machell's Fair Marion, 7st 9lb (G. Chaloner) 3
Mr. B. Luckie's Paget, 7st 7lb (allowed 5lb) (Gallaher) 0
Mr. E. Jones' Miss Maud, 7st 9lb (G. Barrett) 0
Mr. A. Benholm's Maid of Lorne, 7st 2lb (Bowen) 0
Mr. T. Cannon's Cape Race, 7st 1lb (M. Cannon) 0
Mr. T. Jennings jun.'s f by Hampton—Lady Kars, 6st 10lb (car 6st 12lb) (J. Woodburn) 0
Mr. Malnprice's Gaillard II., 6st 9lb (Mullen) 0
(Winner trained by Owner.)

Betting—2 to 1 agst Fair Marion, 4 to 1 agst Barskimming, 7 to 1 agst Fiddle-de-dee, 8 to 1 each agst Maid of Lorne and Lady Kars filly, and 10 to 1 each agst Miss Maud and Cape Race.

Miss Maud got away in front, and made play from Barskimming, Fiddlededee, and Fair Marion for half the journey, when Fiddlededee took up the running, attended by Barskimming and Fair Marion. A fine race ensued, Barskimming winning by a head; half a length between second and third. Paget was fourth, Cape Race fifth, and Gaillard II. last.

The HOUGHTON HANDICAP PLATE of 200 sovs, added to a sweepstakes of 5 sovs each; winners extra; entrance 5 sovs. T.Y.C.

Lord Durham's Dolores, by George Frederick—Inez de Castro, 3 yrs, 6st (car 6st 2lb) (Bates) 1
Lord Ellesmere's Grandison, 4 yrs, 7st 5lb (Wall) 2
General O. Williams' Harpagon, 3 yrs, 8st 13lb (inc 7lb ex) (J. Woodburn) 3
Mr. G. Hammond's Lal Brough, 4 yrs, 8st 5lb (Rickaby) 0
Mr. A. Benholm's Bartisan, 3 yrs, 8st 4lb (F. Barrett) 0

Mr. G. Cleveland's Albertus, 3 yrs, 6st 4lb (W. Jones) 0
(Winner trained by Sadler.)

Betting—2 to 1 agst Harpagon, 6 to 1 agst Grandison, 8 to 1 agst Franciscan, 100 to 12 agst Maiden Belle, 10 to 1 agst Luciana, 10 to 1 agst Bartisan, 100 to 8 each agst Lyddington and Dolores, and 20 to 1 each agst Antonina and Albertus.

Harpagon and Lyddington made joint play from Dolores and Grandison, with Franciscan and Maiden Belle next, until a quarter of a mile from home, when Lyddington dropped back, and with Harpagon in trouble at the distance, he gave way to Dolores and Grandison, the former of whom won a good race by a neck; two lengths between second and third. Franciscan was fourth, Luciana fifth, Lyddington sixth, Maiden Belle seventh, and Lal Brough was last.

A SELLING PLATE of 100 sovs, for two-yr-olds; colts, 8st, and fillies, 8st 11lb; the winner to be sold for 100 sovs; entrance 3 sovs. Last 5 furlongs of Ab.M.

Mr. W. A. Jarvis's Trundle Hill, by Goodwood—dam by Asteroid, 9st (Watts) 1
Mr. Spalding's Doreuse, 8st 11lb (F. Barrett) 2
Mr. Childwick's Rose d'Amour, 8st 11lb (Robinson) 3
Mr. W. Gilbert's Libiamo, 8st 11lb (Warne) 0
Mr. G. Haughton's Italian Girl, 8st 11lb (E. Martin) 0
(Winner trained by Owner.)

Betting—9 to 4 agst Rose d'Amour, 3 to 1 agst Trundle Hill, 4 to 1 agst Doreuse, 6 to 1 agst Italian Girl, and 100 to 15 agst Libiamo.

Trundle Hill made nearly all the running, and won by a length; a neck between second and third. Italian Girl was fourth. The winner was sold to Baron M. de Tuyll for 300 guineas.

A FREE HANDICAP SWEEPSTAKES of 100 sovs each, h ft, for three-year-olds; winners extra; the second received 200 sovs and the third saved stake. A.F. (1¼ mile). 25 subs.

Prince Soltykoff's Sheen, by Hampton—Radiancy, 9st 12lb (inc. 5lb ex) (car 7st) (M. Cannon) 1
Lord Lurgan's Acme, 8st 2lb (F. Barrett) 2
Sir R. Jardine's Stronvar, 6st 10lb (Chandley) 3
Prince Soltykoff's Love-in-Idleness, 6st 12lb (car 6st 13lb) (J. Woodburn) 4
Duke of Beaufort's Benburb, 6st 10lb (T. Mullen) 0
(Winner trained by Jennings, sen.)

Betting—2 to 1 agst Stronvar, 9 to 4 agst Acme, 5 to 1 each agst Sheen and Love-in-Idleness, and 6 to 1 agst Benburb.

Love-in-Idleness held a slight lead on the right, followed by Stronvar and Sheen, with Acme next, clear of Benburb, until a quarter of a mile from home, when Stronvar was in trouble. Love-in-Idleness gave way directly afterwards to Sheen and Acme, the former of whom shook off the challenge of Lord Lurgan's colt and beat him by half a length; six lengths off Love-in-Idleness and Stronvar ran a dead heat for third place.

RENEWAL of the GLASGOW STAKES (a post stakes) of 100 sovs each, for two-yr-old colts; 8st 12lb each; one to the post. Bretby Stakes Course (6 furlongs). 3 subs.

Mr. Manton' Devil's Dance, by Robert the Devil—Polonaise, 8st 12lb (E. Martin) w.o.

THE JOCKEY CLUB.

A meeting of the Jockey Club was held at Newmarket on Wednesday last. Present: Mr. H. W. Fitzwilliam, Mr. J. Lowther, and Lord March, stewards; H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Sir J. Astley, Mr. Douglas Baird, Duke of Beaufort, Lord Bradford, Sir G. Chetwynd, Mr. J. A. Craven, Lord Durham, Lord Hardwicke, Lord Hartington, Sir F. Johnstone, Lord Lascelles, Mr. Legh, Mr. Leopold de Rothschild, Duke of St. Albans, Prince Soltykoff, Lord Suffield, Lord Suffolk, Mr. Tharp, General Owen Williams, and Lord Zetland.

General Owen Williams called the attention of the meeting to the Racing Fixtures for 1889, as published in the "Racing Calendar" of Sept. 13, and moved the following resolution: "That it was desirable to retain the fixtures from year to year, so far as practicable, in the same order." Lord Hardwicke seconded the resolution.

After considerable discussion, in which Lord Hardwicke, Lord Lascelles, Mr. Lowther, the Duke of St. Albans, Mr. Fitzwilliam, Lord Bradford, the Duke of Beaufort, Lord Suffolk, and Lord Hartington took part, the resolution was not pressed, and the Stewards intimated that, as they gathered that the general feeling of the Club was in favour of the October meetings at Newmarket being fixed earlier than they had suggested, they proposed to rearrange them accordingly. Adjourned.

EPSOM AUTUMN MEETING.

The starter having reported Mr. J. Dashwood, rider of Glenhubler, for disobedience to his orders at the start for the Corinthian Plate, the Stewards investigated the matter at Newmarket on Tuesday in the Houghton Meeting, and, as Stewards of the Jockey Club, decided that Mr. Dashwood be not allowed to ride again under the Rules of Racing until further orders.

HORSES STRUCK OUT OF THEIR ENGAGEMENTS.

On Oct. 19, at 9.0 a.m., Idmon, out of Scurry Welter Handicap, Worcester; f foal, by Charibert—Lydian (dead), out of all engagements; at 10.36 a.m., Oliver Twist, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes; at 11.55 a.m., Voyageur, out of all engagements; at 7.30 p.m., Thunderstorm, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes; Mirabelle, out of Rowlston Nursery, East Riding Club Meeting.

Oct. 20, at 9.0 a.m., Craig North and Marat, out of all engagements; at 11.53 a.m., Attila, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes; after 2.0 p.m., Santa Cruz and Caprice, out of all engagements; at 5.15 p.m., Tondina, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes; at 5.50 p.m., Hawthorn, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes.

Oct. 22, at 9.0 a.m., Curraghmore, out of Rowlston Nursery Handicap, East Riding Club Meeting; Apenn, out of Free Handicap, A.F., Newmarket Houghton Meeting; Minting and Mischief, out of all engagements; Lisbon, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes; Lasso, out of Liverpool Autumn Handicap; at 12.15 p.m., Domina Sylva and Wenlock Edge, out of Worcester engagements and Club Stand Plate, East Riding Club Meeting; at 5.20 p.m., Chelsea, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes; at 5.45 p.m., Fairhaven and Ice, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes; at 6.20 p.m., Kingfisher, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes; at 6.40 p.m., Tonans, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes; at 8.10 p.m., Queen's Counsel, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes; at 8.20 p.m., Eiridspord, Zanzibar, The Cob, Benburb, Fealty, Irgunder, Cherry Ripe, Hark, Dante, Belisarius II., and Latania, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes.

Oct. 23, at 1.30 p.m., Heloise, out of Cambridgeshire Stakes; at 9.45 p.m., Torch Light, out of all engagements; at 5.30 p.m., yearling colt by The Rake—Concealment (dead), out of all engagements; Grenadier, out of all engagements, 1889.

In the list published in last week's Calendar the time that Minting was struck out of the Cambridgeshire should have been given as Oct. 11, at 3.15 p.m., not 2.15 p.m.

Mamia has been struck out of all Liverpool engagements.

The Middleham light-weight jockey, W. Glover, has accepted a three years' engagement to ride for the German stable presided over by M. Simon, at Hoppegarten. Arthur Hall, of Epsom, has been engaged by the same employer to train and ride his steeplechase and hurdle race horses, also for a period of three years. He, with Glover, will leave England at the close of the present season.

Blood Stock Sale at Newmarket.—Messrs. Tattersall's catalogue for yesterday's sale was mainly comprised of yearlings, and these, together with the draft of horses in training sent up by Mr. C. Hibbert, made up quite fifty lots. Of these about a score were returned unsold. The highest price realised for any yearling was 430 guineas, which was paid for a charming colt by Petrarch—Katrine, sent up by R. Stephenson, of Burwell, who also found a purchaser for a nicely-bred filly by the same sire, at 330 guineas. Of the horses in training, Wrangler was sold to Mr. E. P. Wilson for 700 guineas, and the well-known hurdle racer Bonnie Lassie was bought in just short of 1,000 guineas.

COUNTY CRICKET COUNCIL.

The meeting of the County Cricket Council will be held on Dec. 10, the day before the meeting of county secretaries at Lord's. At present only two notices of motion have been received—one being the resolutions by Sussex relative to residential qualification, and the other by Lord Harris, who will propose: "That, for the purposes of cricket, the county boundaries are not affected by the Local Government Act, 1888."

BILLIARDS.

Peall v. Mitchell.—The chief feature of yesterday's play in the spot-barred match of 9,000 points up, between these professionals, at the Aquarium, was a beautiful break of 291 by Peall, which is the largest made in public this season. This was his only innings of three figures, and one half of it was made in the afternoon. Overnight the scores were: Peall, 4,562; Mitchell, 3,270, and during the day the last-named continued to lose ground. His best contributions were 57, 49, 44, 40, 41, 81, 71, 61, 42, and 118. In addition to the item of 291, Peall also made 68, 54, 49, 40, 64, 51, 60, 73, 49, and 63. At the end of the day's play the scores were: Peall, 6,001; Mitchell, 4,462.

Another Rupture Sufferer Completely Cured by Harness' New Hernia Appliances and Treatment.—Mr. Robert Ford, Cowleigh-road, North Malvern, writes, Oct. 9, 1888: "In May last I placed myself under your treatment for rupture, and after four months' trial of your new appliance I may now safely say that I am completely cured. My advice to those who suffer in a similar way is to place themselves at once under your care. It will always be a very great pleasure to me to answer any inquiries with respect to my case and your treatment." Sufferers may save themselves a lifetime of torture by adopting this the only reliable treatment. Examination free by an experienced and skilful surgeon at Harness' Electropathic Establishment, 52, Oxford-street, London, W. (corner of Rathbone-place).—(Advt.)

Soft, White Skin.—Beetham's Glycerine and Cucumber is invaluable at this season of the year for preserving the skin from the effects of frost, cold winds, and hard water. A few applications render it soft, smooth, and white, and remove all roughness, redness, and chaps. Gentlemen will find it delightfully soothing if applied after shaving.—Bottles 1s., of all Chemists. Free for 3d. extra, by the sole makers, M. Beetham and Son, Chemists, Cheltenham.—(Advertisement.)

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

DIVORCE DIVISION, Oct. 25.

(Before Mr. Justice Butt.)

HARDING V. HARDING AND FARQUHARSON.

This was the petition of Mr. Edward G. Harding for a divorce by reason of the misconduct of his wife with the co-respondent, Mr. Ronald James Farquharson. Both the petitioner and the co-respondent are coffee planters at Ceylon.

Mr. Searle appeared for the petitioner; and there was no defence.

The marriage took place on April 10, 1877, at St. James's Church, Westminster, and Mr. and Mrs. Harding afterwards lived at Ceylon, there being two children the issue. The petitioner lived very happily with his wife until she made the acquaintance of the co-respondent, a friend of the husband's, who was ultimately forbidden the house. In the autumn of 1887 he was away from the plantation for a few days to visit some estates, and when he returned he found that she had absented herself from the house. He examined a blotting pad (which was produced), and by holding it up to the looking-glass, he discovered that she had been corresponding with Farquharson upon affectionate terms. Upon her return he accused her of being unfaithful, which she admitted. For the sake of the children he offered to agree to a separation, on the condition that she should cease to have anything to do with the co-respondent; but she declined to give this undertaking. It was given in evidence that they were now living in a bungalow together, and this suit was instituted.

Mr. Justice Butt granted a decree nisi, with costs, and custody of the children.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT—Oct. 25.

(Before Mr. Justice Cave.)

Wife Murders.—Levi Richard Bartlett, 57, general dealer, was accused of the wilful murder of his wife Elizabeth, 56, on Aug. 19 last.—Mr. Poland and Mr. Charles Mathews (instructed by Mr. Frayling) prosecuted on behalf of the Treasury, and the prisoner was defended by Mr. Geoghegan and Mr. Lawless.—Bartlett, a drunken, dissolute, quarrelsome man, kept a milk and general dealer's shop in Manchester-street, Poplar. He frequently quarrelled with his wife. At last, on Sunday morning, Aug. 19, having been drunk all the previous day, he killed his wife with a hammer, afterwards attempting suicide.—The jury, after deliberating for two hours, found the prisoner guilty.—Mr. Justice Cave passed sentence of death.——John Brown, 45, was indicted for the wilful murder of his wife Sarah, aged forty-five, in their house in Regent's-gardens, Westminster, on the night of Saturday, Sept. 29 last.—Mr. Poland and Mr. Charles Mathews prosecuted, and the prisoner was undefended.—Brown, the prosecution admitted, is undoubtedly insane. He was under the delusion that his wife was unfaithful.—The jury found that the prisoner was insane at the time he committed the murder, and he was ordered to be detained during her Majesty's pleasure.

(Before the Recorder.)

The Cat.—John Ryan, 20, labourer, was found guilty of highway robbery with violence on Isaac Ellen, was sentenced to twelve months' hard labour, and to suffer twenty strokes with the cat-o'-nine-tails.

POLICE INTELLIGENCE.

MARLBOROUGH-STREET.—Bogus Club.—Joaquin Portella and Jno. Baum were summoned by the excise authorities for having allowed wine, spirits, beer, and tobacco to be sold at a house in Windmill-street, Tottenham-court-road, which was not licensed for the purpose.—Mr. Powell conducted the prosecution, and Mr. Cannot defended.—Mr. Newton imposed a fine of £50 upon each defendant, remarking that the case was a very bad one, as many complaints had reached him with regard to the establishment.

WORSHIP-STREET.—Vestry Prosecutions.—A number of summonses taken out by the vestry authorities of Bethnal-green against shopkeepers and street traders of the parish came on for hearing before Mr. Montagu Williams, Q.C., Mr. Voss, solicitor, attending, with the vestry clerk, to support the proceedings.—In the case of William Agas, bird-dealer, of Hare-street, Bethnal-green, summoned for having birdcages exposed "outside" his shop over the footway, the street inspector said that the defendant had on Sunday, the 30th ult., a number of cages on a small board "over the shop," the birds and cages attracting a crowd on the pavement.—The magistrate said that the defendant could not be held responsible for the crowd. Did the cages obstruct the footway?—The solicitor said he did not allege obstruction. Under the section of the Act of George III. any goods hung outside were mentioned, and the owners were liable after notice. The defendant had had notice.—The Magistrate: But all over the metropolitan area drapers and others hang out their goods to the infringement of the public right.—The solicitor said that Bethnal-green prosecuted them.—The vestry clerk, said that he should like to inform the magistrate that prior to 1869 the task of regulating street trades was undertaken by the police, but Sir William Harcourt, when Home Secretary, sanctioned an order casting the duty upon the vestries. The vestry of Bethnal-green had adopted, with some small amendments in favour of the traders, the regulations made by the police, with the addition that it was thought advisable to have the streets cleared after eleven o'clock on Sunday mornings of street traders and things that hung from shops over the footways. It was not sought to have the shops closed.—The Magistrate: I think it is a great pity these matters have not been left in the hands of the police, and I think when the matter is considered—as it probably will be—it will revert to the police again.—The vestry clerk would be very glad.—The defendant said he had had his shop front altered, and did not now put anything outside.—The magistrate said he had better comply with the regulations of the vestry. Perhaps a change might take place.—The defendant was ordered to pay 2s costs, and the same result attended the hearing of the other cases, fines in addition being inflicted in one or two.—After the hearing of the cases the solicitor requested permission to say a few words as to the matter before the Court on Monday, in the course of which a Mrs. Donovan alleged that the brokers had been put in by her landlord owing to her inability to pay her rent through being prevented, by the Vestry seizing her barrow, from going out to earn her living. It had been thought right to have inquiries made into that statement, and it was found to be utterly without foundation.—The magistrate said that Mrs. Donovan was not now present to make any reply to that assertion.—The Solicitor: Her statement has gone forth and caused a good deal of comment.—The Magistrate: I dare say yours will now, but she is not here to reply to it.

DALSTON.—Charge Dismissed.—Thomas Peck, a beer-house keeper, of Blackstock-road, Islington, was brought up on remand before Mr. Curtis Bennett, charged with stealing a quantity of bricks.—Mr. S. Roberts, solicitor, defended.—The magistrate discharged the accused.

Dover.—Bar. 29·93, falling; wind westerly, light; weather fine; sea smooth; steamers had good passages.

According to the reports this morning the weather is likely to remain generally fair.

Dewsbury Election.—Last night, at a meeting of Liberals at Batley—forming part of the borough of Dewsbury—a resolution adopting Mr. Mark Oldroyd as Liberal candidate was carried with great enthusiasm.

Education in England, France, and Germany for Daily Pupils and Boarders from all Parts of the World at exactly the same cost as in England alone.—"Haysman's System of International Education," founded 1862, guarantees a thorough Commercial or Professional Education, and enables pupils to perfect Conversational French and German in Paris, Boulogne, Bonn, or Hanover without any extra charge, trouble, or anxiety to parents. North London and Metropolitan railways issue tickets at reduced rates to Daily Pupils from all parts of London and the suburbs. Entire care of youths from Spain, India, America, Colonies.—Address Secretary, International College, Finchley-road, London. Pupils also received in France or Germany only.—(Advertisement.)

Sir James Murray's Patent Fluid Magnesia secures a perfect digestion, corrects acidity, and relieves heartburn, without injury to the coats of the stomach. Effectual in cases of irregular digestion, gout, and gravel, and the safest corrective for women and children. Recommended by medical men, from Sir Humphrey Davy and Sir Astley Cooper to leading modern physicians. In bottles 1s. each, of all chemists and patent medicine vendors.—(Advt.)

Caution to the Public.—Moeder's Hire System for Furnishing is the original and best, and was founded by him A.D. 1868. All others, all the world over, are imitations, no matter under whatever name they are advertised. For particulars apply 248, 249, and 250, Tottenham-court-road, W. Furnish direct from the manufacturer, from £10 to £10,000.—(Advertisement.)

"Cleanliness is next to godliness," but comfort is essential to a happy life. Men troubled with cutaneous disfigurements can never enjoy existence fully, nor can a lady vexed with a red, rough, or irritable skin, or bad complexion, be properly contented, though she may roll in wealth. By the simple application, however, of Rowland's Kalydor these vexing evils may be either mitigated or altogether removed. Many preparations sold by dishonest persons for this purpose contain injurious minerals, but Rowland's Kalydor is guaranteed to be absolutely pure, and has stood the test of over sixty years' trial.—Sold everywhere in 4s. 6d. and 2s. 3d. bottles.—(Advertisement.)

Electrical and Pumilio-Pine Treatment.—Every man and woman suffering from gout, rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, indigestion, paralysis, epilepsy, liver complaints, nervous debility, and any nervous or organic derangement, should send for one of Johnson's Patent Hygio-Electric Belts, which combine the efficacy of a portable voltaic battery with the hygienic properties of Dr. Dautigny's "Medicated Pumilio Pinol Felt." This belt is the only scientific bona-fide electric belt offered to the public. It is a marvel of efficacy and cheapness.—Write for pamphlet, post free from W. G. Johnson, Medico-Electric Belt, Truss, and Battery Company (Limited), 55, New Bond-street, London, W.—(Advt.)

A Royal Reward. The Thanksgiving at St. Paul's. Elizabeth's Triumphal Progress. God Save the Queen. God Save You, My People.

THE ARMADA.—The unanimous praise bestowed upon this historical drama and grand spectacle by the leading press of the country is mightily endorsed by the crowded audiences which fill Drury-lane Theatre at each performance.

THE ARMADA.—Times says: "A great success was achieved, and the fame of the theatre as the home of spectacular displays cannot fail to be increased by this latest addition to their number. Nor does the production lack merit in other directions. The authors of 'The Armada,' inspired by the thoughts which the tercentenary of the great naval conflict suggests, have set themselves to write a play which shall be fresh and interesting, and shall not depend exclusively for success upon mere scenic effect. The times and events which they have chosen for reproduction on the stage are among the most stirring in the whole annals of British history; they supply abundant opportunities for appealing to the patriotic sentiment, and they bristle with romantic and picturesque incident."

THE ARMADA.—Times says: "The great naval display, which can be called no less than a triumph of stage artifice, was received on Saturday with shouts of applause, and if it stood alone would be sufficient to attract the public for many a day. At the fall of the curtain there was loud and prolonged applause."

THE ARMADA.—Daily Telegraph says: "In a scene of general excitement, Mr. Augustus Harris on Saturday night succeeded in launching one of the mightiest, most showy, and costly vessels that have ever been built in the dramatic docks of Drury-lane. The sea-fight between the Armada and the English war-vessels off Calais may be pronounced the most effective historical picture ever realised on the modern stage. The murky gloom of the atmosphere, the lurid light thrown on the opposing vessels, the awful fusillade of firing, the shouting and cheering of the sailors, the marvellous moving of the vessels to give the enemy a broadside, make up a scene so novel and impressive that it will not readily be forgotten. This Armada fight, in its design, its daring, and its execution, will be quoted as one of the boldest achievements ever attempted on the Drury-lane stage. This scene alone will attract all London."

THE ARMADA.—Daily Telegraph says: "In his pictures of the Inquisition Mr. Harris has been careful not to give offence. All was done in scrupulous good taste. In the scene once more we beheld a triumph of stage management and a brilliant flash of colour. It is a scene that will linger on the memory. Queen Elizabeth has to pass, under a baldachino, to Old St. Paul's, to make thanksgiving for the safety of her country. It is a procession of accurate costume, and those who would understand what Elizabeth's reign was like so far as it outwardly appeared can see it here. The old cathedral dedicated to St. Paul, the Cross, and the citizens appear here just as they were three centuries ago. This will be a picture that will be appreciated alike by the student and the sight-seer. 'The Armada' is one of the most distinctly creditable things that Mr. Harris has ever done. 'The Armada' is a noteworthy advance on anything that has been recently attempted in giving artistic and thoughtful work to a popular stage. Such enterprise must succeed."

THE ARMADA.—Daily News says: "The authors of 'The Armada' have drunk deep of the sentiment of the most stirring and the most truly national episode of our annals. The story undoubtedly interested and amused the spectators. The dialogue is exceptionally good. The great battle off Calais is the most striking feature and the scenic climax of the play. The characteristics of the fight, with the huge Spanish and Portuguese galleons and galleasses looming large in the glare of the fire-ships, and exchanging broadsides with the English ships, amidst the crash of falling spars and the cheers and [illegible] of the English sailors, were happily portrayed, and were all very stirring and rich in picture. Next to this for breadth and massive effect was the [illegible] yet well composed scene of the auto-da-fe in the grand square of Cadiz, and the imposing closing spectacle of the Queen's triumphal entry into Old St. Paul's. 'The Armada' may safely be assumed to be launched upon a long and prosperous career."

THE ARMADA.—Morning Post says: "In 'The Armada' Messrs. Henry Hamilton and Augustus Harris have hit upon a happy idea that will bring substantial reward to them, and will at the same time supply for months to come a great deal of enjoyment for the playgoing public. We may heartily congratulate the authors on the work they have done. As a drama there will be found an ample store of interest and excitement, pathos and humour, while nothing has ever been presented at Drury-lane Theatre to equal 'The Armada' as a spectacle. All the resources of scenic and mechanical art have been employed to give these scenes reality and picturesque effect. They not only delight the eye, but they are interesting as a record of heroic days. A stirring appeal is made to the patriotism of the playgoer, while success is further assured by the unbounded liberality of the management in placing the drama upon the stage. The exciting events on the English coast are varied and contrasted with vivid incidents in Spain, all the details of which are carried out in the most realistic manner, displaying the skill and artistic taste of the manager to the greatest advantage."

THE ARMADA.—Morning Post says: "It is the fight off Calais that most excites the audience. Nothing like this nautical spectacle has ever been attempted before, and the startling and realistic effects were greeted with deafening cheers. Warm commendation may be given to the principal members of the company. When the curtain fell Messrs. Harris and Hamilton were twice called to the front, and a speech was requested from the manager, who, however, contented himself with the simple question, 'Is the play a success?' The shout of applause that followed was the gratifying response to the managerial query, and we may therefore anticipate that 'The Armada' will keep its place in the Drury-lane bill until Christmas at least. The drama has all the elements of a popular piece. All these considerations, combined with the emphatic verdict of approval given by the crowded audience, lead us to predict with confidence the permanent popularity of the new Drury-lane drama."

THE ARMADA EXHIBITION is NOW OPEN in the SALOON of DRURY-LANE THEATRE. Persons booking seats for "The Armada" will be admitted to the Exhibition during the day.

NOW OPEN.—EVERY EVENING, at eight.

SHAFTESBURY.—AS YOU LIKE IT, TO-NIGHT, at eight.

SHAFTESBURY THEATRE.—The Times says: "The structure of the new theatre, as planned by Mr. Phipps, is as commodious and as comfortable as could be desired. In all parts of the house the spectator has a pleasant sense of roominess, while the corridors are spacious and the exits numerous."

SHAFTESBURY.—Miss WALLIS (Mrs. Lancaster) as ROSALIND.—The World says: "I cannot conceive that any one who understands the art of delicate comedy can fail to take pleasure in Miss Wallis's Rosalind . . . its true charm is intellectual. Miss Wallis gained more and more hold upon the sympathies of the public, who received with delighted attention and with loud applause the beautifully-spoken epilogue. I never saw a theatrical victory more fairly and gallantly won." The Evening Post says: "Miss Wallis is admittedly the Rosalind of our generation."

SHAFTESBURY.—Miss ANNIE ROSE (Mrs. Horace Nevill) as CELIA.—The Weekly Dispatch says: "Miss Annie Rose's Celia is an engaging and winning impersonation, tinged with a poetic grace that lends to it an indescribable charm."

SHAFTESBURY.—Mrs. EDWARD SAKER as AUDREY.—The Weekly Dispatch says: "Mrs. Edward Saker's Audrey was an amusing study."

SHAFTESBURY.—Miss KATE FAYNE as PHEBE. The Sporting Life says: "Miss Kate Fayne's Phebe deserves very special commendation indeed."

SHAFTESBURY.—AS YOU LIKE IT, TO-NIGHT, at eight.

SHAFTESBURY.—Mr. FORBES ROBERTSON as ORLANDO.—The Observer says: "Mr. Robertson has never played better, and we have hardly seen a better Orlando." Evening News says: "Mr. Forbes Robertson's Orlando is an admirable piece of work." Evening Post says: "Mr. Forbes Robertson is a handsome, gallant Orlando."

SHAFTESBURY.—Mr. W. FARREN as ADAM.—Observer says: "No better representative of the part of Old Adam could be desired than Mr. W. Farren." Sportsman says: "Mr. Farren's acting as Adam was perfect." Morning Post says: "The Old Adam of Mr. W. Farren could not be improved."

SHAFTESBURY.—Mr. MACKINTOSH as TOUCHSTONE.—Weekly Dispatch says: "Mr. Mackintosh's Touchstone was delightfully and drily humorous." Evening News says: "I have nothing but praise for Mr. Mackintosh's quaintly humorous Touchstone." Evening Post says: "Mr. Mackintosh fully maintains the brilliant traditions of the past."

SHAFTESBURY.—Mr. ARTHUR STIRLING as JAQUES.—The Daily Telegraph says: "Delivered the Seven Ages speech with elocutionary grace and excellent effect." Morning Post says: "Mr. Arthur Stirling's fine elocutionary gifts were displayed in Jaques." Evening Post says: "His rendering of the 'Seven Ages of Man' is a positive luxury to listen to."

SHAFTESBURY.—Mr. SEYMOUR JACKSON as AMIENS.—Weekly Dispatch says: "Mr. Seymour Jackson's singing in the part of Amiens was one of the chief attractions of the evening." Sunday Times says: "Sang Amiens' songs charmingly." Daily News says: "Sings the solos to the beautiful music of Dr. Arne in excellent style."

SHAFTESBURY.—AS YOU LIKE IT, TO-NIGHT, at eight.

SHAFTESBURY.—"'As You Like It,' as given at the Shaftesbury, is to be a memorable Shakespearian revival. Henceforth it will be voted the finest, the most brilliant, the most poetic, of Shakespearian comedies. Just glance down the list of names in the cast. When has London seen before such a combination of notable artists? Once a year, perhaps, at a special benefit performance, but never, as now, in a regular company."—Evening Post.

SHAFTESBURY THEATRE.—Daily News says: "Mr. Lancaster was received with friendly acclamations and cries of BEST PIT in LONDON. The acknowledgment was well deserved. At no other theatre, we believe, are the pit folk so comfortably seated or so conveniently placed for seeing and hearing what is going on. The remark might, indeed, almost be extended to the whole internal arrangements of Mr. Phipps's elegant structure."

SHAFTESBURY THEATRE.—AS YOU LIKE IT. For full cast see Under Clock. Entirely new scenery and costumes. Full chorus. The solos and incidental songs will be sung by Mr. Seymour Jackson. SHORTHAND.—27, Chancery-lane.—(PITMAN'S.) METROPOLITAN SCHOOL (Ld.). E. S. Gunn, Principal; R. De Bear, Head Master. A week's membership only if desired. There is not a School in London with more than one instructor

EXCEPT the METROPOLITAN, which has 20 instruction rooms and 20 teachers and readers (men). The effect of this is, that it is the only establishment where adequate private or individual tuition for every pupil and separate practice for writers of all speeds concurrently. Open 10 to 10.

AVOID INFERIOR IMITATIONS.—New schools, and those with cheap fees (very dear for the return to their pupils), which are a confession and an apology for a want of facilities and experience in producing efficient writers. (Beginners do not know what facilities a shorthand school should possess.) But sooner or later their students discover this, and are at the additional expense of completing here. Anything short of practical efficiency is worthless, and means time and money wasted. This school owes its premier position to the fact that it devotes the energies of its large staff to the one subject, Shorthand.

THEREFORE the METROPOLITAN SCHOOL'S RESULTS are the HIGHEST KNOWN. Soc. of Arts and Pitman's certificates. Its total exceeds that of all other schools in England combined. One thousand certificates recently obtained. Public reporting gold medal competition, all medals awarded. Tuition and practice until completed to pupils' satisfaction for a fixed fee. Prospectus post free.—27, Chancery-lane.

OLDEST and LARGEST SCHOOL. Estd. 1870. (Highest exam. results in the world.) Business men taught any time they can call. Private tuition. No class teaching. Separate school for boys. Prospectus post free.—27, Chancery-lane.

REPORTS of MEETINGS, LAW CASES, &c., by R. De Bear. Shorthand writers sent out to hotels, offices, &c. Free registry for clerks and employers. Inspect our list of vacancies, and obtain superior appointments.—27, Chancery-lane.

LADIES.—A large SHORTHAND SCHOOL, with separate teaching staff. Appointments.—Ladies, gentlemanly youths, and young men can be immediately placed, employers preferring our practically trained pupils. The City Press says: "This school is the powerful factor for supplying shorthand assistants." Prospectus post free.—27, Chancery-lane.

THE WHITE DRAWING ROOM.—A Gentleman writes: "Whatever I do I do thoroughly. I determined to renovate everything in my drawing room with 'Aspinall's White Enamel,' so I had all the furniture and woodwork well pumice-stoned, then painted one coat. When that was hard I had it again pumice-stoned, then another coat of 'Aspinall,' and when that was hard I repeated the pumice-stoning process, and put on a third coat of 'Aspinall,' and the effect is beautiful beyond description; a perfectly hard marble surface, white as snow, and smooth as glass."

ASPINALL'S ENAMEL is sold everywhere, or sent post free in tins, 1s. 6d., and 3s. (for baths, 1s. 9d. and 3s. 6d.), from the Works, Peckham, London. Colour cards, showing over 100 tints, free on application.

ABRIDGED PROSPECTUS.

This company is formed to acquire and develop the freehold property known as the Wolverine Silver Mine, situate in the New Silver Region in the district of Thunder Bay, province of Ontario, Dominion of Canada, containing 80 acres or thereabouts of valuable mineral land, lying three-quarters of a mile north of White Fish Lake and in the very heart of the extraordinarily rich silver-bearing district where to-day are working the celebrated Rabbit, Beaver, Porcupine, Badger, Queen, Silver Mountain, and other mines, the richness of whose products is now believed to be surpassing that of all other silver mines, even those of the rich Silver Region of Nevada.

The Wolverine adjoins the Queen Silver Mine, which is turning out ore at 120ft. from surface of a high grade, stated to be yielding up to as much as 4,000oz. of silver to the ton. The same fissure veins run through the Wolverine, and are known and proved mother lodes.

A remarkable feature attending the silver veins of Ontario is their extraordinary well-defined bearing, combined with increased richness in depth, thereby rendering their development free from the uncertainties which affect mines in other districts.

Mr. J. Gray, the well-known civil and mining engineer, says: "The Port Arthur or Thunder Bay section has developed more than double the wealth in the shortest time, and for the least outlay of any silver region in the world. This is an accomplished fact."

The directors refrain from giving any elaborate estimate as to dividends, but it will be seen that, even taking Mr. Roland's figures of 150oz. to the ton at 40ft. from surface, the returns should be very large, and that with the increased value in depth very gratifying returns should be forthcoming.

The purchase money for the whole freehold property is £[illegible] in cash and £57,500 in fully-paid shares, or partly in cash and partly in shares, as the directors determine. The balance of authorised capital, viz., £46,000, remains for working purposes, but this sum is considerably over the amount deemed necessary, so that the directors propose at present to issue only £20,000, reserving £20,000 for future issue.

The only contracts entered into are: See full prospectus.

Full prospectuses and forms of application can be obtained of the bankers, solicitors, and at the offices of the company.

SWEETING'S TOOTHACHE ELIXIR. A Safe and Infallible Cure for Toothache, Tic-Doloreux, Neuralgic Pains in the Head, Face, &c. This excellent preparation, instead of aiming at giving temporary relief, attacks the root of the disorder, viz., the stomach, a disordered state of which is almost invariably the cause of toothache, tic-doloreux, neuralgia, and other painful affections of the teeth and gums. Possessing highly tonic and carminative properties, the latter giving a healthy warmth, and the former tone and vigour to the nervous system, it gives almost instantaneous relief, and rarely, if ever, fails in producing a certain and permanent cure.

Sold in bottles, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. each, by all Medicine Vendors throughout the United Kingdom. Wholesale Agents, Barclay and Sons (Limited), London.

LONDON, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26.

Our Special Correspondent in Rome gives an account of an interview he has just had with Leo XIII. His Holiness desired it to be conveyed to the Catholics in England that his health is really good, though he has had much to trouble him of late, and has worked very hard. After referring to the steps he had taken in support of the labours of Cardinal Lavigerie to effect the abolition of slavery, the Pope spoke of the recent visit of the German Emperor, and said that his presence was rather calculated to strengthen the adversaries of the Holy See. He had reason to be satisfied in many respects with his relations with the German Government, from which he had obtained some valuable concessions. As the head of the Church, however, he could never countenance the demand of the State to keep in its own hands the exclusive instruction of Catholic children. Our correspondent learnt from other sources that at the Vatican generally the visit of the Emperor had been fraught with pain and disappointment.

In discussing the French Budget yesterday M. Peytral, the Finance Minister, said imperious necessity compelled them to retain for several years longer the extraordinary war estimates, the total for that department being 918,000,000f (£36,720,000 sterling).

A festive gathering in honour of the visit of the Russian fleet has been held at Cherbourg. Among other toasts, the Mayor drank to the union of the French and Russian peoples, while the Commander of the belted cruiser Nakheinoff gave the President of the Republic and the French Army and Navy.

The decree of confiscation on Sir Morell Mackenzie's book in Germany has been suspended.

Colonel A. Crookshank, Commander of the 4th Column of General M'Queen's expedition, has died from the wound he received recently near Kotkai.

King Milan's divorce is reported to have produced an unfavourable effect in Servia, and this has been heightened by the disposition of two of the bishops who opposed the ecclesiastical sentence of dissolution of marriage. Queen Natalie has, it is stated, telegraphed to the Metropolitan that she treats the decision as null and void.

Mr. Daniel Hand, a merchant of Connecticut, has given two million dollars to educate the negroes of the Southern States.

Continuing his opening speech before the Parnell Commission yesterday, the Attorney-General traced the course of the Land League and National League organisations from 1878 to 1886, and cited instances to show that there was the most intimate connection and co-operation between the Irish members and others mentioned in the action "O'Donnell against the Times" and the dynamite faction in America. It was by acquiescing in the violent policy hatched in America that Mr. Parnell was able to command such enormous resources, and he held that the power of Mr. Parnell and his organisation rested on crime. In support of this view he quoted many passages from the speeches of Mr. Parnell and Mr. Davitt, and from written communications from the former to the Irish conventions in the United States. The learned gentleman had not concluded his address when the Court rose.

In the course of an interview with the Secretary of State for War yesterday, Mr. Alderman Whitehead, Lord Mayor Elect, said he desired to signalise his mayoralty by doing something towards improving the equipment and otherwise enhancing the efficiency of the Volunteer force in the metropolitan district. To this end he proposed to raise a fund of £100,000. Since a parade of Volunteers could not be permitted by the military authorities on the occasion of the civic procession next month, he trusted that there might be a review when the celebration of the 700th anniversary of the Corporation of London took place. Mr. Stanhope regarded the suggestion in a favourable light, and promised to consider the matter when the proper time came.

Mr. W. H. Smith yesterday opened the new breakwater at the estuary of the Tees, and was subsequently the guest of the River Tees Conservancy Commission at a banquet given at Middlesbrough.

Levi Richard Bartlett was convicted at the Central Criminal Court yesterday of the wilful murder of his wife, and was sentenced to death. John Brown, who was charged with a similar crime, was admitted to be insane, and was ordered to be detained during her Majesty's pleasure.

A recovery set in yesterday on the Stock Exchange, and business was rather more active. Foreign Government bonds were bought for the Continent at higher prices. Home and American railways also improved, after being flat, while Canadian and Mexican were inactive. Copper and diamond shares advanced considerably. Consols rose 1-16 per cent.

Our Special Correspondent in the Italian capital has sent us a deeply interesting and, in many respects, a very important account of an audience which has been accorded to him by the Pope. Apart from the political and literary points—hereafter to be alluded to—upon which the conversation was courteously allowed by his Holiness to turn, we get new glimpses of the dignity and splendour which still mark the Papal Court, as well as detailed particulars as to the health and employments of the present Pontiff, which will be read by all the Catholic world with the liveliest attention. Nor by the Catholic world only. Innumerable people over whose consciences the venerable personage herein depicted holds no acknowledged sway will share with those of a different Church the pleasure of contemplating Leo XIII. as he is seen in private audience, genially and unreservedly chatting. It is thus we have the Holy Father depicted in this letter. At the further end of a dimly-lighted room leading out of an antechamber of the "Sala del Trono" our representative came into the presence of the Pope seated on a dais, his white robes and pallid complexion thrown into high relief from the dark crimson hangings of the wall. That our Special Correspondent found his Holiness of a perfect and benign politeness was natural, and accords with the character of extreme refinement everywhere attributed to him. "Slightly-built, frail-looking, exceedingly grave in manner, and dignified of bearing," the face of the Sovereign Pontiff has in repose an aspect of profound and rather mournful contemplation, but lights up with a peculiarly bright and kindly smile, while the observer is aware that beneath this tender and almost feminine air there works a powerful mind, well acquainted with all the passions and foibles of humanity, and all the arts of government and diplomacy, as well as a will which possesses the strength of steel, in addition to its elasticity and polish. The impression made upon our representative by his august entertainer was evidently a deep one, and is rendered in this respect more interesting because circumstances had long ago twice brought him the honour of an interview with Pius IX., the predecessor of Leo XIII. There could hardly, indeed, be found a greater contrast outwardly in the line of any dynasty than that suggested between the hearty and almost jocund bearing of the last occupant of St. Peter's Chair and this ascetic, delicate, and refined ecclesiastic, who now holds the Keys. As regards their devotion to the mighty spiritual and material interests committed to their hands, however, no difference could be noted, and in such unbroken fidelity of mind and resolute self-consecration on the part of her Pontiffs abides one of the chief glories and best bulwarks of the Roman Catholic Church.

Not less attractive than the surroundings of this audience in the Vatican are the details of his prolonged interchange of ideas with the Holy Father, which our Special Correspondent is permitted to impart. The conversation opened, after initiatory passages of respect and greeting, with inquiries as to the state of Pope Leo's health, which everybody will be glad to learn, from the very best authority, namely, the lips of his Holiness, is "really good." He said, "You may tell the English Catholics that I am well, considering my advanced age and the multiplicity of my occupations. Yes, my health is really good, though I have had a good deal to trouble me of late, and have also worked very hard." This eminently satisfactory account of the Pontiff's state and the mention of his literary and other occupations led naturally to an inquiry as to that "History of the Papacy during the Fifteenth and Sixteenth Centuries" upon which Leo XIII. was said to have been of late engaged. But it is now made known that the statement was delusive. His Holiness has found no time for any work of such magnitude, although he explained that the statement might have passed into currency from the fact that he had instructed "one of his most intelligent prelates" to compile a history of the Roman episcopate from the earliest times. That history is written and finished, we learn; and must be, we may conclude, something in the way of a compendium, for a whole industrious lifetime would scarcely suffice for the composition of a really exhaustive chronicle of the annals of the Papacy. The Pope was pleased, in his gentle and graceful way, to say what kind of literary work engages his hours of retirement. He writes Encyclical letters to his Bishops about Church matters and topics of moral and civil importance, "as, for instance, education, social reforms, and the great labour question." Slavery, too, is another subject which his Holiness is very ardently taking up, in assistance of the movement set on foot by Cardinal Lavigerie, who wishes to see a crusade undertaken by civilisation, headed by the Church, against that curse of Africa the slave trade. Long ago the poet Rogers wrote that when History summed up the good and great deeds of England it would put high upon the list of them that she "ransomed the African"; and it is gratifying to hear from the lips of the Pope that in his Encyclical on Slavery the Holy Father makes especial and laudatory allusion to this country above all others, "which has done so much, and incurred such great sacrifices," in order to effect the manumission of the African, and his protection from the slave-hunter and the chain. "With all these grave matters to examine, and with much State business to transact, not to speak of the countless duties incumbent on my office, you will understand," said the Holy Father, "that I have had no leisure to devote to a historical work on a large scale, such as that to which you allude."

The most important portion of this deeply interesting audience and conversation is that in which Leo XIII. permitted it to be plainly gathered that the Vatican has gained nothing politically, but rather lost, by the recent visit of the young Emperor of Germany to Rome. We must be careful not to overstate the significance of the words which fell from the mouth of the Pontiff on so momentous a question—words guarded by all the propriety and kindly feeling which are natural to this cultured and gentle Pope. If, however, such a man could exhibit the mundane feeling of vexation, we seem to perceive that emotion in his reference to the visit of "questo giovane." "His object in coming was favourable, not to us, but rather to those who are against us," the Pope said to our representative, and went on to add, "The Emperor of Germany came, after a round of visits, to Rome, where his presence was calculated to strengthen our adversaries, and consolidate their position. He came to see me; it was an act of courtesy, and I was glad to receive him. I had much to say to him, but just as I was beginning my discourse he interrupted me by calling in his brother in order to present him to me. After that I had no further opportunity of speaking privately with him." There is in this, and in the comparison which his Holiness went on to make between the young Emperor and the late Emperor Frederick, an obvious touch of chagrin; a voluntary lifting of the curtain from the secrets of European politics, which enables us and all the world to understand that in going to Rome the Emperor William II. was very steadfastly determined and prepared not to "go to Canossa." In other words, the hopes which the Vatican may have indulged of a possible restoration—even though partial—of the Temporalities of the Roman Church have for the present been quietly dissipated, which, of course, means as much satisfaction for Italy as dissatisfaction for the Holy See. Yet his Holiness was careful to insist that his relations with Germany were at present good; that he had cause to be satisfied with Berlin policy and with Prince Bismarck, who was "a reasonable man"—all is going well, he declared, "with our episcopacy and clergy" in Germany. There was, indeed, still some friction, said the Pope, in the matter of the education of Catholic children, which the German Government wanted to keep in its own hands—"a thing to which I can never consent; and, as you know, when the Pope is dissatisfied the Catholics are discontented." We may here note, in wider connection than with Berlin, that his Holiness further remarked, "When civil authority is righteously exercised it is always supported by the Church." The central point of interest in this conversation, however, remains what we have indicated, the undisguised discontent of Rome at the purpose and the issue of the Emperor William's visit to the Italian capital. It could hardly have fallen out otherwise under the circumstances of the European situation, and probably the Sovereign Pontiff was himself far too well-informed, as also too intelligent, to have expected from the young German Kaiser what he had not in his power to give or to promise. But there are "ways and ways" of taking a stand, and it may be quite plainly perceived that the "fortiter in re" was not on this occasion softened much by the "suaviter in modo." The Papacy is still, nevertheless, a power with which potentates and statesmen must reckon, however impossible may be its dreams of a recurrence to the old condition of things. The clear revelation afforded by our Special Correspondent of the mood of disappointment—and, indeed, of vexation—left behind him at the Vatican by the German Emperor becomes a new factor in Continental politics, and will have, it may be, far-reaching results.

Her Majesty's Minister at Washington has been writing a letter on American politics. The mere announcement of such an act is enough to make our old and departed diplomatists turn in their graves. If there is one elementary rule more rigid than another in the canons of international custom and law, it is that which forbids an envoy to interfere in any manner with the internal politics of the country in which he resides. We should think a French or Russian Ambassador had taken leave of his senses if, on the eve of a general election here, he were to express an opinion in favour of Lord Salisbury or Mr. Gladstone. We are not, as a people, quite so sensitive in this matter as the French, the Germans, or the Americans; but John Bull is still ready to resent anything like suggestion from abroad as to the management of his affairs. During the great debate in 1850, when Lord Palmerston was accused of carrying matters with a high hand on the Continent, and thus making England unpopular, he referred to the allegation that he had used English influence in France against M. Guizot. He denied the fact, and added that such conduct would defeat itself. "For if the people of any country," he continued, "believed that one of their statesmen was persistently assailed by the envoys of a foreign Power, it would induce them not to desert but to rally round him." His hearers, applying the words to himself, cheered again and again, since there was no doubt that Lord Palmerston's popularity in England was greatly due to the fact that, above all our Foreign Ministers, for many years he was most disliked by Russian, Austrian, and French rulers. This kind of irritable jealousy of all "foreigners," simply because they are not Englishmen, has greatly faded away with us, but it is to this day rampant abroad. It flourishes in France, where M. Ferry is still an object of distrust, because, when in power, he worked cordially with Prince Bismarck. A recent painful controversy indicates how Germans dislike any claim of superiority by English over native men of science or skill. The Americans have had this feeling ever since the colonies coalesced into a State. They believe that England is plotting here and conspiring there, and that, whether she denounces slavery or befriends the Confederates or attacks the Protective system, her one aim is to cripple and paralyse the Great Republic. The caricature is obvious, yet there are Senators, representatives, and leading journalists who speak and write as if this picture of John Bull were a true portrait.

Dealing with a people so preposterous in their prejudices and sensibility, Lord Sackville might certainly have been more guarded in the expression of his opinions on the Presidential contest. It appears that a British naturalised citizen wrote to him for information to guide him as to his vote in the impending contest. Lord Sackville answered him privately, but he should not have answered him at all. The letter was addressed to him as British Minister, and it is not the business of our representative at Washington to guide American citizens, of English birth or otherwise, in their political acts. It may be said that correspondence is sacred, and that, as the letter was marked "Private," the recipient had no right to publish it. This would be a legitimate excuse if Lord Sackville had written to a friend; but his correspondent was a complete stranger, and therefore the letter does not come under the category of ordinary communications from one gentleman to another in the unreserved intercourse of private life. Moreover, Lord Sackville is well aware of the customs and manners of American politicians during a Presidential campaign. He knows that nothing is sacred to the managers on these occasions, and that they would publish their own or their enemy's most confidential love-letters—and, if necessary, forge them—if thereby they could affect the issue. The moment he received the inquiring epistle he ought to have suspected a trap, and have left it unanswered, or else answered it declining to give advice. Instead of this obvious course, he sat down and penned a letter expressing his opinion that, notwithstanding President Cleveland's threat of retaliation, the Democratic party is "still desirous of maintaining friendly relations with Great Britain, and of settling all questions with Canada which have been unfortunately reopened since the retraction of the Treaty by the Republican majority in the Senate, and by the President's Message to which you allude. . . . There is every reason to believe that, while upholding the position he (President Cleveland) has taken, he will manifest a spirit of conciliation in dealing with the question involved in his Message." This English certificate to the character and good intentions of one of the candidates has of course been eagerly seized by the opposing party as a convincing proof of his depravity. One Republican journalist says: "The British Minister is right in his facts—the President is England's man. He stands for foreign rather than for American interests. But it is an unpardonable affront to the intelligence and patriotism of the country that Lord Sackville, in the pending elections, should take advantage of his official position to influence the naturalised citizens of his own nationality. Americans want no advice from the representatives of foreign Courts respecting their political affairs, and they must resent official attempts on the part of the British Minister to array citizens of English and Canadian birth against the Republican party." This indignation is, of course, assumed. Lord Sackville's letter is really one of the most precious documents that Republican election agents can command. Already they have denounced Mr. Cleveland as England's nominee. They have published forged extracts from leading London papers expressing an anxious desire for his election. They represent English manufacturers gloating over their gains when, on the reduction of the American tariff by the Free Trade party, they will pour in their goods, undersell and ruin the rising native manufacturers, and drive to starvation and misery the American working man. Now, however, they need not rely on inferences and forgeries; they have Lord Sackville's own words intimating his preference for "Cleveland" and his objection to "Harrison." We suppose that the British Minister is not at heart a friend to the Republicans, but if he were he could not have helped them better than by allowing it to appear in an official, though private, letter, that he was a partisan of the Democrats. We must acquit him of such disingenuousness, but at the expense of his acuteness and common sense.

The extent to which public men in America pander to the national prejudices is illustrated in an amusing way by some recent utterances of Senator Ingalls to the inevitable interviewer. This wild Senator, whose position alone gives his words some claim to attention, said: "England is the only enemy we have among the nations, and sooner or later we shall be compelled by self-respect, if not for self-preservation, to obliterate every vestige of British power from this hemisphere. There is no alternative. The guns of Halifax and Vancouver are pointed at us. The Canadian Pacific Railroad, built by England's subsidies, makes our northern frontier more vulnerable than our sea-coast. Great Britain, jealous of our supremacy, is inexorably opposed to our territorial expansion toward the Pole and the Equator. Her circumvallation is complete. Her navy stations and fortresses menace us from every point of the compass." It is perhaps impossible to cram into a short space a greater amount of inflammatory nonsense. Every Englishman knows that there is no concession we would not make, consistent with honour, to avoid what all would consider a most painful calamity—a war with the United States. It would be ungrateful, as well as unnatural, if any Englishman regarded with jealousy the growth and prosperity of the Great Republic, for it may some day be the sphere of his own exertions or the home of his own children. In fact, every English-speaking man has an interest in the future of America. As to hindering the expansion of the United States towards the Equator, not we, but Mexico, stands in the way, and the worst enemies of the Yankee race could not wish it a worse fate than an attempt to incorporate the most troublesome people on the face of the earth. As to the North Pole, it is the Canadians, with ideas and interests of their own, who object to annexation. If America marches, as the Senator says, on Montreal or Quebec, she will attack England in form, but Canada in fact, and she has to thank her tariff if Canada has developed national manufactures of her own. Every threat of political force or commercial retaliation intensifies the feeling of Canadian nationality, not against us, but against the Republic itself. As to the issue of the Presidential contest, it is no longer of any great interest to people in this country. Although General Harrison is a Protectionist President Cleveland is not a Free Trader, while the Retaliation Message and recent jobs show that in pandering to international jealousies, and in the arts of political corruption, there is not much to choose between the two parties. An Englishman abroad may write a silly letter, but Englishmen at home care very little who enters the White House next year.

"À propos de bottes!" Boots have for many ages played a conspicuous part in the history of mankind. When Charles VII. ascended the throne of France he was in such reduced circumstances that he was at a loss to find a loyal subject who would supply him with a coronation pair of boots, which, according to the precedent established by Philip Augustus, were to be of white satin embroidered with golden lilies. Don John of Austria, if we are to believe tradition, was poisoned by a pair of boots the inner soles of which had been rubbed with noxious ingredients. Nor in fiction have boots failed to fill an equally prominent position. The seven-leagued boots, and those worn by the famous Puss, are still the delight of the nursery; and playgoers have not forgotten the stern defiance to all and sundry by Bombastes Furioso, when he hung up his nether integuments to the branch of the tree and warned all mankind that "He who dared these boots displace Must meet Bombastes face to face." So far, however, as we are aware, a very curious exhibition which has just been opened at Dresden is the first organised attempt to present a display of historic boots and shoes worn by famous personages, and the most attractive exhibits in the Saxon capital seem to be boots and shoes of the First Napoleon. The personal relics of Napoleon the Great have long since been valued both by curio-hunters and by fanatical admirers of the genius of the Great Captain; and there must be very few people unacquainted with the presentment of "Boney" in a grey great-coat over a green uniform, a little cocked hat, buckskin small-clothes, and high boots. The happy thought, however, of confining an exhibition solely to the covering of the pedal extremities of a single celebrity must be considered as practically a novelty, well worthy the attention of the student. It is, besides, thoroughly in accordance with the fitness of things that some one should take the trouble to gather together so much as was obtainable of this particular portion of the Corsican's wardrobe, since, to use a figure of speech not, it is to be hoped, too Hibernian in its construction, it may be said that a pair of boots were the turning-point in the Corsican's wonderful career. When the young commandant of artillery had fallen into disgrace with the Convention, and was almost despairing of obtaining employment in his own country, he demanded permission to quit the French service and enter that of the Sultan of Turkey, who was preparing an expedition against Austria. At the last moment, however, through the influence of Freron, the young Corsican was nominated to a command in another direction, and a delay of fifteen days was accorded to him ere he repaired to his post. He had ordered several pairs of boots from a tradesman whose shop only a few years since might be seen opposite the Palais de Justice at Paris. This man of leather duly finished the boots and brought them to his customer together with his bill; but the General, suffering from that "eternal want of pence which vexeth public men," had no ready money, and proposed to give the bootmaker an order on the Minister of War, which draft the tradesman firmly but politely refused to accept. Upon this Napoleon flew into a rage and sent the man about his business, boots and all. He wrote to the War Office to grant him a further delay, hoping, perhaps, to find some more confiding fabricator of "closed uppers"; but meanwhile Barras wrote to tell him not to leave Paris at all. The Revolution of the 12th Vendémiaire broke out; the Corsican came again to the front; and it was afterwards pleasantly said that he rose to be Emperor and King "à propos de bottes."

What, however, it may be asked, is the origin of this locution, which is almost as familiar on English as on Gallic lips? According to the most trustworthy authorities, the saying arose from one of the courtiers of Francis I. complaining to the King that he had lost an important lawsuit, and that the judges had presumed to "débotter" him, by which the courtier meant "débotaire," the law-Latin for "débouter," to reject, overrule, or non-suit. The King could not help laughing at this odd translation of a legal term; but the courtier's blunder had at least one beneficial effect in the circumstance that a Royal decree was issued ordaining that henceforth all forensic pleadings should be drawn in French instead of Latin. The misinterpretation of "débotaire" as "débotter" was not, however, more absurd than the English translation as "boot and saddle" of the French "bouteselle," which is simply a trumpet-call warning the troopers to be ready to mount, and has nothing whatever to do with boots. To revert to those of Napoleon, it is to be hoped that the specimens exhibited at Dresden are displayed in strictly chronological order; and the Napoleonic iconography is fortunately complete enough to enable us to know with exactitude what kinds of boots and shoes were worn by him from his first entrance into active life to his death at St. Helena. As to how he was shod, or, more probably, unshod, in his childish days, at Ajaccio, history may be comparatively silent; and, if there be any truth in the story that he was such a young sloven, but at the same time so easily susceptible to the shafts of Cupid, that his schoolfellows used to call after him, "Napoleon, with his stockings about his heels, makes love to Giacominetta," it is possible that his early shoes were of the rudest nature. He was only ten when he entered the Military School at Brienne, and fourteen when he was transferred to the École Militaire at Paris; and at both these establishments the cost of his wardrobe, shoes included, was defrayed by the State. The first pair of military boots which can be said to have been his own property were those he donned in 1786, when he obtained a commission as sub-lieutenant in the artillery regiment of La Fère. They were boots of soft black leather, reaching to the knee; but seven years afterwards, when the lieutenant was promoted to a captaincy, his boots were of the kind called "à la Souvaroff," somewhat resembling the boots long popular in England as Hessians. At Toulon, where he had the brevet of a General of Brigade, Napoleon wore top-boots of precisely the same pattern as those which adorn "The Three Jolly Postboys" in Mr. Stacy Marks' picture; and these top-boots he continued to wear as Commander-in-Chief of the Army of Italy, and as part of his military uniform as First Consul. Those "tops" have been immortalised in the exquisitely beautiful picture by Isabey of the First Consul standing alone in the garden of his country-house, the engraving from which is known among print-collectors as the "Adieu Malmaison." He also patronised tops at Marengo; but that particular form of boot was definitively discarded when the Conqueror assumed the Imperial Crown. Perhaps he thought some latent idea of democracy might linger in top-boots, which, "mutatis mutandis," have always been accounted in England an emblem of staunch Conservatism. At all events, it was in long boots of the Life Guardsman pattern that Napoleon appeared at Austerlitz; and to these jack-boots he adhered throughout the duration of the Empire.

"À propos de bottes." There are few more melancholy episodes in the last days of the exile at Longwood than the schedules drawn up in his own hand of his personal belongings. Gold and jewels galore he had brought away from France; he had managed to secrete a diamond necklace worth two hundred thousand francs, the parting gift of Queen Hortense; and in his will he bequeathed legacies to the amount of millions. The inventory of his wardrobe, however, always in his own hand, shows that the once master of Europe had only half-a-dozen shirts, as many pocket-handkerchiefs, six pairs of silk stockings, two hats, two pairs of cambric sheets, two pairs of boots, and two of slippers. A lamentable catalogue, the squalor of which is relieved by the entry of "one blue cloak, that which I had at Marengo." That cloak was to serve as his pall. The mantle surmounted his coffin when it was borne on the shoulders of British Grenadiers to the tomb in the Valley of the Willows; it was the same cloak that covered the stately catafalque on which nineteen years afterwards his ashes were carried to the Invalides. Of the two mournful pairs of boots which he left at St. Helena, one pair was placed on his dead body when it was dressed in full uniform and deposited in a coffin made of tin—for no lead coffin was obtainable. When his remains were exhumed in 1840 it was found that the thread with which the boots had been sewn had decayed, and the bones of the feet were visible between the upper leathers and the soles; otherwise the good leather had borne the brunt of the years stoutly. How should it have been otherwise, when it is remembered that Napoleon's boots for fourteen years were made by one famous tradesman, a Pole, whose shop was in the Palais Royal, who kept a set of the Imperial lasts which he used successively to inscribe with the names of the Imperial victories, from Austerlitz to Montmirail? One pair of the last series of boots made for the Emperor and King are mouldering now in the great sarcophagus beneath the golden dome on the banks of the Seine. The remaining pair passed to his valet de chambre, Marchand. At the funeral at St. Helena those boots were, according to the touching military etiquette in such cases made and provided, suspended, reversed, to the saddle of the charger which was led by a groom behind the hearse. Whither the boots wandered afterwards it would be difficult to tell. It is enough to know that every procurable rag and scrap, down to a button or a gaiter-strap, which once belonged to a man whom our grandfathers' children were taught to regard as an ogre and a fiend in human shape is eagerly garnered up and treasured as though it formed part of the relics of a martyr and a saint. Yet, as there are sermons in stones, should there be also even more eloquent homilies in old clothes. Could there be a more scathing rebuke to the pomp, pride, and ambition of man than that list drawn up at Longwood by the Conqueror and Captive of the Earth, with its grim entries of six shirts, six pocket-handkerchiefs, and two pairs of boots?

The Court.

BALMORAL, Oct. 25.

Yesterday morning the Queen went out with their Royal Highnesses Prince and Princess Henry of Battenberg.

Her Majesty drove out in the afternoon accompanied by Princess Beatrice, and attended by the Countess of Erroll.

Sir Algernon and Lady Borthwick and the Right Hon. C. T. Ritchie had the honour of dining with the Queen and the Royal family.

Major-General Sir John M'Neill, K.C.B., V.C., has left the Castle.

TO-DAY'S ARRANGEMENTS.

Charing-cross Hospital Students' Annual Dinner, the Holborn Restaurant.

Brewers and Allied Trades' National Exhibition, Agricultural Hall (fifth day).

Brewers' Congress, Agricultural Hall (last day).

Racing—Newmarket Houghton Meeting (last day). Worcester Meeting (second day).

The Prince of Wales, who is staying at the Jockey Club Rooms, Newmarket, attended a dinner party given by Sir Maurice Fitzgerald (Knight of Kerry), on Tuesday. On the following day his Royal Highness dined with Mr. Leopold de Rothschild at Palace House.

The Comte and Comtesse de Paris are staying at Sheen House, East Sheen.

Lord Edward Cavendish, accompanied by Colonel Lascelles and Mr. R. H. Power, yesterday visited a number of the Duke of Devonshire's tenantry in the county of Cork. In the evening the party returned to Lismore Castle.

Princess Clementine, yesterday, received in private audience the diplomatic agents of Greece, Italy, Servia, Roumania, and Great Britain. The Austrian representative will also be granted an interview with her Highness during the next few days.—Reuter.

Lord Salisbury and Lord Hartington, who have consented to attend a banquet held under the auspices of the Nonconformist Unionist Association, at the Hôtel Métropole, on Nov. 14, will be presented with an address in favour of the maintenance of the union between Great Britain and Ireland, signed by Irish Nonconformist ministers.

At the request of the Ayr Junior Liberal Association, the Marquis of Ripon has consented to deliver a political address in Ayr at an early date.

Sir Charles Cameron Lees, Governor of Barbados, and Sir William Robinson, Governor of Trinidad, have both returned to the West Indies, after a brief visit to this country.

The Bishop of Bedford has appointed the Rev. L. E. Shelford, rector of Stoke Newington, and the Rev. J. S. Whichelow, vicar of St. Stephen's, Spitalfields, to be his chaplains.

Mr. Alderman Whitehead, Lord Mayor Elect, was entertained to dinner last night, at the Devonshire Club, by the Master of the Worshipful Company of Fanmakers.

Yesterday the fiftieth anniversary of the entry of M. de Giers into the public service was celebrated at St. Petersburg. During the day congratulatory messages were received from the members of the Imperial family, the Queen of Wurtemberg, and various foreign Sovereigns, including the Emperor William and King Humbert. Prince Bismarck also sent a telegram expressing his sentiments of friendship for the Russian Minister.

The vessels of the Channel Squadron, which have been lying at anchor in the Clyde during the past week, left yesterday morning for Liverpool.

Under the will of the late Miss Louisa M'Kellar, the executors and trustees have apportioned the sum of £400 to the Additional Curates' Society (Home Missions of the Church of England).

Balaclava Dinner.—The surviving officers present at the battle of Balaclava held their customary anniversary dinner, in commemoration of the day, at Willis's Rooms, King-street, St. James's, yesterday evening. General Sir E. Cooper Hodge, G.C.B., presided, supported by General Sir Thomas M'Mahon, General W. C. Forrest, C.B., General G. C. Clarke, C.B., General Sir C. P. Beauchamp Walker, K.C.B., General Shute, C.B., General R. T. Godman, Lieutenant-General Sir Roger Palmer, Bart., Surgeon-General Mouat, V.C., C.B., Colonel Mussenden, Colonel L. Prendergast, Colonel Trevelyan, Colonel A. Elliott, Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Wm. Gordon, Major M'Creagh Thornhill, Major G. G. Clowes, Captain Clutterbuck, and Captain E. R. Fisher-Rowe.

Apology to Portugal.—The dispute between Morocco and Portugal has been finally settled, the Moorish Government having agreed to salute the Portuguese flag at Port Laraiche, where the insult was offered which led to the action taken by Portugal.

Indian Army.—The Commander-in-Chief has appointed Colonel W. L. Auchinleck, of the 35th (Royal Sussex) Regimental District, to the command of a military district in Bengal, and he is to leave at once to take up the duties. Colonel R. F. Butler (half-pay), late of the Royal Fusiliers, has been selected to succeed Colonel Auchinleck in Sussex.

Fires in Hungary.—Our Vienna correspondent telegraphs: "A fearful conflagration broke out yesterday (Wednesday) in the village of Magyar Gencs, near Oldenburg, in Hungary, and in a few hours sixty substantially-built farmhouses, besides a large number of stables and barns, were destroyed. The inhabitants had no time to save their harvests, and much of their live stock perished in the flames. The frequent fires in Hungary are due to the fact that most of the farm buildings are thatched, while pyramidal hay-stacks and wicker-work sheds stand close together, so that a stray spark often suffices to lay an entire community in ashes."

Metropolitan Rifle Shooting.—It was yesterday announced that Private Rosenthal, of the Honourable Artillery Company, who has been for several years champion of the North London Rifle Club, had made the extraordinary score of 100 points out of a possible 105, with the Martini rifle, by 34 points at 200 yards, and 33's at 500 and 600. The score was made on the Tottenham Range on Wednesday, at the same time that Lance-Corporal Matthews, of the Civil Service Rifles, and Sergeant Gibbons, of the West Middlesex, made 98 each.

The Loss of the Steamer Atlas.—A Reuter's telegram from New York, dated yesterday, states: "The steamer Atlas, which sank after collision in the Lower Bay on Tuesday last, had on board 300 letters from Port Limon, in Costa Rica, for Europe, dated between Sept. 29 and Oct. 13, and these have not yet been found."

Fruiterers at the Mansion House.—In accordance with a custom now much over two centuries old, last evening the master and wardens of the Fruiterers Company attended at the Mansion House, and presented the Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress with an assortment of the finest fruits, the collection, which was tastefully displayed in the centre of the saloon, including pineapples, peaches, grapes, pears, and apples, and being surrounded with choice flowers. Formerly the representative of the chief magistrate was entitled to receive a sample from every load of fruit coming into the City; but as the practice occasioned considerable friction, the Fruiterers Company arranged instead to make a present to the head of the Corporation personally every year. At the presentation last night the Master, Mr. H. R. Williams, enlarged upon the exertions of the company to promote the cultivation of fruit in this country, the importance of which commercially would be understood when he stated that something like £8,000,000 worth of foreign fruit was imported annually. In the near future the company intended to do their utmost to encourage fruit-culture among labourers and artisans; and that there was room for work in this direction was demonstrated by the gradual spread of jam-making as an industry, five factories having been established in Kent during the last few years, from one of which nearly 3,000 tons of jam per annum was turned out. Acknowledging the gift, the Lord Mayor expressed his appreciation of every effort to foster good feeling between the Corporation and the City Guilds. Subsequently the Court and officers of the livery, together with the chairman (Mr. Judd, J.P.), and members of the General Purposes Committee of the Court of Common Council, and a select company were entertained by his Lordship at a banquet, where the usual toasts were cordially given, and felicitously responded to.

Brewers' Congress.—In connection with the tenth annual Brewers' and Allied Trades Exhibition and Market at the Agricultural Hall a brewers' congress is also being held. At the meeting yesterday, which was largely attended, Mr. H. Stopes being in the chair, Mr. Christopher Page Deane read a paper on the subject of the consolidation of the Licensing Acts, a measure which he strongly advocated as preferable to any tinkering of the existing laws. An address had been previously delivered to the congress by Mr. Albert Mott, F.R.S., on the licensing tribunals of the future.

PARIS DAY BY DAY.

[BY SPECIAL WIRE.]

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

PARIS, Thursday Night.

Tempting placards were displayed on the boulevards this afternoon, in order to entice idlers and saunterers to the Montagnes Russes. The programme of entertainment consisted of a luminous cascade, an orchestra of Viennese Belles et Blondes, and various minor shows, all in addition to the giddy attractions of the switchback railway. Nevertheless the Russian mountains failed to draw, simply because Parisians had a mild and almost balmy day, of which they were determined to make the most. Out-of-door resorts were accordingly crowded, and although the leaves were whirled about in the Champs Elysées and the Bois the air was delicious, and the whole scene radiant with the gleams of an autumnal sun. In such weather as this in Paris the approach of winter is never really felt until evening, when the fact is brought vividly home to the mind by the early gloom and the gathering fogs, by the absence of the garish lights in the vicinity of the Palais de l'Industrie, and by the silence that reigns in those bowers on the banks of the Seine near the Place de la Concorde, where al-fresco dinners, dances, and ditties are the rule during the genial summer nights.

I hear that M. Floquet will, in all probability, issue fresh instructions in connection with his decree relating to foreigners residing in France. The official mind has been some time in arriving at the knowledge of the fact that all foreigners, and particularly Englishmen, are not provided with the documentary evidence as to their identity, birth, and so forth, which the average Frenchman is expected to be able to produce off-hand at any minute of the day or night. Now, however, there is a prospect that some modification will be introduced into the new regulations.

No opportunity is lost of showing attention to the Russian officers who make their appearance in this country. At Cherbourg last evening there was a gala performance at the principal theatre, followed by a "Punch," in honour of the officers of the three Russian men-of-war now anchored in the roadstead. The fête was given by the Municipality, and was attended by a number of the Muscovite sailors and marines as well as by the troops comprising the garrison, who fraternised heartily with their foreign guests. During the festivities the Mayor of Cherbourg drank to the union of the two nations. The naval prefect toasted the Czar's fleet, while the general in command paid a like compliment to the Russian army. The commander of the Russian war ship Nakhimoff delivered a very cordial speech in reply, toasting the President of the Republic and the French army and navy. The fête was kept up until two in the morning, large crowds assembling meanwhile in the streets, and crying "Vive la Russie!" "Vive la France!"

The incident raised by the removal of the escutcheon placed over the door of the German Consulate at Havre has been satisfactorily settled by the Consul and the Sub-Prefect. It has been arranged that the escutcheon, which had sustained some injury, shall be renovated and replaced over the door by the head police official in presence of the Sub-Prefect. The Consul has applied to Count Münster to fix the day and the hour at which the escutcheon shall be restored to its old position, and as soon as this is settled the Sub-Prefect will preside over its reinstatement. So ends an incident which here at least has excited little attention.

General Boulanger's examination by the Revision Committee is naturally the theme of considerable comment to-day. In the lobbies of the Chamber this afternoon the answers returned by the General were much discussed, the prevailing opinion being that his presence of mind had not deserted him during the ordeal. Funnily enough, while a Moderate journal declares to-day that his prudence would have done credit to a "General . . . of the Jesuits," General Boulanger complains of the inquisition to which he was subjected. "I seemed," he remarked to-day to a Radical sympathiser, "to have been summoned before the Grand Court of the Inquisition." There is certainly no doubt, as I observed yesterday, that various members of the Committee took advantage of a unique occasion to indulge in a vast amount of "heckling." His critics abuse the General for having declined to reply to certain questions put to him; but, when all the circumstances of the case are taken into consideration, it would have been fairer to confess that General Boulanger displayed singular patience, if not forbearance. "What would you do if this and that were to happen?"—questions of this order were repeatedly flung at him, possibly in the hope that he might be caught tripping. "I felt very much inclined to invite them to a promenade (Anglice, to go to Jericho)," he exclaimed, "and not to enter into any discussion with them; but they gave me the opportunity of making some of those frankly Republican declarations that I have always been so proud to make." The General told them that he regarded a Monarchical restoration as impossible; but he says that his tormentors were determined to have his opinion on matters on which the country alone has a right to pronounce. He does not think that a legislator seated at his ease in his study ought to solve the problem of the relations between Church and State. The nation has a voice in the matter, and it should be expressly consulted. When General Boulanger was asked about the Dictatorship he could hardly refrain from bursting into a loud laugh. Of course he was the Dictator in posse. "A queer Dictator indeed! A man who listens instead of dictates," he remarked with a smile, adding that he was careful not to fall into the snares laid for him by some members of the Committee. He returned a polite answer, which, however, meant clearly enough, "That is no business of yours." General Boulanger promises to be more explicit at the banquet which is to be given in his honour on Saturday, when he will speak in the presence, not of inquisitors, but of free citizens.

The general debate on the estimates in the Chamber of Deputies was resumed this afternoon with a speech from M. Peytral, the Minister of Finance, who began by expressing surprise at the criticism that had been levelled at his Budget. It was true that it did not contain any reforms, but this was not the fault of the Government. It was a reproduction of the Budget of 1888, and therefore did not deserve more or less favour than its predecessor. There was no sensible increase in the expenditure. M. Daynaud had been greatly mistaken in the comparison which he had made between the Budgets of the last ten years to the detriment of the Republican régime. Thus, the number of the officials had not been augmented to the extent alleged. The real interest of this year's Budget lay in the extraordinary estimates. Imperious necessity compelled them to maintain the extraordinary War Budget for some years to come. This year it amounted to 130,000,000f. 548,000,000f had also to be provided. The Minister of War asked further for 370,000,000f, which made a sum total of 918,000,000f. To meet this expenditure the Government had already proposed various fiscal reforms, and among those which it intended to add to the list was the Income-tax. The next speaker was M. Amagat, who had an argument with M. Jules Roche, the Committee's reporter, respecting the accuracy of some figures which he had quoted, and the general debate was wound up with a lamentation from M. Dugué de la Fauconnerie on the increasing burdens heaped on the taxpayers' shoulders.

Fun rippled through the Chamber this afternoon during the discussion on the grant asked by a committee for the rebuilding of the Opéra Comique. The sum asked was 30,000f for plans to be prepared by native architects. Count de Douville Maillefeu opposed the grant because theatres of comic opera already existed. M. Lockroy, Minister of Fine Arts, defended the grant, because the Opéra Comique was the favourite theatre of families and of foreigners. M. de Ferronays, of the Right, and Count de Douville Maillefeu, of the Left, then collided in the tribune, the former remarking that they were both of the same mind on the subject, and that it was evident that the question was not a political one. "No," chimed in M. Clémenceau, "it is a comic one." After a little jocosity of this kind the report on the matter was sent back to committee.

This afternoon took place according to custom the annual public meeting of the five divisions of that illustrious body the French Institute, which comprises the Academy proper, or Forty Immortals, the Academies of Inscriptions, of Science, of Fine Arts, and of Moral and Political Science. Papers were read by the Marquis de Saint Denys on the opening up of Asia and the inauguration of the Samarkand Railway; by M. Ludovic Halévy, who discoursed learnedly and elegantly on the first meeting of the French Academy in January, 1673; by M. Bouquet de La Grye, who gave an interesting account of his ascent of the Peak of Teneriffe three years ago; and by other distinguished Academicians.

M. Ernest Renan, who has now returned to his quarters in the Collége de France, and who is in excellent health after his sojourn in Brittany, has been expounding his views on politics past and present. The learned Academician has twice been a candidate for Parliamentary honours—in 1869 and in 1878—but, to judge from the hopeless view which he takes of contemporary home politics, it is not likely that he will be tempted to give up his literary ease and try his luck in the coming General Elections. He says the electoral contest in which he engaged before the fall of the Empire was the most troublesome experience he has had in his life. He was a Moderate Liberal, but the electors of the Seine et Marne went in for a Radical, because they thereby thought that they could annoy the Government. Moreover, M. Renan became unpopular among the peasantry, who were diligently informed that he was in favour of the separation of Church and State and of divorce. The Emperor Napoleon III. condoled with M. Renan on his downfall, and shortly afterwards the difficulties with Prussia loomed up. Prince Napoleon told M. Renan that it would be better to allow a Hohenzollern to fill the Throne of Spain, because he could not keep it long. That was M. Renan's belief too, and he regretted that he was not a Deputy in 1870, for he would have called upon the Government to act more diplomatically than it did at the time. All this is, however, less interesting than M. Renan's views of contemporary politics. According to him the Radicals have inflicted evil on the country. Scandals and swindles, while not more frequent than was the case during the Empire, were publicly and cynically carried on; official functionaries were despised; and there was no longer respect for anything. The remedy, in M. Renan's view, would be a Constitutional Monarchy, but that could not be obtained without a revolution, which was not at all desirable. As to being a Boulangist, M. Renan said he could not follow the General, because that politician could only carry out his programme by a coup d'état. The philosopher is therefore, as will be seen, a lover of public peace above all things; but in these days more attention is paid to the utterances of a third-rate Deputy who may be in Parliament than to the admonitions or exhortations of quiet but observant thinkers like M. Renan, or of experienced politicians like his Academical colleague and friend, M. Jules Simon.

I hear that there is some likelihood of the transfer of M. Mariani, the representative of France at the Bavarian Court, to the embassy at Rome. M. Mariani is a nephew of the President of the Council; and you may remember that not long ago, during one of the Cabinet crises, his name was mentioned in connection with the portfolio of Foreign Affairs.

Like Léon Gambetta, President Carnot, according to an Imperialist paper, has the evil eye. M. Carnot possesses, says this authority, the fatal implacable head, the fixed, glassy, and lugubrious stare of a jettatore. The President must, it seems, be endowed with these uncanny attributes because when he went to Savoy the rivers overflowed their banks, at Cherbourg sailors were drowned during his visit, at Fontainebleau, where he was lately staying, conflagrations broke out all over the place, and quite lately two men died of apoplectic strokes just outside the Elysée Palace where he lives. This tremendous discovery on the part of the Imperialist organ is as good as the wonderful horoscope of Georges Ernest Boulanger, which was sold some months ago in many of the kiosks.

Splendid weather again favoured the Chantilly races, of which the following were the results: Prix de Sylvie—Quatre à Quatre, first; Lepinoux, second; Egmont, third. Won by a short head; four lengths between second and third. Prix de Bouze—Kiel, first; Candelaria, second; Verrière, third. Won by two lengths; a length between second and third. Prix de Condé—Prophète, first, ridden by Clout, 7 to 1 against; Volcan (Childs), second, 6 to 1 against; Nick (Bridgeland), third, 8 to 1 against. Won by two lengths; a length and a half divided second and third. Prix de la Fourrière—Girandole, first; Zebu, second; Olla Podrida, third. Won by half a length; a length and a half between second and third. Prix de Précy—Apothéose, first; Ma Mie, second; Mademoiselle d'Aubergenville, third. Won by half a length; half a length between second and third. Prix d'Enghien—Endymion, first; Faust, second; Frondeuse, third. Won by half a length; a length divided second and third.

On the Bourse to-day the last quotations were: Three per Cents., 82f 62½c (a rise of 12½c); Four and a Half per Cents., 105f 70c (no change); Italians, 97f 5c (a rise of 17½c); Turks, 15f 82½c (a rise of 12½c); Spanish Exteriors, 73f 50c; Egyptian Unified, 423f 75c; Preference, 507f 50c; Ottoman Bank, 538f 75c. Suez Canal shares closed at 2,240f, and Rio Tinto at 631f 25c. Home funds are dull, though there was another improvement in Three per Cents. On the other hand, several of the foreign stocks were active. Italians have again advanced, with Turks, Hungarians, and Russians. In Spanish Exteriors, however, there was no change, and there was a fall of 1f 25c in Egyptian Unified. There was a rise of 5f in Suez Canal shares. On the Petite Bourse to-night closing prices were: Turks, 15f 80c; Spanish Exteriors, 73 21-32f; Egyptian Unified 425f; Ottoman Bank, 540f; and Rio Tinto, 636f 87c.

REVOLTING MURDERS IN MORAVIA.

[TELEGRAM FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

VIENNA, Oct. 25.

A horrible double murder, recalling in some of its revolting details the Whitechapel mysteries, is reported from Leskau, in Moravia. The bodies of two young girls, aged respectively seventeen and nineteen, were found a few days ago in the Forest of Leskau, frightfully mutilated. A gamekeeper named Schinzel lived there, with his two daughters, in easy circumstances. The man is highly respected by his neighbours, and his daughters were remarkably well brought up. They lost their mother some years ago. Two brothers, the sons of a local merchant, had for some months past been regarded as the accepted suitors of the two girls, who, by the way, were both of them renowned for their beauty. The parents of the young men were frequent visitors at the gamekeeper's house, and no doubt was entertained that a double marriage had been satisfactorily arranged. Lately there appeared on the scene two gentlemen of distinction, a civilian and an officer, who were observed by the villagers to pay conspicuous attention to the gamekeeper's daughters, and were seen in their company constantly. They went to Leskau partridge-shooting, and shortly after their arrival the merchant's two sons ceased their visits to the gamekeeper's. A few days ago there was a hare battue, to which both the two strangers and the merchant's sons were invited. The latter, however, refused. After the battue was over the gamekeeper's daughters were seen in the Leskau Forest in company of the two strangers, but they never returned home, and for four days nothing was heard of them. On the fourth day a peasant discovered their bodies in the forest. The elder sister was shot through the temple and her two breasts were cut off. The younger sister was shot in the breast and neck, while a wooden stave pierced the lower part of the body, running into the ground. The merchant's elder son has disappeared. He is suspected of having committed the crime out of jealousy. His brother has been taken into custody.

DEATH OF COLONEL CROOKSHANK.

[Reuter's Telegram.]

SIMLA, Oct. 25.

Colonel A. Crookshank, commander of the fourth column of General M'Queen's expedition, has died of the wound which he received in the skirmish with the enemy near Kotkai a fortnight ago.

The terms proposed by the deputation from the Parari Sayad tribe, which recently arrived at headquarters, not being considered satisfactory, General M'Queen has burnt two more of the enemy's villages.

The following telegram has been received at the India Office from the Viceroy, dated Oct. 25:

"I regret to say that Crookshank died of wounds on Oct. 24, at Haripur."

INTERVIEW WITH THE POPE.

HIS HOLINESS AND THE GERMAN EMPEROR.

MESSAGES TO ENGLAND.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

ROME, Oct. 22.

This morning at eleven o'clock I had the honour of being received in special and private audience by the Sovereign Pontiff, who deigned to converse with me at considerable length, and upon subjects alike of special and general interest. In obedience to the Holy Father's command, signified to me shortly after the departure of the German Emperor from Rome, I presented myself at the main entrance to the State apartments a little before half-past ten, and, upon giving my name, was at once ushered through a suite of stately saloons to the Throne Room, at the open door of which a Monsignor—one of the Papal Chamberlains—met me with outstretched hand and kindly welcome, begging me to wait for a few minutes, as his Holiness was just then occupied with some unavoidable business; my advent had been announced, and I should be admitted to the presence almost immediately. En attendant, Monsignor was good enough to bear me company, and to point out to me the "new splendours" of the State saloons, which have been lately refurnished in crimson and gold, and adorned with beautiful tapestries, vases, and objets d'art chosen from among the venerable Pontiff's jubilee gifts. The throne from which the Sala del Trono takes its name is the one presented to his Holiness by the Spaniards—a magnificent piece of workmanship, daintily carved and richly gilt. In the framework of its deep crimson velvet baldaquin are encrusted two superb agates, about the size of ostrich-eggs. The windows, draped in white silk, of this fine room command a panoramic view of Rome, Cis and Transteverino, including the entire district known by the name of "Prati del Castello," upon which many scores of huge barrack-like houses, utterly forlorn of architectural merit, have of late years been erected, and cannot but be a painful eyesore to the august occupant of the Vatican whenever he passes through the suite of rooms overlooking the Prati, once so genially picturesque and now so ignobly vulgarised. The apartments in question are situate on the fourth floor of the vast Papal palace, that is to say, two storeys above the summit of the Scala d'Onore, leading from the great entrance hall to the Belvedere Court; and, like the hall itself, are guarded by Swiss halberdiers in striped yellow and red uniforms, whose former becoming fifteenth-century head-dress has been replaced by a leathern helmet of the "Pickelhaube" pattern. All the Papal attendants, not belonging to his Holiness's military and ecclesiastical households, are dressed in scarlet silk costumes of ancient fashion. For the most part they are elderly men, grown grey in service, and trained to a gentleness of utterance and deferential courtesy of manner which might be imitated with advantage by the loud-voiced and patronising lackeys of the Quirinal.

Shortly after the innumerable clocks of the State apartments had ceased striking the hour—oddly enough, no two of them sounded simultaneously—my summons came, and I was conducted to a small, somewhat dimly-lighted room, at a right angle to the ante-chamber leading out of the Throne-room. At the further end of this apartment, enthroned on a dais raised a few inches above the ground, sate Pope Leo XIII., his white robes and mozzetta and pallid complexion cast into high relief by the dark crimson hue of the hangings covering the walls. On either side of the throne were ranged three chairs, to one of which—that nearest to him on his right hand—he motioned me after I had made the customary salutations, in acknowledgment of which his Holiness half rose from his seat, and bent his head towards me. Then, addressing me by my name, he said: "I have been told that you represent a great and influential English journal, and that you wished to be received by the Pope. Your request, as you see, has been granted. What do you desire to learn from me? Ask, and I will tell you what I can." Upon my observing that the state of his Holiness's health was a subject of deep interest to many millions of my fellow countrymen, the Pope quickly rejoined "You may tell the English Catholics that I am well, considering my advanced age and the multiplicity of my occupations. Yes, my health is really good, though I have had a good deal to trouble me of late, and have also worked very hard."

This reply gave me a wished for opportunity of inquiring into the nature of the important literary work upon which, as was generally understood, the Pontiff had been more or less continuously occupied for some months past, and which—it had been asserted by certain organs of the press—treated of Roman history, in connection with the Papacy, during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. "I know of no such work," said Leo XIII. "If it exists, it has certainly not been written by me. My time has been too fully occupied with the discharge of my duties as Head of the Church to permit me to undertake a literary enterprise of such magnitude. Some time ago I instructed one of my most intelligent prelates—a very learned and industrious man—to write a history of the Roman Episcopate; not dealing, of course, with any century in particular, but with all the successive periods of the Episcopate, from its commencement down to present times. That history is written and finished, but by him, not by me. In the way of composition I have had enough to do, too; I mean to say, with the Encyclical letters I have written to my bishops about Church matters and questions of universal importance, as, for instance, education, social reforms, and the great labour question, all of which it was my duty to deal with. On the question of slavery, for example, I have just completed an Encyclical, addressed to Cardinal Lavigerie, which will be published to-morrow. You may be glad to know that in it I make reference to England, which has done so much and incurred such great sacrifices to effect the abolition of slavery. Cardinal Lavigerie is a good and very energetic man, who has taken up a sacred cause. I believe that he has been in England, and that he was well received by your compatriots, who, of course, sympathise with his righteous purpose. With all these grave questions to examine, and with much State business to transact, not to speak of the countless incumbencies of my office, you will understand that I have had no leisure to devote to a historical work on a large scale, such as you allude to."

I then ventured to ask his Holiness if the German Emperor's recent visit to the Vatican had proved satisfactory to my august interlocutor. "I cannot say," he replied, "that we are either satisfied or dissatisfied with the Emperor's visit. That he came to Rome was not at our request; nor was his object in coming favourable to us, but rather to those who are against us—to those who, for ten years past, have practically compelled me to restrict myself to this palace, from which I cannot issue. My dignity forbids me to do so. This young man (questo giovane), having acceded to the German throne, has been making a round of visits to European Courts; to St. Petersburg, Copenhagen, Vienna, and finally to Rome, where his presence was calculated to strengthen our adversaries and consolidate their position, not to benefit us. He came to see me; it was an act of courtesy, and I was glad to receive him. I had much to say to him; but just as I was beginning my discourse he interrupted me by calling in his brother, in order to present him to me. After that, I had no further opportunity of speaking privately with him. I did not find that the young Emperor resembled his late father, whom I personally knew and liked, and with whom I have conversed for more than an hour at a stretch. He was a wise and good Prince, very well read (molto istruito), intelligent, and large-minded. His manners were perfect. What he said was always full of good sense and kindness.

"With regard to our modus vivendi with Germany, in many respects I have good reason to be satisfied. From the German Government I have obtained many valuable concessions. Bismarck is a reasonable man; he can be convinced, and I have found him willing to accede to just requests. His son, too, who had a long audience of me on the evening of the 17th, seems very sensible and earnest. With our episcopacy and clergy in Germany all is going smoothly and satisfactorily. The vacant offices have been properly filled up with the accord of Church and State alike, and to the contentment of both. Of our religious Orders which had been expelled from Germany, three have been authorised to return to their spheres of duty—the Franciscans, Dominicans, and Benedictines. We are in negotiation about the withdrawal of the prohibitions affecting our Educational Orders; but there is great difficulty. The German Government desires to keep in its own hands the exclusive instruction of Catholic children. To this I cannot consent. The teaching-rights of the Church must be recognised, and their exercise must be duly authorised by the State. With less than this I may not be satisfied; and, as you know, when the Pope is dissatisfied, the Catholics are discontented. In the German Empire there are fifteen millions of Catholics, whose wishes and feelings must be respected, it being the interest of their temporal rulers to keep them contented. When civil authority is righteously exercised it is always supported by the Church. As the head of the Church I cannot countenance injustice done to those who are committed to my care, and whom I am bound to protect and defend."

The above, allowing for certain invincible differences between the Italian and English idioms, is the exact purport of the chief statements and observations to which Leo XIII. deigned to give utterance in the course of his conversation with me this morning, during an audience that lasted twenty minutes. I have only here set down those of the venerable Pontiff's remarks to which I feel justified in giving publicity, having heard from his Holiness's own lips that he was fully aware of the capacity in which I had approached his august person, and no restriction whatsoever, express or inferential, having been imposed upon me by the Holy Father as to the publication of any sentence or word spoken by him on the occasion in question. Whatever I have omitted has been personal to myself or to illustrious personages in England, with verbal greetings and messages to whom his Holiness did me the high honour to charge me. For the paternal kindness and pleasant geniality with which Leo XIII. received and conversed with me I have no words wherewith to express my acknowledgements. In manner, as well as appearance, the reigning Pontiff offers a striking and in more than one respect advantageous contrast to his immediate predecessor, Pius IX., of whom, during his long Pontificate, I twice had audience. The late Pope, when I knew him, was a vigorous old man of burly presence and jovial manner, liking to question rather than to be questioned, and displaying a marked predilection for "le petit mot pour rire"—of his own saying, of course, for what layman would dare to make jokes or even say "good things" to a Pope? Leo XIII. is slightly built, fragile-looking, exceeding grave in manner, and dignified of bearing. His features are strongly marked but finely proportioned; his cheeks and lofty brow are almost colourless—"sicklied o'er by the pale cast of thought." When his face is in absolute repose its expression seems to betoken that he is reflecting profoundly, but mournfully. When lighted up by one of his peculiarly fascinating smiles, however, it beams with gentle benevolence and tender loving-kindness. Altogether, it is one of the most interesting, attractive, and memorable physiognomies I have ever yet contemplated. That Leo XIII. is one of the most amiable as well as intellectual of living potentates no one who has seen him smile and heard him speak can doubt. But consciousness of power and strength of will are no less manifest in the glance of his bright eye and the tone of his clear voice, than is geniality of temperament.

During a brief visit that I paid, after my audience, to one of the chief dignitaries of the Papal Government, I was given to understand—by delicate hints rather than by downright statements—that, as far as the Vatican was concerned, William II.'s visit to Rome had been heavily fraught with pain and disappointment. Obviously, the improvement that had lately accrued in the character of the relations between the German and Papal Governments had inspired hopes which have been rudely dispelled. From the ecclesiastical point of view, naturally enough, the House of Savoy and its present advisers are regarded as the enemies of Holy Church. To gratify them the German Emperor came hither; on their side he has taken up his stand; their prestige throughout Europe has been augmented tenfold by his demonstrative behaviour throughout his stay here; he has announced to the world at large his absolute and unqualified recognition of Rome as their capital, inalienable and intangible. Is it to be wondered at that the magnates of the Vatican are downcast and depressed? They have good reason to regret the "young man's" visit, and to wish that he had stayed at home, instead of coming so far to grieve and discomfit them.

KING MILAN'S DIVORCE.

[TELEGRAM FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

VIENNA, Oct. 25.

According to to-day's telegrams from Belgrade, King Milan's conjugal coup d'état has produced a most unfavourable impression throughout Servia. It has been followed by high-handed measures against the Bishops of Nisch and Cacak, who apparently found it inconsistent with religion and justice to promote the Royal divorce. M. Pirotschanac, Queen Natalie's counsel, purposes addressing a protest to the Greek Patriarch at Constantinople. It is stated, on the other hand, that the Servian Metropolitan acted not only with the concurrence of the patriarchate at Constantinople but also of the Servian patriarch Angyelics of Karlovitz. M. Pirotschanac leaves Belgrade to-morrow for Jassy to confer with Queen Natalie. Meanwhile it is announced from St. Petersburg that the Queen of Servia will go to that capital early next month, and will occupy the same suite of rooms in the Winter Palace as did lately the King of Greece. In this country public feeling has from the beginning been adverse to King Milan, but for paramount political reasons the press has dealt leniently with the case. The origin of his differences with the Queen is of a nature unsuited for general discussion, though it in no wise affects the character of either of the august parties concerned. Then came political differences, and finally an éclat. The charge brought against her Majesty of having seriously intrigued against the King rests on very slender foundation. From all I hear on competent authority I do not believe it, though it is impossible to deny that relations between the Royal pair were such as to render a separation on the whole desirable.

BUCHAREST, Oct. 25.

According to a statement published in the Indépendance, and purporting to come from an authentic source, Queen Nathalie, on being apprised by the Metropolitan Theodosius that he had dissolved the union between herself and King Milan, telegraphed to that prelate: "I am informed of your decision. A marriage contracted in accordance with the laws of our Holy Orthodox Church cannot be dissolved by a communication published in the official journal. Take note that I consider your decision as null and void and without legal value."

LORD SACKVILLE'S LETTER

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.

Republicans are making attacks upon the British Minister, Lord Sackville, because, in reply to some inquiries from an English-born citizen, he wrote a letter advising his correspondent to vote for Cleveland. This is being used to stir up the Irish vote against the President. Some partisans have gone so far as to demand Lord Sackville's recall, upon the ground of his interference in the politics of the United States. The whole of this hostile criticism is of the most extreme partisan character, and will not be heard of after the election.

Serious times are expected in connection with the Manitoba Railroad war. At the request of the Canadian Pacific Company the militia have been ordered out for the protection of their property.

Betting is nearly even on the result of the Presidential election. Current indications are considered to be in favour of Harrison. Mr. Blaine is in New York, where he will remain for the present. He is confident of a Republican success.

The City of Cleveland has been obliged to suspend payment, owing to the disappearance of its city treasurer, who is a defaulter for over half a million of dollars.

There is great excitement here over charges made both by Republicans and Democrats of proposed election frauds in this city. Both sides offer large rewards for the detection of imposture frauds. Last night the police arrested over 100 people belonging to both parties charged with illegal registration.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.

In the course of an interview to-day with a representative of the press on the subject of Lord Sackville's recent reply to a letter from Mr. Murchison, a British naturalised citizen of Pomona, California, Mr. Bayard, Secretary of State, is represented to have declared that Lord Sackville had no other or better means of knowing the President's intentions than any one of the 65,000,000 of the American people, and that his personal opinion was not worth more than that of any one of them on the ground of knowledge, and much less on the ground of interest in the subject, while there must be a consensus of opinion touching the impropriety of the expression of individual views by any foreign envoy. Mr. Bayard added that it was still to be hoped that the Americans would be able to settle the issue involved in the pending canvass without the importation of foreign interference or intermeddling in their domestic affairs. The American people would be prompt to resent and repel as impertinent any such attempts, but would easily recognise the political pitfall arranged by the letter from California, with its object so plainly stamped upon its face, and addressed to the British Minister, into which he had so surprisingly fallen. Such petty schemes to break the fall of despairing politicians would, said Mr. Bayard, in conclusion, be held in their proper estimation by the popular intelligence.

Mr. Murchison in his letter to Lord Sackville asked for information, and referred to the gravity of the political situation and the duties of voters who were English by birth. President Cleveland's message touching the Fisheries question had, he proceeded, excited their alarm and compelled them to seek further knowledge before voting for him, though they had intended to do so, owing to his previous conciliatory attitude towards England. He had considered the President England's best friend, but he asked Lord Sackville's advice as to whom he should vote for. Other Englishmen, he added, felt the same as he did.

The Democratic papers assert that Mr. Murchison's letter is a Republican trick, in view of the approaching Presidential election.

LORD MAYOR'S DAY AND THE VOLUNTEERS.

The Lord Mayor Elect, Mr. Alderman Whitehead, had a long interview yesterday afternoon with the Secretary of State for War, at Mr. Stanhope's office in Pall-mall. Mr. Alderman Whitehead stated that it had been suggested to him that the citizens would like to see the Metropolitan volunteers marching in the procession on Nov. 9 next. He thought the idea an excellent one, as it would enable the people to see what advance in numbers and discipline the volunteers had made, and would, besides, in all probability, lead to a greater interest being taken in the well-being and efficiency of what was really a civic force. He was sorry to learn that the equipment of the volunteers was not all that could be desired, and he meant to signalise his mayoralty by doing something to assist in the promotion of their greater efficiency, so that they could take the field at a moment's notice if called on. With that object he hoped to raise a fund of £100,000, the income of which should be devoted to the better equipment of the volunteer corps of the Metropolitan District. During the coming year the 700th anniversary of the Corporation of London would be celebrated, and in his opinion advantage should be taken of that circumstance for consolidating and strengthening the numerous corps of the district. If a parade of volunteers could not be permitted by the military authorities on Nov. 9 next, then perhaps they could have a review later on when the date of the 700th anniversary occurred.

Mr. Stanhope said it was not desirable to interfere with the military authorities' view respecting the volunteers participating in the procession of the Lord Mayor on Nov. 9. He, however, regarded the proposal for the celebration of the 700th anniversary of the Corporation in quite another and more favourable light, and would be happy to consider the future proposals of the Lord Mayor when the proper time arrived. So far as he could see, there could not be the same objection to the volunteers participating in the celebration of such an important event, and he would be glad to do anything in his power that might assist even indirectly in increasing the great usefulness and efficiency of the Metropolitan volunteer force.

Having warmly thanked the Secretary of State for War, Mr. Alderman Whitehead withdrew.

THE COAL STRIKE.

Some of the leading London merchants have not advanced the price of house coal to the public in correspondence with the rise of one shilling per ton at the Exchange on the last market day (Wednesday). There is a feeling that in the present state of the weather such a step would check trade severely, and the wholesale dealers so far have therefore put up with the loss. There are signs that the effect of the strike amongst the miners of the Midland counties has been fully discounted, unless the area of disaffection should extend to other districts, particularly that of Durham. So long as Wallsend and the superior sea-borne coals continue to rule the market values the Derby brights and Silkstones must, it is said, give way. An absolute or even partial famine in Lancashire, Yorkshire, Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Nottinghamshire, is not regarded as probable, so many owners having already conceded the 10 per cent. advance which the workers demand. This is tantamount to an increase of pay of 2d per ton. Since last July the retail quotations of best coals in the metropolis have risen 4s per ton, the lowest summer price having been 22s for Wallsend, whilst the present figure is 26s per ton. Last winter the highest price obtained was 24s, or only one shilling above that which was asked in the preceding July. Consumers reckoning upon a recurrence of this state of things appear to have assumed unwisely that a shilling per ton saving was not sufficient to warrant their laying in a winter stock at summer prices, and many of them this year deferred ordering until the rapid rise made them unduly apprehensive, and they hastened to retrieve their delay. At the beginning of September the market went up a shilling, and a month later another shilling, in response to consumption, a spell of cold, unseasonable weather having induced many families to start fires at an earlier period of the autumn than customary. In the meantime there were rumours of the approaching strike, and merchants largely augmented their supplies, and the market prices still further stiffened. So great was the influx of coal by railway that there was a difficulty in obtaining trucks, and there are still large numbers of laden wagons at the northern termini. The disposition of the householder is to buy freely when he fears that the price may go up considerably; and it is believed that everybody who can afford it has acted on this principle, and will not be the losers by a strike, unless prolonged unduly, which is not anticipated. The poor and the lower middle-class, who have small means and restricted storage room, are, however, already experiencing the hardships of dearer coal. November in London, frequently a muggy month, does not, however, bring brisk trade to the dealers, and unless there should be sharp, cold weather during the next five or six weeks there will be absent one of the primary influences which has led to the advance of 2s per ton as compared with the winter quotations of 1887. For four years Wallsend has been obtainable in London from May to September at 23s per ton, and this low price was reduced this summer. One result has been that the miners have been underpaid, and the owners of collieries have in many cases received no dividends; permanent improved values are, therefore, of urgent consequence to them.

In nearly the whole of the Manchester district the advance of 10 per cent. sought by the men has been conceded.

The annual meeting of the Cambridgeshire Unionist Association was held at Cambridge yesterday afternoon, Dr. Porter, Master of Peterhouse, presiding. The Lord-Lieutenant, Mr. Townley, was re-elected president, and all the other officers were reappointed. It was agreed to have a dinner, to which some of the leading men of the party should be invited.

SHEARD'S DANCE ANNUAL for 1889, which is undoubtedly by far the best collection of dance music issued this year. "Its deliciously dreamy waltzes, among which we may mention 'The Silver Wedding,' by Felix Burns, and its lively lancers and quadrilles, of which 'Who's That a-Callin'' by Isidore Bonheur, are striking examples, easily obtain for it its pre-eminent and enviable position among its numerous rivals for public esteem."—Review.—C. IMPORTANT NOTICE.—LUNHAM'S mild-cured BREAKFAST BACON and HAMS, patronised by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales for his own use. The only bacon and hams consumed by him on his voyage to India.
The following appeared in the London "Grocer" of Sept. 29, page 11: "There is no better produce than Lunham's. One great advantage the trade will always have in purchasing Lunham's—and a very important one—price is fixed daily, thus avoiding the great loss which must necessarily result when price is fixed only once a week. In order to resuscitate the trade in Irish hams, all provision dealers should order Lunham's only, until this happy result is attained."
The public should insist on having only Lunham's. Each side and ham is branded "Lunham."

LOVERS of FISH.—Splendid ham-cured keeping BLOATERS, also KIPPERED HERRINGS, 50, 5s.; 100, 9s.; delicious mild bloaters, 50, 4s. 6d.; 100, 8s. Paid to London or Birmingham, 7lb. either sort, post free, 2s. 6d. Trade specially quoted.—Cash with order to C. MARTIN BAYLY and CO., Fish Merchants, Great Yarmouth.

A WONDERFUL MEDICINE.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

ARE admitted by thousands to be worth above a Guinea a Box for Bilious and Nervous Disorders, such as Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Sick Headache, Giddiness, Fulness and Swelling after Meals, Dizziness and Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushings of Heat, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Scurvy, Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, Frightful Dreams, and all Nervous and Trembling Sensations, &c. The first dose will give relief in 20 minutes. This is no fiction, for they have done it in thousands of cases. Every sufferer is earnestly invited to try one box of these pills and they will be acknowledged to be WORTH A GUINEA A BOX.

For females of all ages these pills are invaluable, as a few doses of them carry off all gross humours, open all obstructions, and bring about all that is required. No female should be without them. There is no medicine to be found to equal Beecham's Pills for removing any obstruction or irregularity of the system. If taken according to the directions given with each box they will soon restore females of all ages to sound and robust health.

For a weak stomach, impaired digestion, and all disorders of the liver they act like magic, and a few doses will be found to work wonders upon the most important organs in the human machine. They strengthen the whole muscular system, restore the long-lost complexion, bring back the keen edge of appetite, and arouse into action, with the rosebud of health, the whole physical energy of the human frame. These are facts admitted by thousands, embracing all classes of society, and one of the best guarantees to the nervous and debilitated is Beecham's Pills have the largest sale of any Patent Medicine in the world.

Full directions are given with each box. Sold by all Druggists and Patent Medicine Dealers in the United Kingdom.

Prepared only and sold wholesale and retail by the Proprietor, T. Beecham, Chemist, St. Helen's, in boxes at 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 9d. each. Sent post free for 15 or 36 stamps.

DR. LOUIS WEIGERT, an American physician, residing in Berlin, the inventor of a method for the CURE of CONSUMPTION, of which mention was made some time ago, and which has since been successfully tried in a number of cases, having been refused the privilege of scientifically explaining his method before the Berlin Medical Associations, has just made application to the Home Secretary, Dr. von Gossler, for the appointment of a Commission, to be composed of members of the Royal Prussian Medical Deputation, for the purpose of officially investigating his method. The action of the societies has created a good deal of surprise, the more so as it was known to many of the leading members of these societies that sufficient material had been gathered by Dr. Weigert to prove the feasibility of his method beyond a doubt, as numbers of patients who were brought to the doctor's sanatorium in a hopeless condition have either recovered or are on the way to recovery. It may be remembered that Dr. Weigert's method consists in destroying the bacteria, which cause the disease by means of the inhalation of hot dry air.
